This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

MINUTE OF MEETING

OF

EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD

HELD ON

WEDNESDAY, 8th JANUARY 1879.

AT a Meeting of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD, held in the Offices of the BOARD, No. 9 South Castle Street, on Wednesday, the 8th day of January 1879, at Three o'clock P.M.:

Present,—

Rev. ARCHIBALD SCOTT, D.D., Chairman.

Rev. WM. ADAMSON.	Rev. WM. SMITH, D.D.
THOMAS HARVEY, Esq., LL.D.	J. DICK PEDDIE, Esq.
J. GUTHRIE SMITH, Esq.	DAVID DICKSON, Esq.
JOHN TAWSE, Esq.	Miss PHOEBE BLYTH.

Miss FLORA C. STEVENSON.

Letter from Dr. Begg, regretting that he was prevented by indisposition from being present, was laid on the table.

The Minutes of the last Ordinary Meeting were held as read, approved, and signed by the Chairman. Mr. Adamson dissented from the portion of the Minute authorising the Chairman to purchase the ground in the corner of Cambridge Street for a site for West Port School, on the ground that his understanding was that the Chairman was only authorised to report upon the site in question.

The following Minute of a Special Meeting of the Board, held on the 18th December 1878, was held as read, and approved:—

AT a Special Meeting of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD, held in the Offices of the BOARD, No. 9 South Castle Street, on Wednesday, the 18th day of December 1878, at Three o'clock P.M.:

Present,—

Rev. ARCHIBALD SCOTT, D.D., Chairman.

THOMAS HARVEY, Esq., LL.D.	JAMES GOWANS, Esq.
Rev. SIR H. W. MONCREIFF, Bart., D.D.	J. DICK PEDDIE, Esq.
	Rev. A. WILLIAMSON.
Rev. WILLIAM ADAMSON.	Miss FLORA C. STEVENSON.
JOHN GUTHRIE SMITH, Esq.	Miss PHOEBE BLYTH.
DAVID DICKSON, Esq.	JOHN CLAPPERTON, Esq.

The Clerk read the Minutes of last meeting of the Board agreeing to hold this meeting.

The Board proceeded to consider the closing of Holyrood School.

Mr. Adamson moved, and Mr. Dickson seconded :—That the former decision of the Board anent the closing of Holyrood School be rescinded, and that it be kept on as a Public School.

Miss Stevenson moved, and Mr. Guthrie Smith seconded :—That the Board ask the consent of the Scotch Education Department to keep open the Infant Department of Holyrood School for the accommodation of children under seven years of age, and in the event of the sanction of the Department being obtained, that the School be kept open in the meantime as an Infant School, and that the fee be 8d. per month.

A vote having been taken, there voted for Mr. Adamson's motion, Mr. Adamson, Mr. Dickson, Sir Henry Moncreiff :—and for Miss Stevenson's : Miss Blyth, Mr. Clapperton, Mr. Gowans, Dr. Harvey, Mr. Dick Peddie, Mr. Guthrie Smith, Miss Stevenson, Mr. Williamson.

There being a majority for the amendment, it became the judgment of the Board.

The following Report of the School Attendance Committee was read, viz. :—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee have again to report to the Board the difficulty of enforcing attendance at school, in the case of a large number of children, who, through the poverty or negligence of their parents, are insufficiently clothed and fed.

The number of such children is estimated at from 300 to 350.

The Committee are of opinion that the existing Industrial Schools, which supply the necessary accommodation for children who can be sent to them under the Clauses of the Industrial Schools Act, do not meet the case of the class of children referred to ; and that the Industrial Schools should be supplemented by the establishment of Day Industrial Feeding Schools.

The classes of children for whom such schools are necessary are :—

I. The children of parents—widows and widowers—who being at work all day cannot look after their children during school hours.

II. Children of intemperate parents, who could afford to pay for their children's maintenance, and who neglect them.

III. Children of the truant and incorrigible class, who could not, however, be sent to certified Industrial Schools, and for whom the permanent restraint of such Schools is not necessary.

In order to make such Schools available for these truant children, it is essential that Day Industrial Schools should be certified Schools, as, in order to secure the attendance of the children, they must be committed to the Schools under a Magistrate's warrant or School Attendance Order, which should carry with it power to recover from the parent a weekly sum for the child's maintenance.

The Committee again recommend the Board to bring these facts before the Government.

The Committee would direct the attention of the Board to the fact that, from evidence given before the Endowed Schools Commission in 1872, it appears that in the provisional order applied for by the Governors of Heriot's Trust in 1870, they asked for powers "to provide Industrial Schools."

The Committee would therefore recommend the Board to bring the subject and the facts of the case under the consideration of the Governors of Heriot's Trust, who are understood to be preparing a scheme for the administration of the Trust under the Endowed Institutions Act of 1878.

FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

It was agreed to delay the consideration of the Report until the ordinary meeting in January, and the Chairman was instructed to communicate with the Right Honourable R. A. Cross, Secretary of State for the Home Department, and the Lord Advocate, with the view to have an interview with them on the subject of the Education of Destitute and Neglected Children.

The Chairman reported that in accordance with the authority given him at last meeting of the Board (December 11th), he had purchased from Mr. Gowans, one of the members of the Board, a piece of ground situated at the junction of Cambridge Street and Brunswick Place, extending to 1350 square yards, or thereby, at the price of Five thousand two hundred and fifty pounds sterling (£5250), inclusive of Feu-duty: that the Feu-duty payable to the over-superior amounts to Ninety-seven pounds sterling per annum: and that he would recommend, with Mr. Gowans's approval, that this Feu-duty be allowed to remain as a burden on the property: and that, after deducting the value of it at twenty-two years' purchase, the sum of Three thousand one hundred and sixteen pounds (£3116) be paid to Mr. Gowans. He further stated that the Board were to take over Mr. Gowans's obligations regarding the gables and mutual walls, and that in respect there were certain restrictions in the Titles, the purchase was not to be absolutely concluded until it was seen whether the necessary consents were got to a school being built.

The Board approved of the Report, and remitted to Mr. David Philip, S.S.C., with instructions to take the necessary steps to obtain the consents above referred to, and to conclude the purchase in terms of the Chairman's Report upon these consents being obtained.

The Clerk stated that the Board had formerly obtained the sanction of the Board of Education to the erection of a School to accommodate 600 children in this locality.

In respect that the Managers of the Free Church School of Fountainbridge have intimated to the Board their intention to close that School in July 1879, the Board resolved to ask the sanction of the Scotch Education Department to erect this School to accommodate 800 children.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Chairman.

The Clerk read letter, of this date, from Mr. David Philip, S.S.C., with copy letter, of 3d inst., from Mr. Kirk Mackie, S.S.C., agent for Grindlay's Trustees, superiors of the ground in Cambridge Street, in which Mr. Mackie states that "the superiors had in view that the terms of the Charter of this ground required the erection of dwelling-houses or shops, but in so far as they are concerned, it was resolved not to raise any objection to the erection of school buildings, provided (1) Mr. Gowans and the School Board will relieve the superiors of all claims by or questions with the neighbouring feuars, and obtain their consent to the erection: and (2) that the plans and elevations of the proposed school buildings will be to the satisfaction of the superiors."

In respect that objection had been taken by a member of the Board to the legality of the purchase of this site, and that the price given for it was said to exceed its value; and also that the consents necessary have not been obtained, it was agreed to remit the whole question to the Law Committee to consider and report.

The following Report of the Committee on School Attendance was read by Miss Stevenson:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee recommend that Mr. George Robertson, Head Master of New Street School, be requested to undertake the examination of children under thirteen years of age applying for admission to Evening Classes.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from the Rev. A. Mackenzie, Tolbooth Free Church, asking the Board to reconsider their decision regarding the closing of the Infant Department of Victoria Terrace School. The decision of the Board to close the School having been reported to the Scotch Education Department, the Committee are of opinion that the question cannot now be opened; at the same time, they are unable to find any reason why the Board should re-consider the matter.

The Committee agreed to call a Special Meeting of the Board, to be held in the Police Court-room, on Saturday, the 11th January 1879, at Two o'clock, to consider the cases of defaulting parents, and remitted to the Convener to revise the list of cases to be summoned before the Board.

The Committee also remitted to the Convener, with powers, to prepare a list of cases of parents whose children were found by the Officers selling Newspapers, etc., with the view to their being prosecuted in terms of the Statute.

The Clerk was instructed to print a selection of the names of parties recently convicted before the Sheriff for allowing their children to sell Newspapers, etc., on the street, and to take means to get them distributed among parents and others interested.

The Report was approved.

The following Report of the Finance Committee was read:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

The Committee submitted a statement of the cost of erecting, fitting, and furnishing of the seven new schools which have been opened, and whose accounts have been closed.—(See Appendix No. I.)

The Committee have to report that they have received the first instalment, amounting to £6735, of the loan of £15,735 from the Public Works Loan Commissioners, and that they have authorised the transfer, out of this loan, of £1735, being the cost of erecting the writing-room of the High School, from the Building Fund Account to the High School Account, and from the High School Account to the General Fund Account.

The Committee recommend that the writing-room of the High School be insured to the amount of £1200, and the fittings of the same to the extent of £200.

The Committee recommend that the estimates for apparatus, books, and slates, accepted last year, be continued upon the same terms till 31st December 1879, and that Messrs. W. & A. K. Johnston's Wall Illustrations be included amongst those which may be selected by teachers.

The Committee have to submit a statement of the expenditure of the various schools, as at the end of their respective school years, for 1878, the average cost per scholar, and the amounts credited to each school from Government Grant, Rate, and Fees respectively. —(See Appendix No. II.)

The Committee instructed the Clerk to supply to North Canongate School three clocks—one for each hall, from Mr. Bryson, George IV. Bridge.

The Committee instructed the Clerk to intimate to the Scotch Education Department that the Board will require £10,000 of the Building Loan of £40,000, applied for at last meeting of the Board, for the erection of Canonmills School.

JOHN TAWSE,
Convener.

The Report was approved.

The following Report of the Joint Committee on Law and Finance was read :—

REPORT OF JOINT MEETING OF THE COMMITTEES ON LAW AND FINANCE.

The Committees have considered Form 77 T, being the general order regulating the Triennial Election of School Boards issued by the Scotch Education Department, and dated November 1878, and also Circular 22, dated 2d December 1878, which accompanied the order, regarding the expenses of the Election.

The Joint-Committees are of opinion that it will be necessary to ask their Lordships to alter these regulations in some of their details, in order to suit the requirements of large constituencies, and they accordingly request the Board to continue the remit. In the meantime, they recommend the Board to ask the leave of the Department to authorise the making up of an Electoral Roll, which will require to be proceeded with at once, before it can be known whether there will be a Poll or not.

The constituency consists of all persons being of lawful age whose names are entered on the latest Valuation Roll, as the owners or occupiers of lands and heritages of the annual value of not less than £4. Females being entitled to vote, none of the other municipal or parochial registers are available, and the Valuation Roll of the burgh not being printed, a copy can only be obtained at considerable expense. There is, however, no reason why the Board should not get a copy made for themselves, which will be much the cheapest way, and under section 25 of the new Act they are entitled to access to the roll free of charge for this purpose.

If this meets the approval of the Board, the Clerk should be instructed to make application to the Town-Clerk for access to the Roll, in terms of the above section.

J GUTHRIE SMITH,
Convener.

The Report was approved, Bailie Tawse dissenting from the portion of the Report recommending the preparation of an Electoral Roll by the Board.

The following Report of the Committee on School Work was read :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL WORK.

The Committee had before them an application for increase of salary from Miss Alexander, Assistant in Dean School. The Committee recommend that, until the whole question of salaries of teachers and assistants be considered by the Board, no application for increase of salary from an individual teacher or assistant be entertained.

The Committee had before them an application from Mr. Charles Henderson, teacher of singing, for the use of Bristo School to teach a class of singing on Saturday evenings in connection with the evening classes. The Committee are unable to recommend the Board to grant the request.

The Committee recommend the Board to require of candidates for the office of Pupil-teacher, in future, to produce along with their application, a medical certificate of robust health.

The Report was approved.

Dr. Harvey further stated that the Committee, in accordance with the resolution come to at last meeting of the Board, had made the following arrangements for the examination of Candidates for the office of Pupil-teachers, viz. :—

The first examination will be held in North Canongate School on Saturday, 25th January, at 10 o'clock A.M.

All the candidates will be examined in the subjects of the Sixth Standard (Scotch Code 1878) and Dictation.

Papers in Euclid, Latin, and French will be set for such candidates as profess these subjects.

No one who fails in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, or Dictation will be retained on the list of candidates.

Candidates between the ages of 14 and 15 years must earn 50 per cent. of the available marks in the subjects of the Sixth Standard and in Dictation; candidates between the ages of 15 and 16 years must earn 65 per cent.; and candidates over the age of 16 years must earn 80 per cent. of the available marks in order to be retained on the list of candidates.

The marks attained in Euclid, Latin, or French will be credited to the candidates who have been retained upon the list, and will be taken into consideration in making appointments.

The Board considered the Report of the School Attendance Committee regarding the education of Destitute and Neglected Children, delayed from the Special Meeting of the Board held on the 18th December 1878.

The Chairman verbally reported the result of an interview with the Right Hon. Mr. Cross, the Secretary of State for the Home Department, and the Lord Advocate, during the visit of the former to the city.

Miss Stevenson moved that the Board adopt the Report, and remit to the Committee to take the necessary steps to give effect to the recommendations contained in it, and also to bring the subject before the Merchant Company. This motion was agreed to.

Miss Stevenson reported that since last Ordinary Meeting of the Board, 23 children applied for admission to Evening Classes; of these, 11 were passed, and 11 additional were allowed to attend an Evening Class for one month. The total number passed this Session now amounts to 182.

The Clerk stated that Mr. Wilson, Architect of St. Leonard's School, reported that the work had been stopped on account of the storm. The tracks for the walls were nearly all excavated before the storm commenced.

MINUTE OF MEETING

OF

EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD

HELD ON

WEDNESDAY, 12th FEBRUARY 1879.

AT a Meeting of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD, held in the Offices of the BOARD, No. 9 South Castle Street, on Wednesday, the 12th day of February 1879, at Three o'clock P.M. :

Present,—

Miss FLORA C. STEVENSON.

Letters of apology for absence from the Rev. Dr. Begg, Rev. Mr. Williamson, and Mr. Gowans were laid on the table.

The Minutes of the last Ordinary Meeting were held as read, approved, and signed by the Chairman.

The following Minute of a Special Meeting of the Board, held on the 17th January 1879, was held as read, and approved.

AT a Special Meeting of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD, held in the Offices of the BOARD, No. 9 South Castle Street, on Friday, the 17th day of January 1879, at half-past Three o'clock P.M. :

Present :—

Rev. ARCHIBALD SCOTT, D.D., Chairman.

J. GUTHRIE SMITH, Esq.	THOMAS HARVEY, Esq., LL.D.
Rev. W. ADAMSON.	JOHN CLAPPERTON, Esq.
DAVID DICKSON, Esq.	Miss F. C. STEVENSON.

Miss PHOEBE BLYTH.

Letters of apology from Mr. Dick Peddie, Rev Mr. Williamson, and Bailie Tawse were read.

The Chairman stated that the meeting had been called at the request of the Law Committee.

The Clerk read the remit of the Board to the Law Committee in regard to the question of a site for a School for the West Port district.

Sheriff Guthrie Smith read the following Report of the Law Committee :—

REPORT of the Law Committee upon the remit of the Board regarding the purchase of the Ground at Cambridge Street.

The Committee have carefully considered the question which has been raised regarding the purchase of ground belonging to Mr. Gowans at Cambridge Street, as a school site for the district.

The rule of law which prohibits a trustee or any person in a fiduciary position from transacting with his co-trustees is so obviously just and beneficial that nothing requires to be said in explanation of the grounds upon which it rests. But in the case of a public Company or a public Board it is a rule for the protection, not the obstruction, of the public interest; and therefore we are advised that in such cases the disability is not absolute. It has been laid down that a Director is not absolutely precluded from making contracts with the Company, or being interested in contracts made between the Company and third parties; but in all such transactions, the director is not to take any profit or advantage from his position, and in order that the arrangement may stand, it is essential that there be the most open disclosure, not only of the fact of his being interested, but also of the extent of that interest.

The Committee conceive that a similar principle must govern the relations subsisting between School Boards and individual members. In many parishes in Scotland the only land available as a site for a school house belongs to one of the members of the Board, and if the purchase of it were absolutely illegal, the business of the Board could not go on. The Committee are informed that an opinion to this effect was given some years ago to the Education Department by Counsel of acknowledged eminence at the Bar, and it receives support from the terms of Sec. 37 of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1872, where power is given to purchase suitable sites without qualification, but as if to cover such a case as the one under consideration, the parties are also empowered to have the price settled by valuation, under the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845.

Keeping these considerations in view, the question to which the Committee first addressed themselves was, whether in this particular matter it was necessary for the Board to deal with Mr. Gowans at all. They were informed that, after very diligent and careful inquiry, the only available sites were the following, (1.) about 2000 square yards of ground in Orchardfield Street, for which the proprietor refused an offer of £6000, and declined to name a price; (2.) about 700 square yards in the Grassmarket, acquired by the City Improvement Trust for about £3000—neighbouring property would need to be got, and the proprietor offers it for £7000; (3.) a piece of ground extending to about 1150 square yards, with a right of way through it, in High Riggs, for which the proprietor has reduced his price to £3600.

Being of opinion that the only property of those above mentioned which the Board need inquire after, was that at High Riggs, the Committee remitted to Messrs. Kinnear and Peddie to inspect it, and report whether, in their opinion, it could be available at a reasonable price, and if they should be satisfied that it could not, and that the only site available is that in Cambridge Street, to advise the Committee whether the price which Mr. Gowans has agreed to take, £5250, is fair and reasonable.

Messrs. Kinnear and Peddie reported that the ground in High Riggs is very irregular and inconvenient in shape, and in consequence not well adapted for a school of the size required; that they were not able to ascertain whether any of the adjoining property could be got, but without getting more ground they would not advise the purchase of this both because of its limited dimensions and its inconvenient arrangement. The value of the ground as a site could not be stated at more than £2500. If, however, adjoining property could be acquired so as to give more frontage and a more convenient shape to this site, £3000 might be given for it. The Committee have since learned that the adjacent property required would cost probably as much more.

While Messrs. Kinnear and Peddie adhere to their opinion that the market value of the Cambridge Street site is at present what they formerly stated, viz., £4000, they are also of opinion that at the price asked from the Board, viz., £5250, this site is greatly preferable to, and a better bargain than, any of the other sites mentioned at the prices for which they can be had, and that in a few years hence it will be worth considerably more than the price the Board is asked to give for it.

The Committee were informed by Mr. Gowans's agent, Mr. Paterson, S.S.C., that as the transaction was not of Mr. Gowans's seeking, but that he entertained the Board's offer at all solely from a wish to get them out of the difficulty in which they felt themselves placed in providing suitable school accommodation for the district, he was quite willing, in respect of the objection which had been taken to its legality, to withdraw his property altogether, which, he was satisfied, it would be more for his interest to retain in his hands than to dispose of at the price which he had agreed to take.

The Committee are satisfied that to abandon this site would be practically to leave the district without a school for an indefinite period, or to render it necessary to acquire more costly and less suitable ground. They are of opinion that the Board can legally purchase the ground at the price which Mr. Gowans has agreed to take. The recent Education Act gives power to acquire the property by compulsory sale. Should this mode of procedure be adopted, considerable time would elapse before the site could be obtained by the Board, and Mr. Gowans would almost certainly be found entitled to a larger price. The opinion of the Committee is that the price, though large, is not excessive. Measured by the sums asked for other less suitable sites it seems fair and reasonable. The Committee accordingly recommend the Board to confirm the purchase in terms of the Chairman's Report to the special meeting of the Board held on the 18th ultimo, and to remit to the Law Committee, with powers, to confer with Mr. Philip, S.S.C., as to the completion of the transaction in terms of the minute of the Board of that date.

J. GUTHRIE SMITH, Convener.

Sheriff Smith moved the adoption of the Report. Dr. Harvey seconded.

Mr. Adamson moved and Mr. Dickson seconded:—That the Report be not approved, and that a Committee be appointed, along with Mr. Wilson, to look out for a site suitable to the district.

There voted for Sheriff Smith's motion—Miss Blyth, Mr. Clapperton, Dr. Harvey, Sheriff Smith, and Miss Stevenson; for Mr. Adamson's motion—Mr. Adamson and Mr. Dickson. Sheriff Smith's motion was accordingly declared carried, Mr. Adamson dissenting from the finding of the Board.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Chairman.

The Minute of a Special Meeting held in the Police Court Room on February 8, to consider the cases of defaulting parents, was held as read, and approved.

The Chairman read the Report of the Committee on School Management.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL MANAGEMENT.

The Committee had interview with the following candidates for the vacant Assistantship in Leith Walk School, viz. :—Miss Annie Air, Miss Elizabeth Porter, Miss M'Phail, Miss Temple, and Miss Margaret Laing.

The Committee agreed to appoint Miss Annie Air, at present Assistant in the Infant Department of the school, to be Assistant in the Juvenile Department at a salary of £70 per annum ; and Miss Margaret Laing to be Assistant in the Infant Department, in room of Miss Air, at a salary of £40 per annum.

The Committee recommend that Miss Gibson Thomson, Miss A. Murray, and Mrs. Robertson, be appointed Lady Managers of North Canongate School, and that the former visitors of Victoria Terrace School, viz., Dr. Smith, Mr. Clapperton, and Miss Stevenson, be appointed visitors of the school.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Miss Stevenson read the Report of the Committee on School Attendance as follows :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee, in terms of the remit of the Board, sent a Memorial to the Govenors of Heriot's Trust, and to the Merchant Company, in regard to the education of destitute and neglected children.

The Committee had before them a letter from the Scotch Education Department sanctioning the continuance of the Holyrood School, in the meantime, as an Infant School, until a more suitable arrangement can be made.

The Committee have been informed that a new School has been opened in the district of Abbeyhill under private management. The Committee recommend the Board to ascertain whether this School can be relied upon as permanent School accommodation for the district, and to request M. Paterson, Esq., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, to visit the School and to report to the Board in terms of Section 27 of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1872, upon the extent and quality of the provision for supplying the means of education in the School.

The Committee had before them the attendance at Bristo School, which is in excess of the accommodation. The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to instruct the teacher not to admit any child in future to his School until the attendance falls to the level of the accommodation of the School, calculated at 8 square feet per child, and thereafter not to exceed that number.

The Committee remitted to the Convener to revise a list of defaulting parents to be summoned before the Board on Saturday, the 8th February, at 2 P.M.

FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

The Report was approved. It was remitted to the Committee to inquire and report upon the educational requirements of the Abbeyhill district and neighbourhood.

A letter from the Lord Provost, acknowledging receipt of the memorial addressed to the Governors of Heriot's Trust, and stating that the memorial would be laid before the Governors at their first Meeting, was laid on the table.

Letter from Mr. Kirk Mackie stating that the statement of the Board was considered by the Master and Assistants of the Merchant Company, who agreed to report to the Company that it is not expedient, at least in the meantime, to devote any part of the Funds of the Merchant Maiden or George Watson's Hospital to the establishment of an Industrial School.

The Chairman read the Report of High School Committee.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON HIGH SCHOOL.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to raise the salary of the janitor by £20 per annum, the increase to date from 1st October 1878.

Mr. Dickson reported that, as requested by the Committee, he had seen Dr. Andrew Wilson with reference to his letter regarding his salary as teacher of the Physiology class.

The Committee having considered the circular of the Scotch Education Department with reference to the examination of the higher class public schools, have agreed to recommend the Board to regard not unfavourably a proposal to examine all such schools by the Department. It will prove to all the Boards that adopt it a more economical mode than the present. Now that most of these schools throughout the country will fall to be supported by the rates, it is obvious that the public is entitled to expect that the work done in them shall be tested by methods at least as satisfactory as are applied to the rate-supported elementary schools. An examination conducted by an independent national authority, like the Scotch Education Department, will in most cases commend itself to the public as more satisfactory than any which a School Board may institute. Moreover, the proposal may be a step, and a most important one, toward organising the instruction in all the higher class public schools in Scotland, and of testing the instruction in such a way as may tend to develop a healthy rivalry among them. The danger of depressing the education now given in the higher class public schools, by introducing a system of uniform standards similar to what prevails in the elementary schools, is one to which the School Board is fully alive. That danger, however, could be avoided were the Department to apply to such schools an examination or inspection which would bring out the efficiency of the classes rather than of the individual scholar, especially in the first four or five years of the curriculum, reserving the individual test to the close of the pupil's connection with the school. No harm, but great gain, would result from such a final examination, and were it conducted upon a system uniform in all the higher class public schools in Scotland it would settle very satisfactorily the question of all entrance examinations for the Universities.

The Committee recommend the Board to delay applying to the Department for the examination of the High School until they obtain further information as to the method of examination which the Department are likely to adopt. The Committee are strongly of opinion that the method of examination should be other than that adopted in the elementary schools, and that the examination should be conducted by a different set of Inspectors. The Act makes it lawful for the Department to make provision for such examination by one or more of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools, or by such other person or persons as the Scotch Education Department may appoint for the purpose. The Committee, while entertaining perfect confidence in the abilities of the Inspectors of the elementary schools; and while not challenging the competence of many of them to examine the higher schools, can yet see a real danger and prejudice to the higher schools were they examined by the Inspectors of the elementary. Your Committee think the work is such as to deserve, and to demand, the employment of a special class of Inspectors.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Convener.

The Report was approved.

The Chairman read the Report of the Committee on Finance as follows:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

The Committee agreed to transfer £899, 17s. 7d. from the rates to the income of Bristo School, and £5, 19s. 3½d. to the income of Roseburn School.

The Committee had before them the accounts of the Contractors and Architect for Dalry School. The Committee instructed the Treasurer to pay the balances of the Contractors' accounts, and agreed to transmit the account of the Architect to the Board.

The Committee authorized the Treasurer to draw £50 to pay current expenses in connection with the preparation of the Electoral Roll.

JOHN TAWSE, Convener.

The Report was approved. It was agreed to consider the Account of the Architect for Dalry School in private.

It was agreed that the election of the new Board take place on the 5th of April 1879.

The Chairman explained that there was no Report from the Law Committee.

Dr. Harvey read the following Report of the Committee on School Work:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL WORK.

An examination of applicants for the office of pupil-teacher was held in North Canongate School, between 10 A.M. and 1.30 P.M. on Saturday, 25th January 1879. The papers set were the subjects of Standard VI. of the Scotch Code of 1878, and Dictation, with papers in Euclid, Latin, and French, to such as professed these subjects.

All the applicants on the list kept by the Board, 93 in number, were invited to the examination, and 80 appeared, viz., 10 boys and 70 girls. One of the latter retired during the examination.

The candidates who absolutely failed in one or more of the four subjects—Dictation, Grammar, Composition, and Arithmetic—were rejected. This reduced the number to 34.

Of the 34, 1 of the age of 16 obtained 81 per cent. of the available marks; 8 of the age of 15 obtained 65 per cent. or over; and of the age of fourteen, 13 obtained 50 per cent. or over of the available marks, and their names are accordingly retained on the list of candidates.

The examiners unanimously recommended that two girls of the age of sixteen, who respectively obtained 79 and 66 per cent. of the available marks; six girls of the age of fifteen who respectively obtained 62, 61, 61, 58, 56, and 55 per cent.; and four girls of the age of fourteen, who respectively obtained 49, 47, 46, and 44 per cent. of the available marks should, in consequence of special excellence shown, although falling short of the percentage of marks fixed for their respective ages, be retained upon the list of candidates. The Committee adopted this recommendation.

The list of candidates thus numbers 34, and the Committee recommend that the next examination be held in the month of July next.

From the above list the Committee have made the following appointments, viz.:—To Dalry School—Mary M. Menzies, Bessie Anderson, Agnes Miller; Causewayside—Charlotte Robb, Robert Robb; New Street—Wilhelmina Flett, Grace R. Spence; Bristo—Alex. M'Intosh; Stockbridge—Eliza Weir; Roseburn—Mary Mackay.

The Committee approved of a Time-table for West Fountainbridge School.

THOMAS HARVEY, Convener.

The Report was approved.

The Clerk, in the absence of Mr. Gowans, read the Report of the Building Committee as follows:—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON BUILDING.

The Committee accepted the following estimates for North Canongate School, viz.:—

R. Rathie, £38, 18s. 6d. for window blinds; John Davidson, £2 for bell at entrance gate; W. R. Clapperton and Co., £74, 0s. 9d., and T. Stevenson, £5—in all, £79, 0s. 9d., for fitting up the Teachers' rooms.

The Committee having instructed the Architect to raise the hand-rails of the staircases of North Canongate School, accepted an estimate from Messrs. Aitken and Allan, £20, 9s. 6d., for the same.

The Committee accepted the estimate of Messrs. J. Baird and Son, £30, for cementing the walls of the staircases of Leith Walk School; and the estimate of Mr. David Greig, £15. 10s., for providing forms for 100 children, for the same school.

The Committee accepted the estimate of Mr. David Greig, £22, for putting a new floor in the upper storey of St. Leonard's School.

The Committee instructed the Architect to provide 100 additional cloak-pins, and to fit the side of the cloak-screen with doors, and also to fit up a coal-bunker on each landing of North Canongate School.

The Committee had plans for the school on Cambridge Street site before them, and agreed to transmit them to the Board. In the meantime, the Clerk was instructed to forward them for the approval of Grindlay's Trustees, the superiors of the site.

Mr. Wilson was instructed to procure estimates for erecting a suitable place of shelter for the Janitor of West Fountainbridge School.

JAMES GOWANS, Convener.

The Report was approved. The plans of the School on the Cambridge Street site were remitted to the School Management Committee with powers, to be approved and to be transmitted to Grindlay's Trustees for approval.

Miss Stevenson read the following Report on the examination of children under 13 years of age for attendance at Evening Classes:—

ADMISSION TO EVENING CLASSES.

Since last Ordinary Meeting of the Board, 20 children had applied for admission to Evening Classes; of these, 11 were passed, and 6 allowed to attend an Evening Class. The total number passed this session now amounts to 193.

The Clerk read the following Report on the building of the new school of St. Leonard's:—

REPORT by MR. GOWANS on St. Leonard's School.

Owing to the protracted storm, no masonry could be executed, with the exception of dressing some of the hewn stone, until last week, when the fresh weather set in.

Since then fair progress has been made in bringing up the foundations, which are now level with the basement. JAMES GOWANS.

The Returns were remitted to the School Attendance Committee.

The Chairman reported that the North Canongate School was formally opened on Friday the 7th inst.,—the opening having been delayed from Monday, the 27th January, the day formerly fixed by the Board.

The Chairman reported that a Deputation, appointed at a Conference recently held in the Offices of the Board, waited on the Lord Advocate at his Chambers, on Saturday the 8th, to urge upon his Lordship to give effect, in the present Session of Parliament, to the following Resolutions which the Conference unanimously adopted :—

1. That Day Industrial Schools are an essential part of complete school machinery in large towns.
2. To be of real service in carrying out the compulsory powers of the Education Act, such schools must be certified schools, and must be under Government inspection, both as regards education and management.
3. To exhaust all possible means of securing a child's attendance at school before he is sent to a Day Industrial School, the Sheriff should have power, on conviction of the parent, to issue an attendance order, requiring the child's attendance, for a definite period, at an ordinary inspected elementary school. Failing compliance with this order, the child to be sent to a Day Industrial School.

4. That power be given to School Boards to recover from parents, by summary process, the fees and maintenance of children sent under school attendance order or warrant to school.

The members of the Deputation who were present were the following, viz. :—Duncan M'Laren, Esq., M.P., James Cowan, Esq., M.P., the Rev. Drs. Robertson and Sandford, Councillor Clark, Messrs. T. Ivory, Hugh Rose, Professor Calderwood, and Dr. Scott, Sheriff Guthrie Smith, Miss Stevenson, Dr. Harvey, and the Rev. William Adamson.

It was agreed to record the thanks of the Board to the Members of Parliament for the City, Mr. M'Laren and Mr. Cowan, for their interest and assistance in forwarding the views of the Board on the question of educating neglected children.

Minute of Consolidation of Property, and superiority of subjects in Bristo, being portion of the site of Bristo School, was sealed, signed, and attested in presence of the Board. The Clerk was instructed to forward the Minute to Mr. David Philip, S.S.C., to have it completed and recorded.

The Clerk laid on the Table letter from the Scotch Education Department, dated 28th January 1879, approving of the Site of Canonmills School, and of the proposal of the Board to build the School to accommodate 800 children, and asking the Board to forward the Plans of the School for approval. It was agreed to instruct Mr. Wilson, Architect, to proceed without delay with the preparation of Plans for this School.

The Chairman reported that, upon the representations made by the Board, the grants withheld by the Scotch Education Department from St. Leonard's, West Port, and West Fountainbridge Schools had been restored, and the certificates of the Headmaster and Second Teacher of West Fountainbridge School had been sent to them.

The Minutes of the last Ordinary Meeting were held as read, and signed by the Chairman.

The Minutes of the Special Meeting held in the Police-Court Room, on Saturday, the 8th instant, were approved.

The Chairman read the Report of the Committee on School Management as follows;—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL MANAGEMENT.

The Committee approved of the plans of Lothian Road School, and forwarded them to Grindlay's Trustees for approval.

The Committee recommend the Board to give the use of the engineering class-room in the High School to Mr. Fairweather, the Lecturer on Engineering, for the purpose of delivering, between 8 and 10 A.M., a special course of lectures. The fees to be paid to the Treasurer of the Board in the first instance.

The Committee agreed to supply twelve additional Laurie's dual desks to the upper department of West Fountainbridge School.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Miss Stevenson read the following Report of the Committee on School Attendance:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee had before them a Report by Maurice Paterson, Esq., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, on the temporary School recently opened in Portobello Road, and a statement of the attendance of children in the district of Abbey Hill and Easter Road in neighbouring schools. It appears there are from the district 198 children attending Leith Walk School; 125 children attending Holyrood School; and 150 children attending the temporary school in Portobello Road. The Heriot School is full.

The Committee agreed to report that, in their opinion, a school for not less than 500 children is required in this locality; and they accordingly recommend the Board to take the necessary steps for the building of a School in the district.

F. C. STEVENSON, Convener.

The Board approved of the Report, and instructed the Clerk to send a copy of it to the Secretary of the Scotch Education Department, requesting their Lordships to sanction the proposal to erect a School for 500 children in this district of the city.

Mr. Adamson read the following Report on Evening Classes:—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON EVENING CLASSES.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to keep open during the summer months Evening Classes for young men in New Street School, and for young women in Bristo School, and to continue the appointments of Mr. John Barnie and Mr. Andrew Peattie, who have been teaching the classes during the winter.

The General Report of the classes taught during the winter months will be laid before the Board at next meeting.

WILLIAM ADAMSON, Convener.

The Report was approved.

The following Report by the Joint Committees on Finance and Building was read by Dr. Scott:—

REPORT OF JOINT-COMMITTEES ON FINANCE AND BUILDING.

The Committee recommend that, while not acknowledging any liability in the matter, Mr. Harper, the plasterer of Dalry School, be paid £7, 10s. in consideration of damage sustained by frost in executing his contract; and further, that the balance due to him be paid to within £10.

The Committee authorise the Treasurer to draw £150 to meet expenses in connection with the preparation of the Electoral Roll.

JAMES GOWANS, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Dr. Scott read the following Report of the Law Committee:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON LAW.

The Committee have to report that Mr. Philip, S.S.C., having obtained the consents of the adjoining proprietors to the erection of a School on the Cambridge Street site, and having also obtained the approval of the Superiors of the proposed plans of the School, concluded the purchase of the site. The Committee authorised the Architect to proceed to take estimates for this School.

The Committee agreed to give a small corner of the site of St. Leonard's School to the adjoining proprietors for a bleaching-green, on the condition that the Superior abates the Feu-duty to the amount of £1 per annum.

The Committee agreed to give Mr. Munro, a proprietor whose property adjoins St. Leonard's School site, a small back-green behind his tenement, and to enclose it with a wall, Mr. Munro, in exchange, giving the two gables, for which the Board otherwise were bound to pay.

In regard to the half of mutual gable at south end of St. Leonard's School site, for which the Board are bound to pay, it appears that there is a dispute between the proprietors of the adjoining tenements as to the right to the value, the Committee instructed Mr. Philip to get the amount fixed by a mutual reference, and in the event of the proprietors not agreeing to give a valid discharge to the Board, to raise an action of multiplepoinding.

J. GUTHRIE SMITH, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Dr. Scott read the following Report of the Committee on School Work :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL WORK.

The Committee agreed to recommend that one of the class-rooms of the Infant Department of Causewayside School be attached to the Juvenile Department.

The Committee agreed to appoint, temporarily, Miss M'Phail to Dalry School, and Miss Porter to Leith Walk School.

SUMMARY of the Work of the SECOND SCHOOL BOARD, Elected for the City of Edinburgh.

1876-9.

I.—CONSTITUTION OF THE BOARD.

THE SECOND SCHOOL BOARD for the City was elected on the 8th of April 1876, and held its first meeting on the 11th of the same month.

The Membership of the Board remains the same as it was originally constituted, with two exceptions. Professor Calderwood found it necessary, from the state of his health, to resign the Chairmanship of the Board and his seat as member in April 1877; and the Rev. Mr. Rigg, on being appointed Roman Catholic Bishop of Dunkeld, resigned his seat as member in June 1878. The remanent members elected the Rev. Dr. Scott their chairman, in room of Professor Calderwood; and Dr. Harvey and the Rev. Dr. Smith to the seats vacated by Professor Calderwood and Bishop Rigg.

Immediately after the election of the Board, the work to be done was distributed among the members, by means of Committees, in the following way:—A School Management Committee, consisting of all the members, with the Chairman as Convener; a School Attendance Committee, Miss Stevenson, Convener; a High School Committee, Convener, Dr. Scott; a Committee on Evening Schools, Conveners, Mr. Dickson, and afterwards Mr. Adamson; a Finance Committee, Convener, Bailie Tawse; a Law Committee, Convener, Sheriff Guthrie Smith; a School Work Committee, Convener, Dr. Harvey; and a Committee on Building, Convener, Mr. Gowans.

Two or more of the members were, in addition, appointed as visitors of each School; and two or more ladies, not members, were appointed to superintend the Sewing Instruction in each school.

Special Committees were appointed from time to time to inquire and report upon such matters as seemed to render such procedure necessary.

Since the Board was elected, 32 ordinary monthly meetings have been held for the transaction of business; 18 special meetings; 14 private meetings; and 23 special meetings in the Police Court-Room to meet with defaulting parents, in terms of clause 70 of the Education Act of 1872;—in all 87 meetings of the Board.

The number of Committee meetings during the three years was 349.

The attendance of members at the Board meetings and at the Committee meetings is as follows:—

MEMBERS.		Meetings of the Board.				Meetings of Committees.
		Ordinary.	Private.	Special.	Meetings for Defaulting Parents.
Total Number of Meetings,		32	14	18	23	349

11. Scott,	Dr., Chairman, from 23d April 1877,	30	8	18	8	181
12. Smith,	J. Guthrie,	23	6	13	21	70
13. Stevenson,	Miss Flora C.,	29	9	15	18	181
14. Tawse,	Bailie,	22	7	11	2	101
15. Williamson,	Rev. Alexander,	23	6	11	1	53

It is necessary to explain that some of the members, especially the Rev. Dr. Begg and the Rev. Mr. Williamson, were for a considerable time unable, through illness, to attend the meetings of the Board; and also that the table does not show the number of Committee meetings to which each member was summoned. It has further to be remarked that the table does not show the actual amount of work done by any of the members; nor does it represent fully the relative amount of work done by individual members. No account, for example, is taken of the visitation of schools by the visitors of each school, or of frequent interviews with the teachers of the Schools, and of candidates. Again, there are some of the members, in particular, to whom a great deal of heavy and responsible work fell to be discharged, which is not accounted for in the return of attendance of members. Apart from the Chairman, who is in daily communication with the Schools and with the office, the Conveners of the Committees on School Attendance, School Work, Building, Evening Classes, and Finance, have had to devote a great deal of time to the work of the Board, and of which no record has been kept.

II.—SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

In 1876 one school out of seven new schools which the first Board had resolved to erect, was opened. The remaining six have since been opened, along with other two, which it had been found necessary to erect, owing to the increase of the population, and the closing of Denominational Schools. The following Table gives the accommodation, cost etc., of seven of these new Schools:—

The remaining two, whose accounts have not been finally closed, are Dalry and North Canongate, with accommodation respectively at 10 ft. and 9 ft. for 699 and 870 children, and at 8 ft. for 943 and 1053 children respectively. The cost of these Schools, exclusive of site, will not exceed, for Dalry (inclusive of Janitor's house), £8400; and for North Canongate, £9850.

Three new Schools are in course of erection—St. Leonard's, Canonmills, and Lothian Road, with a total accommodation of 2540. The increase of the population, and the discontinuance of Schools supplied by voluntary effort, will necessitate the building of additional Schools from time to time.

III.—SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

1. DAY SCHOOLS.—The Board at present have the charge of the above nine new Schools, and five temporary Schools and two halls, which are to be replaced by the new Schools in course of erection. During last month 9203 children were on the roll of these Schools—5868 juvenile children, and 3335 infants. There were in actual attendance during the same month 7754 children, being 5069 juvenile children, and 2685 infants. As brought out in the tables laid before the Board in November last, and printed in the minutes of last month, the average attendance at the Board Schools for 1878 was 6534; the number qualified by age and attendance for examination in standards was 4507; and the number actually examined was 4075. The percentage of passes over all the Schools was —in Reading, 91·68; in Writing, 85·3; in Arithmetic, 80·29, giving an average for the three subjects of 85·75 per cent. Of the 4075 children examined in Standards—1278 were examined in Standard I.; 1187 in Standard II.; 809 in Standard III.; 499 in Standard IV.; 216 in Standard V.; and 86 in Standard VI. The lowest pass obtained was in the Writing of Standard IV., taking all the Schools together, was 73·54; the highest pass was in the Reading of Standard VI., 98·83. In Standards IV. V. and VI., 801 children were examined, and the average pass obtained was 75·53. The total number passed in Specific Subjects was 380. In the various subjects the numbers were as follows:—Domestic Economy, 128; English Literature, 119; Physical Geography, 67; Physiology, 28; Latin, 17; French, 12; German, 5; and Chemistry, 4. The amount of grants earned over all the Schools was £5173, 9s. 6d., being at the rate of 15s. 10d. per scholar in average attendance.

The Board have adopted the following regulations regarding the teaching of Specific Subjects:—

That a payment should be made of 4s. for a pass in every Specific Subject, except in Domestic Economy, as at present taught.

That with the same exception an additional grant of 2s. should be given for a second year's pass, and 4s. for a third year's pass.

That English Literature and Physical Geography, to the extent of the requirements of the Scotch code, Schedule IV., be taught to all the pupils in Standards V. and VI.

That no payment be made on account of Specific Subjects where an average pass of 75 per cent. is not obtained in Standards IV., V., and VI.

That the Board pay to the income of the Schools in which Classics and Mathematics are taught, the sum of 30s. for each pass made by a pupil in either of these subjects. The Board also resolved to disregard the requirements of the Code, and have substituted the following standard of attainments for passes in these subjects :—

In Latin.—For the first year, Grammar to the end of the rules of concord, and half of the First Book of Cæsar's Gallic War.

For the second year, the whole of the Grammar, including all the Rules of Syntax, and the First Book of Cæsar's Gallic War.

For the third year, as above, together with 400 lines of Virgil.

In Mathematics.—For the first year, Algebra, Notation, Addition, Subtraction, Euclid, Book I., Prop. 1 to 15 inclusive.

For the second year, Algebra to Simple Equations inclusive; Euclid, Book I.

For the third year, Algebra to Quadratic Equations inclusive; Euclid, Books I., II., and III.; Elements of Mensuration.

The cost of instruction in the Day-Schools is given in the following Table :—

The table shows an average cost per child of £2, 3s. 1¼d.; being at the rate of 17s. 3¾d. per child from rates; 9s. 11¼d. from fees; and 15s. 10¼d. from grants.

The salaries of the teachers in the new Schools (Dean being a much smaller School is under a separate arrangement), is—

Head Master,	£300 per annum.
Mistress of Infant Department,	150 „
First Assistant—Juvenile Department,	150 „
Other Assistants,	40 to 80 „
Sewing Mistress,	60 „
Singing Master,	40 „
Pupil Teachers—
Male,	15 to 25 „
Female,	10 to 20 „

A slight increase in the way of surplus dependent on the success of the School has been given in a few cases. In this way the sum of £15, 10s. was paid to the Headmaster of Leith Walk School, and £40 to the Headmaster of West Fountainbridge School, with sums proportionate to their respective salaries to the rest of the staffs. No surplus was earned by any other of the new schools for last year.

The Pupil-teachers receive two bonuses, one amounting to £10 in the case of male Pupil-teachers, and £7, 10s. in the case of female Pupil-teachers, upon the completion of their apprenticeship; and a second of equal amount on their entering with credit upon further study in their profession.

(2.) Evening Classes.—The Board also conduct Evening Classes for young men and young women; and they have hitherto kept open two of these classes, one for young men and one for young women, during the summer months. During last winter eight classes, six for young men and two for young women, were taught. During the winter of 1877-8, eight classes, five for young men and three for young women, were conducted. According to the General Report prepared by the Convener on the work of the year, and printed in the Minutes of the Board of 12th June 1878, 246 young men and 9[illegible] young women attended these classes.

The average cost per pupil in the Evening Classes is as follows:—19s. 7½d. per pupil, being 5s. 8d. from Rates, 6s. 7¼d. from Fees, and 7s. 4¼d. from Grants.

IV.—COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

The enforcement of the compulsory clauses is under the charge of the Committee on School Attendance, and a detailed statement regarding its work will be found in the Report of the Committee. The staff of the Compulsory Officer comprises the Head Officer and 10 assistants, one of whom was recently added, and whose special duty it is to search after children selling newspapers, etc., in the streets. In the Balance-Sheet for May last, the expense of the Compulsory Officer and his staff is entered as £792, 9s. 10d. This is exclusive of printing and stationery, which is charged to office expenses. It has to be observed with regard to the charge for the Compulsory Officer and his staff, and to some extent the same is true of the expense of management generally, that it has to be reckoned not merely as so much per head for the children attending the Board Schools. The cost of this department is as great, if not greater, as if all the children of the city were educated in the Board Schools.

The following table shows the attendance at the Elementary Schools of the city when the Compulsory Officers commenced their labours in 1874, and also in 1878 :—

	1874.	1878.
Number of Children who have attended School for whatever length of time, since Schools opened in Autumn till following March,	30,602	33,458
Average Number on Roll during March,	24,257	26,111
Average Attendance during March,	19,574	22,168
Percentage of Attendances,	80·69	84·89

V.—FINANCE.

The Balance-Sheet for the year ended May 15, 1878, is appended. Hitherto the School Rate has been kept under 3d. in the pound.

VI.—HIGH SCHOOL.

The history of the High School, since it came under the management of the Board, has been one of marked prosperity. The enrolment in 1872 was 261 ; in 1873, 302 ; in 1874, 362 ; in 1875, 399 ; in 1876, 434 ; in 1877, 439 ; in 1878, 433 ; and this year the attendance promises to exceed the attendance of 1878. In consequence of the increased numbers attending the School, it was found necessary to enlarge the accommodation. In addition to some internal alterations, the effect of which it is hoped will be to add to the comfort of both pupils and masters, a new and handsome writing-room was built and opened at the commencement of the present Session.

APPENDIX VIII.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE COMMITTEE.

SUMMARY OF WORK DONE FROM APRIL 1876 TO MARCH 1879.

I.—School Accommodation.

When the first School Board began its work in 1873, it was calculated that there were in the city 32,012 children of school age. Deducting the proportion of children belonging to the upper and middle classes, for whom there was sufficient provision, there remained 24,512 children to be provided for in Elementary Schools, with a fee of 9d. per week or under.

At the date when the educational census was taken, there was actual accommodation in this class of schools in Edinburgh for 22,715 scholars, in 100 schools, as under, viz. :—

	No. of Schools.	Accommodation.
Established Church Schools,	16	4,222
Free Church Schools,	17	5,282
United Presbyterian Church Schools,	6	857
Episcopal Church Schools,	9	1,518
Roman Catholic Church Schools,	8	2,014
Heriot Schools,	16	3,742
Undenominational and Private Schools,	20	3,654
Industrial Schools, Free Schools, etc.,	8	1,426
Total,	100	22,715

But three schools, with accommodation for 235 children, were pronounced inefficient, and 19 schools, with accommodation for 4316, were reported by their managers as about to be closed. It was also found that 2786 children over 13 years of age were in actual attendance at the schools. The permanent efficient available accommodation was thus reduced to places for 15,378. Against this decrease in available accommodation, the Board had to calculate on additional accommodation to the extent of places for 1145 children, to be provided by the Governors of Heriot's Hospital, as well as accommodation in Hospitals to the extent of 152 places. The available accommodation in 1873 thus amounted to a total of 16,675 places. It was calculated that of the 22,512 children, not more than 85 per cent. would at any time be in actual attendance in school, and accordingly that accommodation was required only for 20,836 children. The deficiency of accommodation to be supplied at that date was therefore for 4161 children.

To meet the deficiency, the Board resolved to erect seven new schools, with a total accommodation, calculated at the rate of 10 ft. and 9 ft. per scholar, for 4,200.

Between 1873 and 1876 nine additional schools, with accommodation for 2472 children, were discontinued, or kept open temporarily by the Board. By that date, however, the Board had resolved on a further increase of accommodation, by converting New Street Church into a school, and by the erection of a new school in the Dalry District.

At the present date the number of children of school age in the city is estimated at 37,062, showing an increase of 5,050 since 1873.

Of this number, deducting those belonging to the upper and middle classes, and those provided for in hospitals, there are 29,062 children who should be in attendance at Elementary Schools. With the further reduction of 15 per cent. for actual attendance, we find that accommodation is required for 24,702 children.

The existing accommodation is as follows:—

	No. of Schools.	Accommodation.
Established Church Schools,	11	3096
Free Church Schools,	4	1567
United Presbyterian Church School,	1	64
Episcopal Church Schools,	9	1518
Roman Catholic Church Schools,	10	2332
Heriot's Schools,	19	4854
Undenominational and Private Schools,	11	1841
Industrial Schools, Free Schools, etc.,	7	1348
Board Schools; Accommodation at 10 square feet, and 9 square feet, Permanent New Schools,	9	6038
Total,	81	22,658
Showing a deficiency of		2044

This deficiency is at present supplied—

(1.) By 5 temporary Schools, and 2 Halls, with accommodation for	1692
(2.) By filling the new Schools to the extent of their accommodation, calculated at 8 ft. per scholar, say	1200
	2892

This deficiency will be permanently supplied by three new Schools in course of erection.

St. Leonard's,	940
Canonmills	800	2540.
Lothian Road,	800

It is probable that another School will be required in the Abbeyhill District.

Accommodation in existing Schools, which may be regarded as permanent, for	22,658
Accommodation in temporary Schools, to be supplied by three new Board Schools,	2540
	25,198

From these figures it will be seen that there is a considerable increase in the Elementary School accommodation since 1873, although there is an actual decrease in the number of Schools. This is accounted for from the fact that the new Schools have taken the place of several smaller schools, and halls used temporarily as schools, and the use of which is now discontinued.

The number of Schools closed which were in operation in 1873 is 31. These had accommodation for 6599.

There have been opened since 1873, and are in operation now—

Nine Board Schools, accommodating	6038
Six Heriot Schools,	1626
Two Roman Catholic Schools,	318
Two temporary Halls in connection with St. Leonard's Public School,	135
One Private School,	117

II.—Schools Transferred.

The Schools transferred to the Board were only two in number.

(1.) West Fountainbridge, which was pulled down, the new School being erected on its site.

(2.) Canongate Sessional School, which is a department of New Street School.

III.—Attendance at School.

From the following Abstract of Return of Attendance in Elementary Schools (Schools with a fee of not more than 9d. per week), in Edinburgh, made during March in each year since the commencement of the operation of the Education Act, it appears that there is a steady increase in the numbers both of enrolment and in average attendance, except in the year 1876, which shows a slight decrease.

IV.—Compulsory Work and Education of Destitute and Neglected Children.

During the last three years the Committee have frequently had the question of the education of destitute and neglected children before them. Towards the end of 1876 and beginning of 1877, the Committee and the Board held several conferences with the Managers of the Industrial Schools, and others interested in the question.

The want of sufficient accommodation in the existing Industrial Schools for Children who could be committed under a Magistrate's warrant, and the want of any satisfactory provision for Destitute and Neglected Children who do not come under the provision of the Industrial Schools Act, was increasingly felt by the Committee. A Memorial was sent to the Lord Advocate on the subject, but as there was no Education Bill before Parliament at the time, nothing was done.

In November 1877, a conference was held with the Glasgow Board, when the question was fully discussed, but no definite resolutions were agreed to.

The introduction of the Duke of Richmond's Bill during last session was the first opportunity that presented itself for obtaining the additional legislation which seemed necessary for securing the education of the lowest class of children.

Every effort on the part of the Board was used to get clauses introduced into the Bill which would meet the difficulty.

The Committee regret that the Board were defeated in their attempt to get these proposed amendments inserted in the Bill. They have, however, to express satisfaction in having their compulsory power strengthened by the insertion of Clause 28 in the Amendment Act, which gives to School Boards power to prosecute, at intervals of one month, any parent who neglects the education of his child, instead of only once in three months as formerly.

As will be seen from the Compulsory Officer's Abstract of cases dealt with by the Board, about one-sixth of the children referred to attained the age of thirteen during the last three years, and are now of course beyond the Board's jurisdiction.

It is hoped that the possibility of frequent dealing with the parent will enable the Board to secure attendance at school of children over twelve years of age,—at any rate for some months before they are beyond school age.

The Committee have also to express their satisfaction that the casual employment of children under fourteen years of age has been dealt with in the Amendment Act. They regret, however, that while the Board has the additional duty imposed on it of stopping the casual employment of all children under ten years of age, and of enforcing the regulation as to the hours of employment of children between the ages of ten and fourteen, they have still no power to take hold of the neglected child and enforce his attendance at school.

The Committee are increasingly convinced of the necessity of the establishment of Day Industrial Schools as an essential part of school machinery in large towns; and they have satisfaction in finding that, whatever difference of opinion may exist as to how they should be maintained, the necessity for such schools is now generally acknowledged by all who have had to do with enforcing the compulsory clauses of the Act of 1872.

The Committee are also of opinion that it would help greatly, in the effective carrying out of the compulsory powers of School Boards, if the School Attendance Order of Lord Sandon's Act, 1876, were made applicable to Scotland. They believe it would have the effect of securing the attendance of (1.) children whose parents are careless as to their regular attendance, and also in the case of (2.) many children who are truant.

One of the chief difficulties the Committee has had to contend with, is the fitful and irregular attendance of the children of defaulting parents. These children are shifted from one school to another, and are often enrolled for not more than a week at a time at various schools in different parts of the city. The Committee have also difficulty in dealing with children who are said to be in attendance at schools where no proper register of attendance is kept. The Attendance Order would effectually put a stop to this irregularity, as it would specify the school the child would be required to attend, and would also specify a definite number of attendances to be required, failure in which, without reasonable excuse, would constitute default on the part of the parent.

From Table I. appended, it will be seen that one-half of the children whose parents were dealt with by the Board are in regular attendance one-fifth are still irregular, while one-sixth are now over school age.

The Committee have to acknowledge the very valuable services rendered to the School Board and to the city by the managers of the two Certified Industrial Schools, the Day Home for Neglected Children, Dr. Robertson's Industrial School, and by the managers of the various other charitable Institutions in the city. Fifty-eight children, whose parents have been dealt with by the Board, have been received into such Institutions; and 117 children, whose parents were not brought before the Board, have been received into the same Institutions during the same period. Although the School Board have no power to commit children to Industrial Schools, the Officer of the Board has always rendered every assistance to secure the admission of children into these Institutions where it seemed the best way of dealing with the case. It will be observed that the number of cases of children whose parents have been dealt with by the Board, which were strictly parochial cases, was only ten.

The Committee have to acknowledge the valuable assistance rendered to the Board during this present session by the Committee who have raised the funds necessary to carry on the work of feeding and clothing destitute children, on condition of their attendance at School. The funds for this purpose were, during several sessions, generously supplied by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, to whom the Committee desire also to express their obligation. The number of children who received this assistance has been from 300 to 400 each session.

V.—Attendance of Children under thirteen years of age at Evening Schools.

The Committee have had before them 594 children under thirteen years of age, whose parents desired exemption for them from attendance at Day School. Of these, 520 were exempted, while 74 were sent back to the Day School.

As a general rule, exemption was only granted in exceptional circumstances to children under twelve, who had not passed the Fourth Standard, but each case was carefully investigated. In many cases, however, the circumstances of the family were such that the earnings of the child were a material item in the family income, and where the parent showed real anxiety as to the child's education, a pass to attend an Evening Class was granted. In order to secure regularity of attendance, the Board Officers visit every Evening School in the city, a special register for children under thirteen is kept, and irregularity is at once checked. Where the condition of regular attendance at an Evening Class has not been complied with, the exemption is withdrawn, and the child is obliged to go to a Day School, or the parent is treated as a defaulter, and so dealt with by the Board.

VI.—Casual Employment of Children.

The Committee cannot yet report definitely on the effect of the enforcement of the casual employment clauses of the new Act. They have brought before the Sheriff thirty cases of parents who have infringed the law by sending their young children out at night to sell newspapers. The results are given in the Compulsory Officer's Report.

The plea of poverty on the part of the parents, said to be in consequence of the present hard times, has in many instances averted the infliction of a fine, but the Committee are of opinion that the class of parents who thus expose their children to the moral danger of this kind of employment at night, are not those whose circumstances are much affected either by commercial depression or prosperity. At the best of times they are shiftless and improvident, and sacrifice their children's interest to their own selfishness.

The Committee recommend that the Board should in no way relax its efforts in dealing with this class of parents in the most stringent manner.

The Committee have to express their satisfaction with the readiness with which most of the managers of the Non-Board Schools in the city have afforded the information necessary to the carrying out of the Compulsory work of the Board to their Officers, who are well received in the schools.

The Committee would recommend the Board to urge on managers of the Elementary Schools in the city the necessity of their teachers providing the Officers with accurate lists of the children who are irregular in attendance, or who have left school without sufficient cause.

The Committee desire to express their satisfaction with the way in which their Head Officer and his Assistants have discharged their duties in carrying out the requirements of the Board in enforcing the Compulsory Clauses of the Act.

Convener of School-Attendance Committee.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Bailie Tawse read the Report of the joint meeting of the Law and Finance Committees.

REPORT OF JOINT MEETING OF LAW AND FINANCE COMMITTEES.

Mr. Mackinnon, the Returning Officer, reported that he considered it necessary to have 60 polling booths, in the event of a contested election, distributed among the various wards as follows :—

Calton ward, 3 booths; Broughton, 3; St. Bernard's, 3; St. George's, 3; St. Stephen's, 2; St. Luke's, 2; St. Andrew's, 2; Canongate, 8; St. Giles', 8; St. Cuthbert's, 6; George Square, 7; St. Leonard's, 7; and Newington, 6.

The Joint Committees agreed to give the use of the following Schools for polling, viz., Leith Walk for the Calton Ward; Stockbridge for St. Stephen's; West Fountainbridge for St. Cuthbert's; Bristo for George Square; New Street for Canongate; North Canongate for St. Giles'; and Causewayside for Newington Ward.

The Joint Committees approved of the arrangement for supplying refreshments both in the polling booths and at the counting of the votes, adopted at last Election, viz., soup in the polling booths, and tea or coffee at the counting of the votes.

The Joint Committees approved of the arrangements formerly adopted in the counting of the votes, viz., the employment of a separate staff of men for this purpose, the polling sheriffs and polling clerks not being available.

The Joint Committees approved of the following scheme of advertising, viz., each of the required notices to be posted up in various parts of the City, and, in addition, that the general intimation, first list of Candidates, second list of Candidates, and result of poll, be inserted once in each of the daily papers; and the number and situation of Polling Places be inserted three times in each of the daily papers.

It was agreed, in so far as the foregoing arrangements are not in conformity with the arrangements contemplated by the Scotch Education Department, in Circular 22, to make the necessary intimations to the Department; and also to intimate that, with regard to the allowance to the Returning Officer contemplated in the Circular, the Joint Committees consider it quite inadequate for this City.

The Joint Committees authorised the Treasurer to draw £118, 19s. 7d. to pay the balance of the cost of preparing the Electoral Roll, the total cost of which, according to the account submitted to the Committees and approved by them, amounts to £318, 19s. 7d., of which £200 was already authorised to be drawn.

The Joint Committees authorised Mr. Mackinnon, the Returning Officer, to summon the new Board to be elected on the 5th April, to meet in the Offices of the Board on Wednesday, the 9th April, at 3 P.M.

REPORT BY SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO EXAMINE ELECTION EXPENSES ACCOUNT.

The Committee have carefully gone over the items in the account of the election expenses, as made up by the Returning Officer, approve thereof, and authorise their payment. The expenses consist of (1) fees to presiding officers and clerks at the various polling stations, £296, 15s.; (2) allowances to assistants and clerks engaged in counting the votes £154, 10s.; (3) expenses of polling stations and fitting up the same, £157, 8s. 1d.; (4) advertising, printing, stationery, and ballot-boxes, £192, 17s. 3d.; (5) preparation of the roll of voters £318, 19s. 7d.; (6.) miscellaneous petty outlays and expenses, £72, 1s. 6d.; (7) fee to Returning Officer. The Committee having considered this item, and having regard to the time engaged and the trouble and responsibility involved, fix the fee at one hundred and twenty guineas, being the same sum as that allowed at the election of 1876. The total amount of the expenses of the election is one thousand three hundred and eighteen pounds eleven shillings and fivepence sterling. For payment of the charge for preparing the roll of electors, amounting to £318, 19s. 7d., the Board have already given authority to their treasurer. The sum accordingly now to be provided amounts to £999, 11s. 10d., and the Committee authorise the treasurer to pay this sum to the Returning Officer, with instructions to him to pay the various accounts, and to lay the discharged accounts, together with the account for the preparation of the roll, before this Committee, with a view to their being thereafter deposited with the treasurer to be retained by him along with the other vouchers of the Board.

The Clerk stated that since the Board, on 11th December last, had agreed to ask the sanction of the Scotch Education Department for a Loan from the Public Works Loan Commissioners of £40,000, to meet the expense outstanding of Schools formerly erected, and to meet the cost of erecting three new Schools, viz., in Lothian Road, in Canonmills, and in the Abbey Hill district, the site of the Lothian Road School had been acquired, and a portion of the price, amounting to £2046, had been allowed to remain as feu-duty on the ground, the site of Canonmills had also been acquired, and the whole of the purchase-money remained in the shape of feu-duty as a permanent burden on the ground, and that accordingly it is only necessary now to ask the sanction of the Department to a Loan of £35,000.

The Board agreed, in terms of section 45 of the Education Act of 1872, to ask the consent of their Lordships of the Scotch Education Department to borrow from the Public Works Loan Commissioners the sum of £35,000 upon the security of the School Fund and the School Rate, and to pay the same, principal and interest, by thirty equal annual instalments, for the following purposes, viz., (1.) To meet outstanding payments in respect of Dalry and North Canongate Schools, after exhausting the two former Loans of £70,000 and £35,000, and the Building Grants from the Scotch Education Department; (2.) To erect and fit up three new Schools, viz., in Lothian Road, Canonmills, and Abbey Hill; and (3.) To pay a portion of the price of the site acquired for Lothian Road School, and to acquire a site for Abbey Hill School.

OF

HELD ON

MONDAY, 12th MAY 1879.

AT a Meeting of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD, held in the Offices of the BOARD, No. 9 South Castle Street, on Monday, the 12th day of May 1879, at Three o'clock P.M. :

Present,—

Rev. ARCHIBALD SCOTT, D.D., Chairman.

PROFESSOR DUFF.	Rev. Mr. WILLIAMSON.
PROFESSOR CRUM BROWN.	Mr. BROWN DOUGLAS.
Rev. Mr. ADAMSON.	Mr. GUTHRIE.
Rev. Mr. BALFOUR.	Mr. HARVEY.
Rev. Mr. KAY.	Miss STEVENSON.
Rev. Mr. M'KENZIE.	Miss BLYTH.

The Minute of last Ordinary Meeting was held as read, and signed by the Chairman. Mr. Balfour took exception to the accuracy of the following paragraph in the Minute, viz. :—"It was remitted to the School Management Committee to inquire whether temporary provision is necessary for educational requirements of the Abbey Hill and Lawnmarket Districts, and to report to next meeting of the Board;" and stated that his understanding was that the paragraph should read as follows, viz. :—"The subject of the temporary provision for the educational requirements of Abbey Hill District was remitted to the School Management Committee, and to report to next meeting of the Board. The educational provision for the Lawnmarket was remitted to the same Committee."

The Minutes of the Special Meeting of the Board, held in North Canongate School, on Saturday the 3d May, to consider the cases of Defaulting Parents, were approved.

The Chairman read the following Report of the School Management Committee :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL MANAGEMENT.

The Committee had before them the plans of Canonmills School, prepared by Mr. Wilson. The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to adopt the plans, altering the accommodation for the staffs to two rooms—one for the male staff, and one for the female staff.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from the Scotch Education Department stating that their Lordships were not disposed to ignore the accommodation provided by the Abbeyhill Episcopal

School in sanctioning the loan asked by the Board for the purpose of building a School in that locality. The Committee agreed to adhere to its former resolution to build the School of Abbeyhill independently of the accommodation provided by this School.

The Committee instructed the Clerk to forward to the teachers of the Elementary Schools Schedules and Forms regarding the teaching of higher subjects, sent by the Secretary of the Endowed Institutions Commission.

The Committee agreed to appoint Miss Sloan, Mistress of the Infant Department in New Street School, to the situation of Mistress of the Infant Department in Dalry School, vacant by the resignation of Miss Morison. Bailie Tawse dissented from the appointment of Miss Sloan on the ground that the vacancy ought to be advertised.

The Committee appointed Mr. W. H. Muncaster, M.A., Assistant in Leith Walk School, in room of Mr. Alfred Aiton, deceased.

ARCHD. SCOTT, Convener.

Professor Duff moved, and Mr. Kay seconded, that the Report be approved. The Report was approved. Mr. Wilson, Architect, was instructed to prepare specifications and take estimates for Canonmills School.

Dr. Harvey read the Report of the Committee on School Work as follows :—

REPORT OF SCHOOL WORK COMMITTEE.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board that the Mistress to be appointed to Infant Department of New Street School should be appointed at a salary of £150 per annum, subject to any modification which the Board may consider desirable, as the result of the inquiry now being made regarding the salaries of the teachers employed by the Board.

The Committee have to report the receipt of H. M. Inspector's reports on Roseburn, Causewayside, and New Street Schools. Alison I. Bone, candidate for the office of pupil-teacher in Causewayside School, not having passed the examination, is disqualified under the regulations of the Board ; but she can be received on the list of candidates for a future appointment, upon her passing the examination to be held by the Board in July next.

The Committee approved of a time-table for Causewayside School submitted by the Headmaster.

The Committee appointed temporarily to St. Leonard's School Miss Robina A. Swan, as assistant in room of Mr. Davidson, laid aside by illness.

THOMAS HARVEY, Convener.

Miss Stevenson moved, and Professor Duff seconded, that the Report be approved. Dr. Harvey moved, and Mr. Williamson seconded, that the services of Alison I. Bone be retained in Causewayside School until after the Examination of Candidates for the office of pupil-teacher by the Board in July, otherwise that the Report be approved. On a division there voted for the approval of the Report, Miss Stevenson, Professor Duff, Miss Blyth; and for Dr. Harvey's Amendment, Dr. Harvey, Mr. Williamson, Mr. Adamson, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Guthrie, Mr. Kay, and Mr. Mackenzie. It was agreed to retain the services of Alison I. Bone, in Causewayside School, until after the examination in July, otherwise the Report was approved.

Miss Stevenson read the Report of Committee on School Attendance :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee agreed to send circulars to the Managers of Schools in the city, asking for accurate and punctual information regarding the attendance of Schools under their management.

The Committee remitted to the Convener to revise the list of Defaulting Parents summoned before the Board on 3d May.

The Committee had conference with Committees of the Parochial Boards of St. Cuthbert's and City Parishes in March last, on the subject of the efficient education of neglected and destitute children. The conference was resumed on the 29th ulto., but owing to the absence in London of the Committee of the City Parochial Board, representatives from St. Cuthbert's Parish only were present. The Committee hope that the conference will he resumed on an early day, suitable to both Parochial Boards, after which the Committee will be able to submit a final report on the subject.

FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

Miss Stevenson moved the approval of the Report, Mr. Mackenzie seconded. The Report was approved. It was agreed to record the thanks of the Board to Miss Stevenson, and to W. F. Skene, Esq., LL.D., for their services in securing the attendance at school of destitute and neglected children.

Mr. Adamson read the Report of the Committee on Evening Schools :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EVENING SCHOOLS.

The Committee have to submit the following Report on the work done in the Evening Classes during the winter :—

EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The School Board's Evening Classes have now been in operation for six Sessions. The following Table presents an abstract of the work :—

SESSION.	Number of Classes opened.	Numbers enrolled.	Average Number on the Roll.	Average nightly attendance.	Number presented for examination.	Number of Certificates.

Each Session extended over a period of upwards of five months, beginning towards the end of September, and continuing till the close of first or second week of March.

Session 1878-79.

The Sixth Session commenced on 30th September 1878, and terminated on 13th March 1879. The following Table is an abstract of the work of the Session :—

SCHOOLS.	Number enrolled during Session.	Average number on the Roll for five months.	Average nightly attendance for five months.	Number presented for Examination.	Number of Certificates awarded.

Total (Male and Female),	841	418	315	231	183

Number Presented for Examination.

Of the 231 presented for examination before H. M. Inspector, 5 were presented in the first standard, 24 in the second, 43 in the third, 71 in the fourth, 54 in the fifth, and 34 in the sixth standard. It would appear from the duplicate Examination Schedules, that 228 passed in Reading, 182 in Writing, and 176 in Arithmetic. A greater number was presented this Session in the higher standards than formerly. Towards the close of Session 1877-78 there were 12 examined in the sixth standard. This Session, as already noticed, there were 34.

Certificates of Merit.

This Session 183 pupils obtained Certificates. In 1877-78 there were 136. The certificates were, as formerly, awarded—(1.) To pupils who were examined and passed in not fewer than two subjects in the 3d, 4th, 5th, or 6th standard, who attended at least 45 nights in the Session, and whose conduct was good; (2.) To pupils upwards of 21 years of age not examined by H. M. Inspector, who attended at least 50 nights in the Session, and who satisfied the teachers as to conduct and progress. Of the 183 to whom certificates were given, 32 were examined in the sixth, 49 in the fifth, 56 in the fourth, and 37 in the third Standard. Some of the nine not accounted for were above age, and the others had before been examined in the sixth standard. The total possible number of attendances was 91, and the average number of attendances made by those who received certificates was 63. A young man in Leith Walk class was the only scholar who had 91 attendances.

We are of opinion that in future certificates should only be granted to pupils who pass in one of the three highest standards, and that a pass in all the three subjects should be required. This arrangement would no doubt lessen the number, but it would greatly enhance the value of the certificates. A third standard certificate is very apt to mislead those who are not acquainted with the meagreness of the attainments necessary for the possession of it.

Lessons in singing were taught by Mr. Duncan Fraser, in each of the two classes for young women, for half an hour per week. These lessons were beneficial to the scholars, and we recommend that they be continued in future.

Pupils under thirteen years of age.

At the classes for young men 113 were enrolled under 13 years of age. Neither the progress nor the conduct of many of these lads was satisfactory. It would be an improvement, where convenient, were all under thirteen to meet in a separate room from the older scholars under a qualified assistant.

Pupils above twenty-one years of age.

Not a very large number above 21 years of age joined the classes this Session. Dulness in trade may to some extent account for this. The few who did attend displayed great diligence in the prosecution of their studies. A porter aged 25 has attended the Leith Walk Class for two Sessions with very great regularity, and in Arithmetic has advanced from the Simple Rules to Proportion. His progress in some of the other branches has also been highly satisfactory. The age of the oldest scholar in New Street was 38, in Leith Walk 34, in Stockbridge 25, in West Fountainbridge 37, and in Dalry 28.

Young Women's Classes.

The few girls who attended the New Town Class which met in Stockbridge School, made a highly creditable appearance at the examination. All who were presented passed in Reading, only one failed in Writing, and one in Arithmetic. They were in all respects well taught.

The flourishing condition of the Old Town Class, which met in Bristo School, will be best shown from the following statistics :—

SESSION.	Number Enrolled.	Average number on the Roll.	Average nightly attendance.	Number presented for examination.	Number of Certificates awarded.
1876-77	54	30	23	22	16
1877-78	113	62	52	49	36
1878-79	133	77	70	69	59

We were much pleased with the attention, improvement, and behaviour of the young women.

The Certificates of Merit were presented by Miss Stevenson to the young women on the evening of Tuesday, 11th March, and by the Convener of Committee on Evening Schools to the young men, on the evening of Thursday, 13th March. The pupils listened very attentively to the addresses by Miss Stevenson, Miss Blyth, Mr. Dickson, and Mr. Adamson.

Mr. Adamson moved, and Miss Blyth seconded, that the Report be approved. The Report was approved.

The Chairman, in the absence of Bailie Tawse, read the following Report of the Committee on Finance :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

The Committee had before them the account of Mr. Kemp, contractor, for the mason work of Dalry School, together with an explanatory letter from Mr. Beattie, the architect. The Committee authorised the Treasurer to pay the balance of Mr. Kemp's account.

The Committee instructed the Treasurer to pay the balance of Mr. Beattie, the architect's, account in connection with this School, under deduction of £20, the amount of the Board's claim against him in connection with the boundary-walls, consideration of which claim had been reserved by the Board on 14th November 1877.

The Committee authorised Mr. Wilson, the architect, to accept the lowest estimate for permanent desks to accommodate 56 children, in Stockbridge School, and to take estimates for providing dual desks of the same description as those already in the School, to accommodate other 56 children.

The Committee authorised Mr. Wilson to accept the estimate of Mr. Greig, amounting to £11, for fitting up a screen at Causewayside School, throwing a class-room of the Infant Department into the Juvenile Department of that School.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to forward the plans and specifications of the Lothian Road and Canonmills Schools to the Scotch Education Department.

The Committee had under consideration an application from the Janitor of West Fountainbridge School for an increase to his allowance for paying cleaners. The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to remit the question of salaries of Janitors and the cleaning of the Schools to a Committee, and in the meantime to refuse to entertain the present application.

The Committee authorised the transfer from the rates of the following sums to the income of the undermentioned Schools :—

Public (Day) School—Dalry, £1632, 18s. 11½d.

Public (Evening) Schools—Bristo, £46, 6s.; Dalry, £41, 2s. 7d.; Leith Walk, £20, 7s. 8d.; New Street, £39, 6s. 1d.; St. Leonard's, £9, 17s. 10d.; Stockbridge (Boys), £13, 17s. 9d.; Stockbridge (Girls), £13, 13s.; West Fountainbridge, £20, 2s. 10d.

The Committee recommend the Board to instruct the Teachers of the Evening Classes in future to collect the fees on the enrolment of the pupils.

The Report was approved. The question of salary of Janitor and cleaning of the Schools was remitted to the Finance Committee and Lady Members to consider and report.

Mr. Guthrie read the following Report of the Committee on Law :—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON LAW.

The Law Committee having considered the Poor Law Amendment Bill (1878), have to report that the only clauses which affect the interests of the Board are—First, clauses 29 to 34, both inclusive, relating partly to the audit of School Board accounts, and Second, clauses 27 and 37, relating, the first, to the detention of children in poorhouses, and the second, extending the provisions of section 80 of 8 and 9 Vic., cap. 83.

In regard to the audit of accounts, the Committee feel the great advantage of having an independent, efficient, and uniform audit. The Board has shown its sense of the importance of such an audit, by the voluntary appointment of an auditor of their own. The Committee, while of opinion that the clauses are capable of improvement, do not consider that the Board has any sufficient interest to propose any amendment.

In regard to the other clauses, the Committee are in course of framing a clause for insertion, which they propose to submit to a joint meeting with the Parochial Boards.

CHARLES J. GUTHRIE, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Professor Duff, Convener of the Special Committee appointed to consider the question of Temporary School accommodations in the districts of Lawnmarket and Abbeyhill, gave in the following Report :—

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON TEMPORARY SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION IN THE LAWNMARKET AND ABBEYHILL DISTRICTS.

I. LAWNMARKET.—At a meeting on Friday the 9th inst., the Special Committee agreed to recommend by a majority of 3 votes to 2 votes, that application be made to the Scotch Education Department, to sanction the opening of temporary school accommodation for the infant children of Lawnmarket district. It was afterwards found that a member of the Board, who is not a member of the Committee, had inadvertently voted in favour of the recommendation, whereupon the Committee agreed to report the circumstances to the Board.

II. HOLYROOD.—The Committee have not yet been able to come to a final conclusion on the question remitted to them regarding this district.

Mr. Mackenzie moved, and Professor Duff seconded, that the Report be adopted, and that the Board apply to the Scotch Education Department for sanction to open temporary school accommodation for the infant children of Lawnmarket district. Mr. Adamson moved, and Miss Stevenson seconded, that the subject be remitted back to the Committee for further consideration. Thereafter Mr. Mackenzie's motion was withdrawn, and it was agreed to remit the subject back to the Committee.

Miss Stevenson reported that, since last meeting of the Board, 17 children under 13 years of age applied and were examined for admission to Evening Classes. Of these, 6 were passed, 4 refused, 3 delayed, and in the cases of 4, while the Committee were unable to pass them, it was agreed to allow them to attend an Evening Class in the meantime.

The Clerk read the following Report by Mr. Wilson, Architect, on the progress of the work of St. Leonard's School :—

I have to report, in regard to new St. Leonard's School, that the stone lintels of the upper floor windows are being laid, and that a part of the wall at the south end is built up to the level of wall head.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from the Secretary of the Endowed Institutions Commission, with reference to Petitions by the Governors of Heriot's Trust and Robertson's Trustees; also a letter from the Rector of the High School, enclosing a representation which the Masters of the High School propose to submit to the Commission. The Committee resolved that the Board should take no action in reference to these matters.

The Committee considered the remit of the Board in regard to special instruction in the Schools on health, temperance, conduct, and social economy. The Committee do not consider that anything further is at present necessary, than to renew the instructions to the teachers issued by the Board in April 1875 and January 1877.

Mr. M'Kenzie moved, and Professor Duff seconded, the approval of the Report. The Report was approved.

Professor Crum Brown read the following Report of the Committee on Building :—

ALEXANDER CRUM BROWN, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Mr. Brown Douglas read the Report of the Committee on High School, as follows:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON HIGH SCHOOL.

The Committee having considered the communication of 22d February last from Scotch Education Department, are of opinion that the examination of the High School should this year be conducted as it was last year, and that the Clerk be instructed to inform the Department that the Board adheres, in the meantime, to their previous letter of 21st February, but that they will be prepared to reconsider that decision when the Department has matured a plan for the inspection of Higher Class Schools in Scotland.

The Committee have to submit the following Report prepared by Mr. Dickson, on the Manuscripts and printed papers of Dr. Adam, formerly Rector of the High School:—

These were presented to the Town-Council for the benefit of the High School by the Rector's son, Dr. Walter Adam, on 31st July 1840.

The documents consist chiefly of the MSS. of the original editions, and corrected proofs of later editions of Dr. Adam's Grammar, Geography, Roman Antiquities, and Classical Geography. As these books, though much approved at one time, have now been superseded by others, the MSS. referred to are not now of much value or interest. There are in some of the parcels interesting letters respecting them from classical scholars of the period, such as Lempriere, Valpy, Mavor, Vincent, Doig, Dymock, etc.

The other papers may be classed as follows:—

1. Letters and papers respecting the Schoolmasters' Widows' Fund, of which Dr. Adam was one of the founders.

2. Laws and lists of members, and minutes of the Newtonian Society, founded in 1760 by Dr. Adam, then a student. This Society, we learn from Smellie's Memoirs, developed ere long into the Philosophical Society, from which sprang the Royal Society of Edinburgh. Among the members were the following students afterwards distinguished:—Samuel Charteris of Wilton; Henry Hunter of London Wall, the eminent theologian and friend of Lavater; William Smellie, the printer and naturalist.

3. Theses and other interesting pamphlets. There are the printed theses for the Faculty of Advocates of the following, among other, distinguished pupils of the High School, viz., Walter Scott, 1792; Henry Peter Brougham, 1800; Francis Jeffrey, 1794; George Ross, 1797; Charles Hope, 1784.

4. MS. Lectures on Composition by Professor Leechman, Glasgow, 1755, which are not known to have been published.

5. Note-books containing the names of boys attending the various classes in the High School from 1768 to 1807, and small amounts paid, probably for the library and for coals. These appear to have been examined by Dr. Steven when preparing his History of the High School, or for a new edition of it which he had in contemplation. Curiously enough the boys are arranged alphabetically, not by their last, but by their first names. Another peculiarity is apparent, and which I have found existing in the books of the School as late as 1820, namely, that boys of the higher social position in the School, among others several peers and peers' sons, are entered as paying the double of the ordinary fee or charge.

5. Dr. Adam was evidently a believer in corporal punishment, though contemporaries say that he was milder in punishing than some of the other teachers, such as Luke Fraser and William Nicol of "peck o' maut" celebrity. There are three pairs of taws carefully preserved, which may be described as of primary, secondary, and tertiary formation. The descriptions given of the High School boys of the period by Sir Walter Scott, Lord Cockburn, and others, in their interesting reminiscences lead one to believe that such educational helps were neither needless nor useless.

6. Dr. Adam's diploma, dated 9th August 1780, signed by Principal Robertson, and Professors Munro, Black, Cullen, Gregory, Blair, Dugald Stewart, and other eminent professors of the time.

7. I have found some curious and interesting notes and letters from parents of boys, these having been afterwards used for classical memoranda by the Rector. The following is an example :—

"Mr. Brougham's best compliments to Dr. Adam, and requests the favour of him to excuse Henry's absence yesterday, as he was not well."

"Mr. Brougham's compliments to Dr. Adam, and shall be glad of his company to-morrow to partake of a Cumberland goose at four o'clock. If Wednesday should be more convenient, as Mrs. Brougham says the goose will keep another day, Mr. B. begs Dr. Adam will say so.

"George Street, Monday."

8. School exercises by Charles Hope, Francis Jeffrey, Henry Cockburn, Vandaleur, Robert Dundas Lord Melville, Lord Strathmore, and others, afterwards distinguished.

Dr. Adam was elected Head-master of George Watson's Hospital in 1760, when he was only nineteen or twenty years of age. He had charge of the Rector's class in the High School in 1765, and was appointed Rector in 1768. There are several papers connected with George Watson's Hospital, such as, among others, specimens of writing by William Fettes, founder of Fettes College, and of John Horner, father of Francis and Leonard Horner. Fettes and Horner were admitted to Watson's Hospital on 3d April 1760. Some of these exercises might be presented to the Governors of Fettes and Watson's Institutions, who would no doubt value them.

I have been kindly assisted in my examination of the papers by Mr. Robert Adam, City Chamberlain of Edinburgh, grand-nephew of the illustrious Rector.

DAVID DICKSON.

Edinburgh, 15*th March* 1879.

The Committee recommend that these documents be placed in a glass case in the library, and that the thanks of the Board be offered to Mr. Dickson, for the trouble and interest he has taken in connection with this matter.

The Committee accepted the resignation of Mr. Richard Keys, Assistant to the French Master, and agreed to pay him the sum of £5 as salary up to 13th June.

The Committee recommend that Mr. M'Donald be appointed Assistant to the French Master till the end of the session, in room of Mr. Keys.

The Committee submit to the Board an appeal by the Rector and Masters of the High School, in regard to the payments made out of the High School Fund for repairs on the School since 1873.

The Committee recommend that the school be closed for the summer holidays on Thursday, 24th July.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from Mr. Fairweather, C.E., Teacher of Civil and Mining Engineering in the Royal High School, asking the Board to allow a small fixed salary for his class. The Committee regret that they cannot recommend the Board to accede to this request.

F. BROWN DOUGLAS, Convener.

Mr. Brown Douglas moved, and Professor Duff seconded, that the Report be adopted, and that the Appeal of the Rector and Masters of the High School, referred to in the Report, be remitted to the School Management Committee for further consideration, and to report. The motion was adopted.

Dr. Harvey read the following Report of the Committee on School Work :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL WORK.

The Committee had under consideration the question of the Salaries of the Teachers, but are not prepared to report to this meeting.

The Committee request the Board to give them authority to make the necessary arrangements for holding an Examination of Candidates for Pupil Teacherships.

THOMAS HARVEY, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Miss Stevenson read the following Report of the Committee on School Attendance :—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee authorised a meeting with defaulting parents, to be held in North Canongate School on Saturday, the 31st May, and remitted to the Convener to revise the list of cases to be summoned before the Board.

The Committee agreed to ask the teachers to send, as far as practicable, notice of absence of children from school to their parents.

The Committee agreed to instruct the Compulsory Officer to send intimation to the parents of children under 13 years of age, allowed to attend Evening Classes, and whose attendance is irregular, that this privilege is withdrawn from them.

The Committee have to report that after conference with the Parochial Boards of the City Parish and St. Cuthbert's and Canongate Combination, in regard to the efficient education of neglected and destitute children, they have agreed with the Committees of those Boards to the following clause for insertion in the Poor Law Amendment Bill now before Parliament :—

"When a Parent or other Guardian of a child has been convicted on one occasion of neglecting the education of his child, the Sheriff in a Burgh, or Justice of the Peace in a County, may, on any subsequent conviction, after due notice has been given to the Inspector of the Parochial Board, order the child to be sent to the Parochial Board of the Parish in which he resides, to be detained by them for the time specified in the Order, not exceeding sixty days, the Court at the same time ordering the Parent or Guardian of the child to pay to the Parochial Board such sum as is named in the Order, and further, in the event of such parent failing to pay the sum so found due, he shall be deemed a vagabond in terms of the Act 8 and 9 Victoria, Cap. 83, entituled 'An Act for the Amendment and Better Administration of the Laws relating to the Relief of the Poor in Scotland,' and Act therein referred to, and be liable to be punished accordingly, and the Parochial Board shall detain the child for the time specified in the Order, during which they shall provide for his maintenance and efficient education, either by sending the child to a convenient School, or by otherwise providing such education as is in accordance with the provisions of the Education (Scotland) Acts, 1872 and 1878."

The Committee recommend the Board to lay this clause before the Lord Advocate, and to ask for its insertion in the Bill. The Committee are however of opinion that the clause will not by any means secure the education of all the children of the neglected and destitute class, but they recommend the Board to support it as being valuable so far as it goes. Such a clause will probably meet as many cases of educational neglect as it is reasonable to expect can be met by the provisions of a Poor Law Act.

FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

Miss Stevenson moved, and Dr. Harvey seconded, the adoption of the Report. The Report was approved.

Report by the Compulsory Officer and by the Parochial Boards on the cases of Neglected and Destitute Children, and the state of their Education, was laid upon the Table. (For Report see Appendix No. VI.)

Professor Duff read Report of the Special Committee on Temporary Accommodation in Abbeyhill and Lawnmarket Districts:—

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON TEMPORARY SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION FOR ABBEY HILL AND LAWNMARKET DISTRICTS OF THE CITY.

The Committee are of opinion that, the Board having resolved to erect a school to accommodate 500 children in the Abbey Hill district, it is necessary to make temporary provision in the district for the children residing in it. The Committee are of opinion that this can best be done by opening a temporary school for Juveniles and Infants in the district. In the event of suitable and convenient temporary accommodation for Juveniles and Infants being secured, the Infant Department of Holyrood School can be closed at the end of the present session.

The Committee accordingly agreed to recommend that, in the event of the above opinions being adopted by the Board, the necessary arrangements be made to carry them into effect at the beginning of next session.

The Committee are of opinion that additional school accommodation is needed for the Lawnmarket district.

DAVID DUFF, Convener.

Professor Duff moved, and Mr. M'Kenzie seconded, that the Report be adopted, and that it be remitted to the Committee to inquire regarding temporary suitable accommodation in Abbeyhill District.

Miss Blyth read Report of Special Committee on mode of election of teachers :—

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER THE MODE OF ELECTING TEACHERS.

The Committee to whom it was remitted to consider the mode of electing teachers, have no radical change to propose, but submit to the Board two points on which they propose to make modifications.

1*st*. That the short leet should be limited to a smaller number than has hitherto been the practice, say to three or four.

2*d*. That after the short leet is made, an interval of time should be allowed to pass, sufficient to admit of gaining further information regarding the individuals on the leet before they are summoned to meet the Board.

The Committee had under consideration the question of a Sub-Committee either to make the short leet or to make the election from it after the leet has been made by the Board, but no decision was come to on that point.

PHŒBE BLYTH, Convener.

Miss Blyth moved, and Professor Duff seconded, the approval of the Report. Mr. Adamson moved, and Bailie Tawse seconded, that the Report be not approved. For the approval of the Report there voted—Miss Blyth, Professor Duff, Dr. Harvey, Mr. Kay, Mr. M'Kenzie, Dr. Smith, Mr. Williamson. For Mr. Adamson's amendment there voted—Mr. Adamson, Mr. Balfour, and Bailie Tawse. Dr. Scott, Professor Crum Brown, Mr. Brown Douglas, and Miss Stevenson did not vote. The Report was adopted. Mr. Adamson, Mr. Balfour and Bailie Tawse dissented from this finding.

The Committee authorised a meeting with defaulting parents to be held in North Canongate School, on Saturday, the 5th July. Mr. Adamson reported to the Committee that he had, in the absence of the Convener, revised the list of cases to be summoned before the Board.

The Committee have to report that the Managers of Free St. George's School, at Fountainbridge, have resolved to close that School at the end of the present session, but are willing to continue the use of it to the Board as a Day School, free of rent, during next session, reserving to themselves the right to use it on Sabbaths for a Sabbath School

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to accept the proposal of the Managers, and open the School on the 1st September next; continue in the meantime the services of the present teachers, Mr. Anderson and Miss Morison, at their present salaries, viz., £150 and £70 respectively; take over the Pupil-teachers at present serving in the School; keep the building during the occupancy of the Board in proper repair, and pay the rates, taxes, and insurance. They recommend also that the Board purchase from the Managers such Black-boards, Maps, and other useful articles of apparatus as are in good condition, and pay over to the Managers the proportion of the Government Grant to be earned by the School during the current School year, up to end of August 1879.

The Committee considered a letter from the Rev. Sir Henry Wellwood Moncreiff, Bart, D.D., stating that, in the event of the Board considering it desirable to open a temporary School, until Lothian Road School would be completed, the Proprietors of Riego Street School would be inclined to entertain favourably an application from the Board for the use of that School. The Committee are not prepared to recommend the Board to open a temporary School in this district in the meantime. FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

The Report was approved.

Miss Stevenson also read the following statement regarding the work of the Committee on Neglected and Destitute Children:— During the Session 1878-79, the Committee granted relief to 443 Neglected and Destitute Children, viz., to children attending Protestant Schools, 269; attending Roman Catholic Schools, 174.

The Committee had before them the detailed account of the Treasurer's Intromissions for the year, from 16th May 1878 to 15th May 1879, together with the Auditor's Report thereon. The Committee ordered the Accounts and the Auditor's report to be printed.

The Committee recommend to pay Mr. Robertson, of New Street School, an allowance at the rate of £5 per annum for his services in examining children under 13 years of age applying for admission to Evening Classes.

The Committee recommend to pay £21 to each of the Examiners in Religious Instruction.

The Committee recommend the following payments to the Examiners of the High School, viz. :—Professor Roberts, £10, 10s. ; Professor Masson, £7, 7s. ; and Mr. Kirkpatrick, £11, 11s.

The Committee agreed to transfer from Rates to the Income of the following Schools the following sums, viz. :—

St. Leonard's, ...	539	4	10
West Port, ...	158	0	11½

The Clerk reported that the Election Expenses' Account had been passed by Mr. Bain, the Accountant of the Scotch Education Department.

It was agreed to accept the estimate of Messrs. J. Waldie & Son for supplying coal for year from 1st September next ; and the estimate of Mr. William Forsyth for cleaning windows and internal glass screens for the same period. These estimates were the lowest.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay Mr. Samuel Neil at the rate of £3 per week for teaching in West Fountainbridge School during the absence of Dr. Robertson through sickness in his family.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from the Scotch Education Department, dated 25th April 1879, stating that their Lordships were unable to grant their sanction to the Loan of £40,000 which the Board, at its meeting on 11th December 1878, had agreed to borrow for the completion and erection of various schools ; and that it would be necessary to make application for a separate loan in connection with each individual school. The Committee instructed the Clerk to make application accordingly for the sanction of their Lordships to borrow £11,606 from the Public Works Commissioners—principal and interest to be repaid in thirty years in equal annual instalments—for the erection of Lothian Road School ; and to make similar applications for the loans required to complete Dalry and North Canongate Schools, and to erect Canonmills and Abbeyhill Schools when the exact amount required to be borrowed for each school is ascertained.

The Committee had before them letter from Mr. Beattie, Architect, regarding the Board's claim for £20 in respect of the boundary walls of Dalry School, and deducted by the Board from his professional account. The Committee recommend the Board to adhere to their former decision in this matter.

On the recommendation of the Rector and Masters of the High School, it was agreed to remit the fees due on account of James C. Montgomery, 3d Class, £10, 2s. 6d., and John G. Gilbertson, of the 5th Class, £11, 12s. 6d.

A Statement, estimating the probable surplus of the Fee Fund of the High School was submitted to the Committee, showing a balance in favour of the fund of £1153, 12s. 6d. The Committee instructed the Clerk to allocate £800 of this sum to the Rector and Masters of the High School.

It was agreed to pay the Teachers of the Summer Evening Classes the same salaries as last year.

JOHN TAWSE, Convener.

The Report was approved, and the State of the Treasurer's Intromissions as printed, and Auditor's Report thereon as printed, were ordered to lie on the Table till next meeting.

Bailie Tawse read the following statement of the allocation of the £800 among the Rector and Masters of the High School, in terms of the above Report:—

PROPOSED ALLOCATION OF £800 of the SURPLUS HIGH SCHOOL FUND, Session 1878-79.

According to the Report of the Committee on High School financial and other arrangements, dated 5th June 1873, the revenue from fees in excess of the sums paid in salaries in the course of the year falls to be divided among the Rector and masters in proportion to their salaries. Additional masters were appointed in 1876, and the financial arrangements with them and the other masters is as follows: "The new teachers to share in the surplus of the school income, beyond the sum attained this year, in proportion to their respective salaries."

In the approximate estimate before the Board, a sum of £1153, 12s. 6d. is shown as a probable surplus in favour of the Fee Fund for Session 1878-79, but what the exact amount may be when the accounts for the year are finally adjusted, it is at present impossible to determine.

The surplus at the time of the arrangement between the old masters and the new, above referred to, was £755, 6s. 3½d. In this surplus the three masters appointed in 1876, viz., Mr. M'Lagan, Mr. Gibson, and Mr. Black, do not participate; in the balance they share with the others in proportion to their salaries.

It is proposed in the meantime, and until the Surplus Account is finally adjusted, to allocate the sum of £800 amongst the Teachers in the proportion of £523 to the Rector and Masters, except the three above named, and £277 to the Rector and all the Masters, including these three.

When the exact amount of the balance of the surplus is determined, it will be apportioned as follows:—The difference between £755, 6s. 3½d. and £523, or £232, 6s. 3½d. will be distributed among the Rector and Masters, to the exclusion of the three Teachers above named, and the remainder among all the Teachers, including these three.

The following is the share of the £800 found due to each:—

Professor Duff read the following Report on Temporary School Accommodation in Abbey Hill District:—

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATION IN ABBEYHILL.

The only place suitable for a temporary School in the Abbeyhill district, so far as the Committee is aware, is the Hall under the Abbey Church. The Hall provides accommodation for 420 children, and the Proprietors will lease it to the Board for the purposes of a Day-School at a rent of £40 per annum. The cost of partitioning the Hall and providing offices, etc., will amount in the first instance, the Committee find, to from £80 to £90. A portion of this amount will no doubt be refunded at the end of the Board's occupancy.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to remit to the School Management Committee, with powers to make the necessary arrangements for opening this Hall as a Day-School at the beginning of next Session.

The Clerk also submitted a statement showing the application of the first instalment of the loan, and the contracts entered into and about to be entered into, on account of St. Leonard's School. The statement showed that at this date the sum of £909, 10s. of the first instalment of the loan was unexpended. Read letter from Mr. Greig, Inspector of Poor, City Parish, dated 18th September 1879, requesting the signature of the Chairman and Clerk to a formal discharge enclosed, certifying that the Parochial Board had duly discharged their duty of levying and recovering the whole School rate certified by the Board for the year ended 14th May 1879. The letter was remitted, with powers, to the Finance Committee.

The Balance-sheet of the Board for year ended 15th May 1878, with relative vouchers, examined and passed in terms of Section 48 of the Education Act, were laid upon the Table; also an account of the Income and Expenditure of the High School for the same period, with relative vouchers, examined and passed in terms of section 48 of the Education Act. The Treasurer was instructed to lay them by, with the balance-sheets and vouchers of former years, in a place of safety.

Read letter from Mr. James Swanston, Secretary of the Association of Teachers under the Edinburgh School Board, dated 13th October 1879, suggesting that a combined class of all the pupil-teachers might be formed in one of the Board's Schools, to meet on Saturday forenoons, from 9 to 11 o'clock, for the purpose of instruction in Drawing (Second Grade), and that a special teacher could be employed to conduct it. It was remitted to the School Work Committee to report upon the suggestions.

Mr. Balfour, with consent of the Board, withdrew the motion of which he had given notice, viz. :—"That it be remitted to the School Work Committee to consider what may be done, if anything, to promote uniformity in the various books used in the Schools under charge of the Board."

As it appears from the Monthly Returns that 593 scholars have already been enrolled in Abbeyhill School, it was agreed to ask the consent of the Department to build this School to accommodate 700 children, instead of 500 for which sanction has already been received, and, in the meantime, Mr. Wilson was instructed to prepare the plans for the School to accommodate 700 children.

It was remitted to the School Attendance Committee, with powers, to arrange with the Compulsory Officer for the employment of some of his staff to secure that parents and others contravening the employment clauses of the Education (Scotland) Acts 1872 and 1878 may be prosecuted.

The Minutes of Agreement between the Board and the undermentioned Pupil-teachers were signed, viz. :—

For Bristo School: Jessie S. Clark, Florence J. Scott, Elizabeth L. Morrison, William T. C. Bell, and Helen Moncur.

For Causewayside School: Jessie M'Donald and Andrew W. Dick.

For Dalry School: May M. Menzies, Catherine Purvis, Jane S. Robertson, Helen C. Smith, Sarah L. Munro, Agnes Miller, Agnes Paterson, and Elizabeth Anderson.

For New Street School: Annie Allan, Williamina M. Forrester, Martha Wipper, Grace R. Spence, and Wilhelmina E. M. Flett.

PRIVATE.

Dr. Harvey submitted the Report of the Committee on School Work, and Print of the Reports by H.M. Inspectors, and by the Head-masters, on the various Elementary Schools.

The Report and Print were remitted to the School Management Committee, and the Clerk was instructed to prepare a Table as an appendix to the Report of H.M. Inspectors, showing the numbers presented and passed in each Standard in each School separately, with the names of the teachers who taught each Standard. He was also instructed to affix to the Reports the names of the Inspectors reporting. It was further remitted to the School Management Committee to report upon Dean and Leith Walk Schools, and the Clerk was instructed to get printed the Reports by H.M. Inspectors and Examiners in Religious Instruction, for former years, in these Schools.

The Reports of the Examiners in Religious Instruction were remitted to the School Management Committee.

The Report of the Examiners of the High School was remitted to the High School Committee, with instructions to report on an early date upon the question of the Examination of the School.

It was remitted to Dr. Harvey, Mr. M'Kenzie, and the Visitors of the Schools, to make the necessary arrangements for carrying out the remit of the Board in July last with regard to the teaching of sewing in Dean and Deanhaugh Street Schools.

It was agreed to transfer the whole of the present staff teaching in St. Leonard's School, along with the Head-master, to the new School, with the exception of Miss Kello, the Sewing-Mistress, and Miss Swan, temporary assistant. It was agreed to advertise for a Male Assistant at £80, and a Sewing Mistress at £60 per annum, for the new School.

It was agreed to appoint Miss Beck to the first assistantship in New Street School, and to advertise for a Male Assistant, at a salary of £80, to fill Miss Beck's place.

It was agreed to accept the resignation of Robert Topping, Pupil-teacher in Deanhaugh Street School, as at the end of October, to enable him to attend the University, and to pay him the Bonus which would fall due upon the completion of his apprenticeship. It was agreed to advertise for a Male Assistant for Deanhaugh Street School at a salary of £80.

It was remitted to the School Work Committee and the Visitors of the School to make arrangements for additional sewing instruction in Abbeyhill School, and to report upon the desirableness of securing additional temporary School accommodation in that district.

REPORT on the ACCOUNTS of the EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD for year ending 15th May 1879.

THE Accountants have examined and checked the Accounts of the Treasurer of the Edinburgh School Board for the year ending 15th May 1879, and compared them with the Vouchers and other instructions, and also with the entries in the Board Cash Books and Ledgers, and have found them correctly stated and sufficiently vouched. They have accordingly docqueted the Accounts as correct. In the course of the Audit, as formerly, the Accountants have made promiscuous selections of certain of the numerous and voluminous School Fee Collection Books which are made up by the Masters weekly and monthly, and have found those selected to be kept in a correct manner, and that the total Fees which appear from these Books to have been received from Pupils agree with the corresponding entries in the Board Cash Book.

The Accountants have also examined the Accounts for Election Expenses. They find that the items composing these Accounts have been carefully gone over and their payment authorised by a Special Committee of the Board, as appears from Minute of Meeting of 16th April 1879.

As suggested by the Accountants in last year's Report, the Fee Book of the High School, showing the Fees collected each quarter, has been signed by the Rector. He has also signed the Abstract of these Fees, the amount of which agrees with the amount of the High School Fees appearing in the School Board Accounts for the past year.

SUMMARY OF REPORTS

ON THE

BOARD SCHOOLS for SESSION 1878-79.

I.—REPORTS of H. M. Inspectors on the Edinburgh Board Schools.

I.—Bristo School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—There is perhaps a slight tendency to display in the management of this School; but the discipline secured is quite satisfactory. The instruction deserves, as a whole, great praise. The First and Second Standards, in particular, did their teachers much credit. The higher classes, although here and there unaccountably weak in arithmetic, grammar, and the formation of sentences, did much of their work, and especially history and geography, with intelligence and accuracy. It is right to add that the staff is strong, and that many pupils in the first, second, and third Standards are above ten years of age. Singing and sewing are carefully taught.

Infants' School.—This Department is under kind and capable management. The children behaved very well, and took a lively interest in most of the gallery movements and lessons. The Standard passed well, and the individual attainments of the Infants were generally as good as could fairly be expected.

II.—Causewayside School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—An extremely good tone pervaded this School, and the class movements were very orderly. As regards the work of the three lower Standards, some weakness appeared in the spelling and intelligence of the third Standard, but everything else was most satisfactory. Of the upper Standards, the fourth might have done rather better in arithmetic, and the fifth in composition, while both the Fifth and Sixth Standards answered unequally in history and geography. On the other hand, for grammar, general intelligence, and acquaintance with their specific subjects, all three Standards deserve praise. In judging of the School, it must, of course, be remembered that the staff is strong. Needlework and music are both carefully taught.

Infants' School.—Discipline and instruction in this Department both deserve the highest praise. It is evident that the Mistress and her Staff exercise a most beneficial influence alike in quickening the intelligence and in regulating the behaviour of their young pupils.

III.—Dalry School.—(Mr. Dunn.)

Mixed School.—Unity of action, and a uniform standard of proficiency, have been very successfully imparted to this large and recently established School; and the organisation, discipline, and general tone merit very high praise. The Standard work was as a rule exceedingly well done; but the reading throughout was defective in distinctness, expression, and not unfrequently in pronunciation. The penmanship was very neat, though in minor respects capable of improvement. The children read with thorough comprehension in all the Standards except the fourth, in which the knowledge of words was defective; in spite of this, however, their history and geography were well and widely known. The grammar of the Third Standard showed a slight weakness. Of the Fifth and Sixth Standards nothing but praise need be said. Their mental animation was most gratifying, and their history and geography, both for minuteness and extent of information, were far above the average. The arithmetic also of the Sixth Standard deserves special notice for extreme neatness and accuracy. The specific subjects showed to great advantage.

Infants' School.—From the special circumstances of the School, the instruction of the Infant Department has been attended with much difficulty, and allowance must therefore be made for some deficiencies in the First Standard. The Infants proper are most winningly, skilfully, and successfully instructed, and they made a most pleasing and creditable appearance.

IV.—Dean School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—The organisation and discipline of this School are thoroughly satisfactory. The Second Standard did not read well, and the Third Standard was very weak in arithmetic; but the others made a creditable appearance. Grammar was very correctly done in the Third and Fourth Standards; and in all the higher Standards the children read with thorough comprehension; while the intelligence with which, as a rule, they answered questions in history and geography deserves all praise. The specific subjects were generally satisfactory; but the papers in domestic economy strongly suggested preparation by rote. The desks can seat little more than one-third of the children in average attendance over seven, and one of the class-rooms continues to be largely used as a sewing-room.

Infants' School.—The Infant Department is in many respects a model one. The orderliness and precision of the work reflect great credit on the teacher. The children showed a most commendable proficiency in all the subjects proper to an Infant Department, except writing, which was not so neat as it might have been either among the Infants or in the First Standard.

H. M. Inspector reports that the desk accommodation in the Senior Department is still unsatisfactory. Unless steps are at once taken to remedy this defect, next year the grant will suffer a reduction (Article 32 b.)

V.—Deanhaugh Street School.—(Mr. Blaikie.)

Mixed School.—The order is generally good. The discipline is kindly, and the tone pleasant; but the efficiency of the School would be much increased if uniform quietness, especially during class-movements, were enforced. The general state of the instruction is only pretty fair, the weakest points being the reading and arithmetic of the First Standard, the spelling and writing of the second, and the arithmetic of the third. In the higher Standards history and geography are pretty well known, and many of the arithmetic papers are very good indeed; but it is clear that far more attention should be given to the lower Standards, in order that a good foundation may be laid for subsequent instruction.

Infant's School.—The order is very good, and the general tone pleasant. The children are taught with care, and with very fair success.

VI.—Holyrood School.—(Mr. Blaikie.)

This School is conducted with industry and care, the discipline is kindly and effective, and the general state of the instruction is fair. In the Second Standard the Arithmetic is exceedingly good, but the Spelling is defective. In the First Standard some of the children are too dependent on mechanical methods of working sums in subtraction.

VII.—Leith Walk School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—The order of this School varied considerably. Even the best classes hardly reached the highest level; and in the others, which include the greater part of the Second and Third Standards, the children were not only noisy, but sometimes deceitful. The instruction seemed by its inequalities to suggest want of unity in the management. Spelling in the Second Standard and Arithmetic in the Fourth Standard were extremely weak. Reading also in the former Standard was unsatisfactory; nor could the children follow the sense of the narrative. The rest of the ordinary work was fairly successful, but seldom rose to any conspicuous merit, and there was a general want of that neat uniformity in the written exercises which is quite attainable in a well conducted School. The Specific Subjects were of various merits. Domestic Economy and Physical Geography, as is usual, suggested preparation by rote; and the repetition of the poetry, while often verbally correct, was rarely intelligent or expressive. Singing and sewing are well taught. There are considerable defects in the drainage of the playground and offices. The desks, though numerous to look at, could not seat the Third and Fourth Standards together, whose united numbers were only 247, while the average attendance is 649. Would it be any hardship to replace some of the forms by convertible desks, which might be used under the heavy pressure of a simultaneous written examination?

Infants' School.—The Infant Department is in a very satisfactory state. The children were extremely orderly; and in all the various parts of their instruction the progress made deserves warm commendation.

My Lords will look for a better Report next year upon the discipline of the Department under Mr. Alexander.

VIII.—New Street School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—This large School was examined at a disadvantage, on the following grounds: (1.) The best of the older pupils had been transferred to a new school; (2.) The bulk of those remaining are of a neglected class; (3.) There have been several changes in the staff recently; (4.) The building has, properly speaking, no class-rooms. Yet the general state of the instruction does the teachers credit. The only real weak points were arithmetic in the Fourth and Fifth Standards, and arithmetic and spelling in the lowest section of class 9 in the Second Standard. The Lower Standards passed well in grammar and comprehension, and the Upper showed an unusual amount of intelligent information in history and geography. Thorough instruction is given in singing, sewing, and drill. The spirit of the Code requires that the pupils drafted off should have been sent back for examination.

Infants' School.—In both sections of this department the discipline might be more firm and sustained. The Standard did very well in writing, and very fairly in arithmetic. But in reading no clear test was possible, as the children were often repeating from memory. With such large classes, more books, or bigger ones, should be used. The Infants read and wrote very fairly, but their knowledge of counting was not great, and only a few answered individual questions in it. When in the gallery, they soon got restless, and it was difficult to alter the every-day routine of their lessons.

IX.—North Canongate School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—This is a very large and handsome building. By a sort of forcing process applied to all their neighbouring schools the Board have succeeded in half filling it. The pupils are of such various types and antecedents, and the school has been so short a time in operation, that any criticism of the instruction would be premature. The staff is very strong and of proved capacity, and the appliances are quite sufficient in the meantime.

Infants' School.—This Department is like the Mixed School, only in process of formation. It has a very pleasing tone, and is conducted with great spirit. The acquirements of the children are quite satisfactory.

X.—Roseburn School.—(Mr. Dunn.)

The organisation and discipline are excellent, and the instruction very well adapted to the capacities and requirements of the children.

XI.—St. Leonard's School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—These premises are unchanged. Even new desks, although they would have been permanently serviceable, have not been supplied; and the old ones are so battered with use as to make neat writing very difficult. The solitary chair has no back, and the tables shake when touched. It would appear that the state of the ventilation and accommodation has affected the health of the staff; and it is worthy of note that children who joined the school when the first Board was chosen, have now, after the election of a third, passed their whole school life amid these miserable surroundings. If the order and class movements fell slightly short of securing the highest grant, the Managers must take the responsibility to themselves. The instruction was rather defective in general intelligence, and in the geography and history of the two highest Standards, but otherwise its condition may be stated in a sentence: it would be highly satisfactory anywhere; here, it is beyond all praise.

Infants' School.—The Infants' Department, like the Mixed School, suffers severely from inadequate premises, and has had the additional misfortune of losing one of its Staff for a considerable time through ill health. The condition both of the management and of the instruction, though generally good, is in some respects a little exposed to criticism; but in the circumstances the teachers rather deserve approbation and encouragement. In one particular, that of object pictures, the department is very well equipped.

XII.—Stockbridge School.—(Mr. Dunn.)

Mixed School.—The organisation and discipline of the School are thoroughly satisfactory. The reading throughout the School is generally good. The penmanship, however, is capable of very considerable improvement, being very frequently too small, and only rarely of superior quality. The arithmetic was good throughout, with the exception of the Fourth Standard, in which there was a slight deficiency; that of the Sixth Standard was specially meritorious, presenting hardly any mistake. The grammar of the Second and Third Standards was remarkably good; but the same cannot be said of the analysis of the fifth and sixth, in which there was manifested uncertainty, though the sentences given were very easy. The comprehension of the lessons was throughout good, and often strikingly so. The history and geography were of a high order of merit; these subjects have been most ably taught, and so as to excite the interest of the children. The Specific Subjects were very creditable. The single Latin paper handed in did not contain any mistakes, and the French was done with commendable accuracy. It may be added that the singing was good, especially in the highest class, in which most gratifying progress had been made in the sol-fa. The drill-movements also were executed with precision. The work of inspection was facilitated by the good supply of desks. It would be advantageous if the partition separating the contiguous class-rooms in both departments were pierced by a door, so as to afford ready entrance and egress to classes, as according to existing arrangements classes have to pass through the main room, to the interruption and disturbance of the work there.

Infants' School.—The Infant Department is in many respects a model one. The order and quietness of so large a number of young children evince great tact, vigilance, and intelligent effort on the part of the Mistress and her Staff. The instruction of the Infants is thorough, appropriate, and the results were most successful. The work of the First Standard could hardly have been surpassed, so far as regards correctness, but the writing did not reach the same level of excellence.

XIII.—West Fountainbridge School.—(Mr. Waddell.)

Mixed School.—The tone and discipline of this large School are very superior. The Junior Department passed, on the whole, a most satisfactory examination; it might, however, be well to bestow more care, in some classes, upon expressive reading and general intelligence. The Senior Department has, over all, improved very considerably. At the same time, the Fourth Standard had rather more failures than it should have; and the Fifth (which, it is but fair to add, is last year's backward Fourth) showed great weakness in composition and arithmetic. Both Fifth and Sixth were rather defective in explaining their reading lessons, and answered irregularly in history and geography. The Specific Subjects call for no remark. The general improvement is partly due to the Head-master's growing experience, but the strength of the Staff must also be considered. Putting aside monitors, it should be noted (1.) that the Staff largely consists of certificated teachers; (2.) that during the past year it would satisfy the Code's requirements for an average attendance of 780, while the average with which it has had to deal is but 563. It is undoubtedly wise to keep a Staff effective, but a School like this should rapidly become a model one. The desks have been increased, but it would be well if some of the forms were replaced by folding desks, which might be used in an emergency.

Infants' School.—The Infant Department continues to be managed with much care and skill. The tone and order are very satisfactory, and the state of the instruction decidedly good.

XIV.—West Port School.—(Mr. Dunn.)

Mixed School.—As the School will shortly be removed to new premises, it is unnecessary to advert particularly to the condition of the present School buildings, except to say that it must be taken largely into account in estimating the results of the instruction. The children belong likewise to a generally low social grade; and the teachers, therefore, deserve great credit for the efficiency attained under circumstances so unpropitious. The order and tone of the School are highly satisfactory, and the results were generally creditable. The Third Standard made the poorest appearance, being defective in spelling and arithmetic. Attention should also be given to the grammar of both the Third and Fourth Standards; and the penmanship was apt to be too small. The First and Second Standards showed gratifying proficiency, and their Writing was distinctly good. History and Geography, showed careful and well sustained instruction.

Infant School.—The Infant Department is under intelligent and spirited management. The subjects proper to such a Department are efficiently taught, and with satisfactory results. The First Standard made a good appearance.

II.—SUMMARY of Reports of the Head-Masters.

I. BRISTO SCHOOL.—The Head-master's report is altogether satisfactory,—so far as regards the Staff and general working of the School. He points out, however, certain deficiencies in the School itself, and dwells especially on the inconvenience of the entrance to the girl's playground. "The only entrance to it," he says, "is through General's Entry, a very questionable thoroughfare, whence the pupils have suffered much annoyance. It would prevent this, and be likewise a great convenience, were the present entrance shut up, and a door made into Potterrow." This report, like all the others from the Head-masters, should be handed over to the visitors of the School, in order that they may bring the necessity for repairs and alterations under the notice of the Finance Committee.

II. CAUSEWAYSIDE SCHOOL.—This report presents the results of the years' teaching in a brief and at the same time very complete form. "There were 81 passes in Specific Subjects, being 94 per cent. of those presented. The percentage of passes in the ordinary subjects was—

Reading, ...	99 per cent.
Writing, ...	91 per cent.
Arithmetic, . . .	94 per cent.

"Although, therefore, the Specific Subjects have been carefully attended to, the high results obtained in the ordinary subjects show that the latter have not been neglected."

III. DALRY SCHOOL.—This report begins by calling attention to various imperfections in the buildings and ventilation of the rooms. Some of these, affecting the comfort and health of the pupils, require the immediate attention of the visitors. Under the head of "Pupils," the Head-master reports as follows:—"In my former report I referred to the backward state of those who came to school for the first time, when almost or altogether seven years of age. Since that time a new arrangement has been sanctioned by which such pupils, though they be qualified by attendance for presentation, may be kept back for a year. Reasonable grounds for complaint against the former rule existed on account of its hard and fast nature, but it seems to me that the new rule introduces an element of caprice, that will more or less vitiate all comparisons or percentages which include Standard I.

"In Dalry the new rule was not taken advantage of at all. If the results in a few instances be less satisfactory, the means of comparison will be more complete, and the relative position of the School therefore more easily determined."

In regard to the enrolments and attendance, the report goes on to say:—"The number on the roll rose during the year to be considerably above a thousand, and as all, except a very few, live in the immediate neighbourhood of the School, this indicates that with a good average attendance, there is not now in the School accommodation sufficient for the district in which it is placed, nor even for the pupils already enrolled."

IV. DEAN SCHOOL.—The report expresses considerable dissatisfaction with the year's results. "The pupil-teachers," it says, "in charge of Standards I., II., III. (under the superintendence of Miss E. Alexander or myself), I am sorry to say, have not produced such good results as we expected, especially when so much time was spent by Miss Alexander and me in drilling their classes to bring them up to the mark, and that to the detriment of our own Standards.

"Miss M. A., pupil-teacher, now in her fourth year, was transferred from the Infant to the Juvenile Department, to take charge of Standard I. Her experience in managing and training children in large classes has been very limited; therefore I am the more inclined to judge leniently in regard to the number of failures in her Standard. But I was very much surprised at the appearance her class made before Mr. Paterson in the Religious Knowledge examination. It can only be accounted for by the very short time between the two examinations, which made it impossible to revise the work gone over during the Session; and that a great number had joined the class after the May term.

"Miss A. W., Pupil-teacher, now in her fourth year, has taught Standard II. since 21st March. She is not to blame for the great percentage of failures in this large class, numbering over 90 pupils. She has to assist Mrs. Grant in the sewing-room one hour a day, on every alternate week with Miss Allan, during which time their classes fall into my hands or Miss Alexander's; and as we are fully occupied with our own Standards, we are unable to give them the attention they require. The remarks on Religious Instruction of Standard I. apply to Standard II., as they were taught together."

This report cannot be regarded as satisfactory, either as respects the Pupil-teachers in question or the Headmaster himself. The report concludes with an unfavourable account of one of the male Pupil-teachers, and requests that the Board will "neither continue his services, nor grant him the £10 promised to Pupil-teachers who do efficient work during their apprenticeship under the Board."

V. Deanhaugh Street School.—The report describes fairly the condition of the School. The Headmaster proposes, if the Board approve, to change the scale of fees in accordance with that in other schools. "The only difference will be, that Standard III. will pay 3d. instead of 3½d. a week, and Standards V. and VI. 5d. instead of 4½." Of the Sewing Department he says:—"Mrs. Grant, Sewing Mistress, informs me that, having frequently to change her plans to satisfy the lady visitor, as well as from having barely an hour daily to instruct the girls, she has not been able to produce such satisfactory results as she expected."

VI. Holyrood School.—The Report on this School is as follows:—"During the past Session the attendance has been very good. The health of the children has been excellent, so that nearly as many as usual have attended the requisite number of times for examination, and that with a smaller average. The older pupils have been taught sewing by myself and the Pupil-teachers since the closing of the Juvenile School, and satisfactory progress has been made."

VII. Leith Walk School.—The Headmaster complains of some disorderly proceedings in the cloak-room, and of various articles of clothing, especially boys' caps, having gone amissing. The playground, while improved by the alterations already made, is described as far from satisfactory. Certain proposals to improve the offices, and more particularly the suggestion that the large room of the School should be divided for teaching purposes by a partition with folding glass-doors, should receive the attention of the Visitors of the School.

The Headmaster does not meet any of the charges in the Inspector's report by a direct statement, but he may be supposed to account for the want of discipline and organisation in his department in the following paragraphs:—(1.) "The large room, which accommodates 300 children, while suitable for superintending the written work of the classes, and for carrying on examination work with large numbers at a time, is not so well adapted for teaching purposes where classes are subdivided into smaller sections. There would be a more complete concentration of teaching power, as well as a better supervision of Standards, while there would be a saving of time with less changing of classes, were the room divided by a partition with folding glass-doors." (2.) "The Staff which began the session, seven Certificated teachers and ten Pupil-teachers, was increased in January by two Certificated and one Pupil-teacher in the Juvenile department. Both of these teachers died within about two months after they had entered on duty, and when they were just beginning to do good work. The two teachers who were appointed in their stead could scarcely be expected to have the Standards under their charge so well prepared for inspection as they otherwise might have been, and consequently the Junior divisions of Standards II. and IV. were defective at the Inspector's visit."

Otherwise than from these two paragraphs it would not be surmised from the report that there was anything amiss in the School, or that the Inspector's report was condemnatory, and accompanied by a warning from the Department. Indeed, the Headmaster's report describes the condition of the School in very favourable terms.

VIII. NEW STREET SCHOOL.—The report is thoroughly satisfactory and favourable, except in regard to the play-ground and offices,—and one of the Staff, who is censured for severity. He has since resigned. It fully bears out the Headmaster's estimate of the efficiency of the School, that the passes in Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic average 89 per cent., and that the grant earned was 15s. 7d. a head. If the character of the children who compose this School be taken into account, this must be regarded as eminently satisfactory, and creditable to the teachers.

IX. NORTH CANONGATE SCHOOL.—Mr. Swanston presents a very interesting report of the condition and equipment of the School, and furnishes some statistics which show that the School, considering all the circumstances of the case, is in a satisfactory condition.

X. ROSEBURN SCHOOL.—Brief and satisfactory report.

XI. ST. LEONARD'S SCHOOL.—The chief paragraphs in the report are these:—"In consequence of the condition imposed by the Education Department in connection with the payment of the last Government grant, no scholars have been admitted since the middle of last September, while every reasonable means has been adopted of reducing the numbers, so as to bring the average attendance within the prescribed limit. The present attendance is very nearly equal to amount of accommodation, but the annual average is somewhat above it, being about 650, or nearly 100 less than last year. The number of children to whom admission was refused was over 200, while a considerable number of names was removed from the register in order to reduce the attendance."

"The health of the teachers has not been so satisfactory as could have been wished. Every member of the staff, with the exception of Mr. M'Caull and myself, has been more or less absent from illness, while Mr. Davidson has been laid aside from duty with rheumatic fever since April 29th, and Miss Prentice with scarlet fever since May 7th."

XII. STOCKBRIDGE SCHOOL.—The report is altogether satisfactory, and is fully confirmed by that of the Inspector. Both he and the Headmaster agree that an "improvement of considerable importance in the School would be a door of communication between the two contiguous class-rooms, which would enable the pupils in the Upper Standards to use desks by turns, without requiring to pass through the hall."

XIII. WEST FOUNTAINBRIDGE.—The report on the Staff is accompanied by the following statement from Dr. Robertson:—"I have spoken so fully on all matters concerning the School to my Visiting Committee, that I do not need to say more here. I am fully satisfied that every member of my Staff, down to the youngest monitor, has done his and her duty unceasingly. I am thankful also to say that the conduct of the children has been uniformly good."

XIV. WEST PORT SCHOOL.—The report describes the buildings, the playground, the furniture, and equipment of the School as certainly capable of improvement, but still of such a nature as to enable the teachers to secure fairly good results. In regard to the numbers in attendance the Headmaster says,—"The attendance of the Juvenile division increased very much in the last half of the session, owing to the closing of Victoria Terrace School. This has increased our average attendance for the year, but as those pupils could not be presented for examination by H. M. Inspector, not having time to make the necessary attendance, our number qualified for presentation seems small compared with our average attendance." The Headmaster describes the conduct of one of the pupil-teachers, now in her fifth year, as frequently unsatisfactory.

The Committee approved of the plans for Abbeyhill School prepared by Mr. Wilson, and approved by the Building Committee. The Committee authorised Mr. Wilson to prepare working plans and specifications, and to get estimates for the work as early as possible.

The Committee had before them a letter from the Scotch Education Department asking an estimate of the number of children, and of the School accommodation in the Abbeyhill District, before sanctioning the erection of a School for 700 children. The Committee instructed the Clerk to furnish the information.

The Committee had before them a letter from Mr. C. J. Pearson, Session Clerk of Greenside Parish, intimating that the Session had resolved to close Greenside Infant School at Christmas.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to appoint Mrs. Mylne, Mrs. White Millar, and Miss Cowan Lady Managers of Abbeyhill School.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to make the following verbal changes on the Minute regarding salaries of Teachers adopted by the Board on July 14th, 1879, viz.,—in paragraph 1, delete "not;" and in paragraph 5, delete "Staff" and insert instead "Teachers (not including Pupil-teachers.)"

From returns received by the Committee, about 120 Pupil-teachers and Monitors are prepared to take advantage of the class, and it is recommended to teach the class in two divisions for two hours each. In the event of the Board agreeing to the recommendations of the Committee, they would further recommend that Mr. Edward Gibbons be appointed to teach the class, and that he be paid £25 therefor till the end of April.

The Committee regret that they are unable to recommend the Board to agree to the request of the Edinburgh Association for the University Education of Women to obtain three months' practice in teaching for those ladies attending Professor Laurie's class who intend to become teachers.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The Committee had an interview with a Deputation from the Committee of Management of the House of Refuge, on the question of feeding Destitute and Neglected children attending school. The Deputation informed the Committee that they would be able to provide two meals a day for 50 children at the House of Refuge, and expressed a hope that the Board would provide them with a register containing the names of the children recommended for assistance, in order to prevent the possibility of children being admitted who are not entitled to receive the meals. The Committee remitted to the Convener to select the names of 50 children from the Compulsory Officer's list to be recommended for these meals, and agreed to furnish the names of the children to Mr. Nelson, the Governor of the House of Refuge.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to remit to the Committee on Cookery, with powers, to make trial in one of the schools of giving practice lessons in cookery, as recommended by Miss Guthrie Wright, provided the necessary arrangements can be made.

FLORA C. STEVENSON, Convener.

The Report was approved, and it was agreed to appoint the following special Committee on Cookery—viz., Miss Blyth (convener), Miss Flora C. Stevenson, Mr. Adamson, and Dr. Harvey.

A letter from Mr. W. U. Martin, Dalry School, calling attention to the defective school accommodation in that district, was remitted to the Committee to consider and report.

A memorial, submitted by the rate-payers of Norton Park, Norton Place, Abbeyhill, and district, requesting the Board to provide additional school accommodation for the district, was also remitted to the Committee.

Mr. Adamson read the Report of the Committee on Evening Schools.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EVENING SCHOOLS.

The Committee, referring to the resolution of the Board passed at last meeting to close the advanced classes, again had the matter under consideration, and agreed to recommend the Board to continue these classes till the end of the session. In the meantime, they instructed the Clerk to arrange that the classes be kept open till the Board meet on Monday, the 8th December.

WM. ADAMSON, Convener.

The Report was approved, and it was remitted to the Committee to consider whether the advanced classes for English and Composition and for Latin should be taught in a combined class during the remainder of the Session.

Bailie Tawse read the Report of the Finance Committee as follows:—

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

The Committee had under consideration the remit of the Board with respect to the letter of Mr. Greig, Inspector of the City Parish, dated 18th September 1879, asking the Board to grant a discharge certifying that the Parish of the City of Edinburgh had duly levied, collected, and paid over to the School Board of Edinburgh the School rate for the year from Whitsunday 1878 to Whitsunday 1879. The Committee authorised the Chairman and Clerk to sign a certificate, setting forth the rate per pound of rental, certified by the Board as School rate for the year from Whitsunday 1878 to Whitsunday 1879, and the amount of the proceeds of that rate paid over by the Parochial Board of the City Parish to the School Board.

The Committee had before them Certificate "A" for North Canongate School, and approved thereof.

The Committee agreed to recommend the Board to ask from the Public Work Loan Commissioners, along with the loan required for building Abbeyhill School, a loan amounting to £928, 5s. 1d., being sum required, in addition to the loans formerly received and the Building Grants from the Scotch Education Department, to close the accounts of North Canongate and Stockbridge Schools.

The Committee agreed to pay to the wife of William Bone, lately an Assistant to the Compulsory Officer, the sum of £6, 4s.

The Committee agreed to remit the fee of Frederick Miller, a pupil in the sixth class of the High School, for the first quarter of this session, as recommended by Dr. Donaldson's letter of 20th November 1879.

The Committee appointed Archibald Campbell to attend to the heating of Abbeyhill School, at a salary of 10s. per week, and agreed to fix the salary of the cleaner of the same School at the rate of £15 per annum.

The Committee agreed to recommend that the teachers be instructed not to send their orders for repairs, apparatus, etc., except in very urgent cases, oftener than once a month.

The Committee considered the remit of the Board regarding the inequalities of expenditure in the various Schools, as shown in the "State of the Treasurer's Intromissions."

Under the heads "Books, Apparatus, and Stationery;" "Printing and Advertising;" and "Salaries of Janitors," the inequalities are not greater than might have been looked for, and call for no remark.

Under the head "Rents, Rates, Taxes, and Insurance," the inequalities are very large, but with the exception of an entry of £304, 18s. 0d. against Leith Walk School, which mainly consists of rate for causewaying the street, which will not occur again; £72, 10s. 4d. for buying up Feu-duty of Bristo School; and £55 for the Rent of South Gray's Close School, used in connection with New Street School, these inequalities are beyond the control of the Board.

The items under "Repairs to Furniture and to Buildings" show no great inequalities, except in Leith Walk and St. Leonard's, which also were exceptionally heavy within the twelve months. In Leith Walk School a large number of desks and forms were added, owing to the increased attendance; and new flooring was put into St. Leonard's School.

The remaining item is "Salaries of Teachers." This shows considerable inequality. In the State of the Treasurer's Intromissions, however, the amount charged under Salaries of Teachers is not properly comparable with the amounts entered under School Fees and Grants within the same twelve months, for these reasons—(1) That two new Schools, Dalry and North Canongate, received no Grants within the twelvemonth, and still the Schools had to be completely staffed; (2) Grants for two years were paid within the twelve months to New Street School; and (3) For the other large Schools the Grants received were no doubt for twelve months, but were in each case for twelve months which ended with their respective School years some time before 15th May 1879, when the costs of the staffs were different from their cost during the twelve months ending with that date.

Still there are inequalities under this head, as the following figures, taken from Form IX. for the last School year of the various Schools, show:—

	Average Attendance for School Year.	Cost of Staff for same period.	Cost of Staff per Child.

The Report was approved. It was remitted to the School Work Committee to report regarding the attendance and staffs of the various Schools at the present date.

Dr. Harvey read the Report of the joint Committees of School Work and Finance as follows:—

REPORT OF JOINT MEETING OF THE COMMITTEES ON SCHOOL WORK AND FINANCE.

The Joint-Committees considered the remit to them on the Salaries of the Assistants in all the Schools, and have to recommend that the salaries of the following Assistants be increased to the sums set down after their respective names, the increase to take effect from the dates set forth after the names of the Schools to which the Assistants respectively belong, viz:—

In Bristo School, from 1st October 1879, Mary Ronaldson, £80, Jane Anderson, £70; in St. Leonard's School, from 1st January 1880, Elizabeth Gilchrist, £80, Jane Thallon, £75, Jane Prentice, £70; in West Fountainbridge School, from 1st December 1879, David Duke, £85. The Joint-Committees further recommend that the salary of Jane Gilray, Assistant in Dalry School, be increased to £70, to take effect from the commencement of the quarter in which she shall pass her examination for certificate.

THOS. HARVEY,
Convener of Committee on School Work.

JOHN TAWSE,

The Report was approved.

With those already reported to previous meetings 117 children have this Session been passed for admission to the Evening Classes; 25 allowed to attend Classes although not passed; 2 allowed to attend a day School for half time, and 1 allowed to be taught at home.

Mr. Kay moved the following motion of which he had given notice viz.:—"In view of the prevalence of intemperance, and of the fact that the difficulty of working the Compulsory Clause of the Education Act arises largely from this source, special service will be rendered by embracing every seasonable opportunity for impressing upon the children the evils of this debasing vice, and the dangers connected with the use, on the part of the young, of intoxicating drink. The Board will expect that the Masters shall, from time to time, report to them the manner in which they carry out the above instructions."

The Motion was seconded by Mr. Guthrie, and adopted.

REPORTS BY EXAMINERS.

I.—Report of the Examination of the High School of Edinburgh in the Classical Department, by Professor Roberts, St. Andrews.

TO THE SECRETARY, SCHOOL BOARD, EDINBURGH.

Sir,—I beg through you to report to the Edinburgh School Board that I examined the Royal High School in the Department of Classics on July 2d. I had an opportunity of observing the character of the teaching, as well as of testing for myself the attainments of the pupils. I found the Rector supported by a very able staff of Masters, and the teaching sound, intelligent, and energetic throughout. Great pains are taken to inculcate essential principles both in Greek and Latin, and while an excellent foundation for Scholarship in thus laid, the instruction given is also rendered most valuable as a means of mental discipline. I had the utmost pleasure and satisfaction in conducting the examination.

Perhaps I may be pardoned for remarking that, when a passage was set for translation into Latin Prose, the boys of the Fifth and Sixth Classes had to remove to the writing class-room, owing to the want of suitable desks in their own class-rooms. This, I understand, happens habitually, and the classes accordingly suffer considerable derangement. The evil might easily be remedied by the introduction of proper desks into the several class-rooms.

ALEX. ROBERTS,
Professor of Humanity.

University, St. Andrews,
July 4, 1879.

II.—Report on Examination of the High School of Edinburgh in French, German, and Mathematics, by J. KIRKPATRICK, Esq., Advocate, Edinburgh.

EDINBURGH, 10*th July* 1879.

GENTLEMEN,—Having at your request examined the classes of the Royal High School in French and German on the 7th inst., and in Mathematics on the 9th inst., I now beg to submit to you the following Report.

FRENCH.

I examined each of the following classes orally, devoting about three-quarters of an hour to each, and questioned nearly every pupil in each class.

Fifth Classical Class.—Most of the pupils in this class, as I was informed, had been learning French for about four years, usually receiving five lessons weekly, but several of them for about two years only. Most of them understood well when addressed by their master in French, and a number of them answered fairly in that language. Several pages of "Le Henriade" were read and translated intelligently by the class, and all the easier grammatical questions were answered readily and accurately. As worthy of honourable mention I may enumerate—

Beaumont, Cooper, Freeman, Langwill, Macmichael, Mein, Scott, J. Tod, and D. Tod.

Fifth Modern Class.—The boys in this class, with some exceptions, have been taught French for three years, usually receiving five lessons weekly. They were questioned, and in some cases answered readily and correctly, in French. The class translated several passages from the "Reader," and was examined on different parts of the Grammar, with which they appeared quite familiar. Honourable mention—

Bogle, Gibb, Jack, Johnston, Keir, Robb, J. D. Thomson, W. Thomson, Turnbull, and Wilson.

Fourth Classical Class.—The pupils of this class, most of whom have learned French about five times weekly for three years, were also questioned in French, and answered all ordinary grammatical questions with readiness and accuracy. They read several passages from French poets and prose writers, and a few of them (Latta in particular) pronounced well. Honourable mention—

Anderson, Burns, Capper, Cowan, Cullen, Elliot, Gibson, Latta, Mackay, and Walker.

Fourth Modern Class.—This class has been learning French for about the same time as the two last mentioned. Some of the boys translated English into French intelligently and accurately, and almost all translated French into English, and answered grammatical questions fairly well. Honourable mention—

Gibb, Lawrie, Macfarlane, Nobbs, Smith, Stobo, J. Wright, and T. Wright.

The result of the French Examination was on the whole satisfactory. The boys have evidently been thoroughly grounded in the grammar, and well taught in every respect. Their pronunciation was less satisfactory, but this I attribute entirely to the great difficulty of teaching very large and mixed classes, and not to any shortcoming on the part of their able and zealous Master. The discipline of all the classes was excellent.

GERMAN.

I examined each of the following classes orally for about three-quarters of an hour, and eighteen of the senior pupils by written paper also.

Sixth Classical Class.—The pupils in this class, as I was informed, have received three German lessons weekly for nearly two years. They read and translated several passages from German authors, and translated English sentences into German with accuracy and intelligence. With almost every part of the grammar they appeared quite conversant, and they understood all ordinary questions addressed to them in German. Honourable mention—

Burnet, Gibson, Gulland, Maclachlan, and Wilson.

Fifth Classical Class.—This class, which has been learning German three hours weekly since October 1878, acquitted itself very satisfactorily. Almost all the boys translated German into English, and answered grammatical questions readily and correctly, and understood well when addressed in German; and several of them translated idiomatic English sentences into German. Honourable mention—

Connel, Cooper, Faill, Kirkpatrick, Littlejohn, Maclean, Macmichael, Mein, Scott, Tod, and Wilson.

Fourth Modern Class.—This class, which has had five lessons weekly since October last, also acquitted itself satisfactorily. Most of the boys understood readily when questioned in German, translated German into English, and English into German correctly, and answered grammatical questions intelligently. Honourable mention—

Bruce, Dalgleish, Gibb, Lawrie, Macfarlane, Nobbs, Smith, Stobo, J. Wright, and T. Wright.

Written Paper.—Eighteen boys of the Senior German Classes were allowed three-quarters of an hour to answer a German paper of considerable length, including many grammatical questions, twelve sentences to translate from English into German, and two passages from Schiller's "Maria Stuart," to translate into English. Of the hundred marks allowed for this paper, I awarded 77 to C. Wilson for his excellent answers, and 63 to J. M'Lachlan. Several of the others were good, considering the shortness of the time allowed, and W. M. Teape deserves honourable mention for the neatness of his German handwriting.

The pronunciation of the boys in all the German Classes was fair, and in some cases very good, and their discipline excellent. On the whole, the result of the German Examination was very satisfactory. These classes have evidently been thoroughly well taught, and most of the boys seemed thoroughly interested in their work. I was specially struck with the proficiency they had all attained after so short a course of tuition.

MATHEMATICS.

I examined the following classes in Mathematics, devoting about one hour to each.

Sixth Classical Class.—This small and well-trained class was examined on the properties of the parabola, with which all the pupils seemed quite familiar, and in Elementary Trigonometry, the objects and application of which they thoroughly understood and intelligently explained. That they had all been well grounded in Euclid's Geometry was apparent from their readiness in applying its principles. Several quadratic equations were solved quickly and accurately by nearly the whole class.

Fifth Classical Class.—This class was examined in the first six books of Euclid, Algebra, and Arithmetic. Several of the boys demonstrated the propositions with great clearness and intelligence, using in some cases both Euclid's method and others. Several exercises on the first and third books were solved by almost the whole class with ease and accuracy. The whole class was also examined in quadratic and other equations, and gave clear explanations of the different algebraical operations.

Fourth Classical Class.—The subjects of examination were the first three books of Euclid, Algebra up to simple equations, and the whole of Arithmetic. In each of these the class acquitted itself satisfactorily, and all the boys worked out several questions in proportion very quickly and correctly.

The Sixth, Fifth, and Fourth Modern Classes were examined together. With every part of Arithmetic they were thoroughly conversant, while the senior boys showed an accurate acquaintance with the first six books of Euclid. As in the other classes, the reason and meaning of every operation was explained by the boys examined.

These classes are in a very satisfactory condition. I was much struck with the admirable clearness and precision with which the Master explained every Mathematical operation, while his pupils seemed thoroughly to appreciate his mode of instruction—nothing was done by rote—for everything a reason was given. The mystery of "carrying" in Arithmetic, and the haze surrounding the "rule of three," were thoroughly dispelled; and the apparent aimlessness of many of Euclid's propositions, and the seeming abstruseness of sine and cosine, tangent and cotangent, were lucidly explained. The pupils have been most successfully taught to use their reasoning powers instead of merely to tax their memories. To this truly scientific, and in some respects entirely new mode of teaching, I attribute the satisfactory and gratifying results attained by the Master in this department. The discipline of the classes was very good, and the pupils appeared really interested in their work.—I have the honour to be, Gentlemen, your most obedient Servant,

J. KIRKPATRICK.

III.—Report of the Examination of the High School of Edinburgh in English Literature, by Professor Masson, Edinburgh.

Having visited the High School on the 4th of the present month, and spent the day in observing the work of the six English Classes under the charge of Dr. Ross, I beg leave to report as follows :—

The classes came before me in the order of their usual times of meeting. First there was the Fifth Class on the Classical side of the school, containing about 48 pupils. The lesson here consisted of the reading of a scene from The Tempest, with questions as to the meaning of passages, the etymology of words, grammatical constructions, the verse, and related points of English literary history. Next came the Fifth and Sixth Classes on the Modern side, taken together. There were about 34 in all present, of whom I understood that 7 belonged to the higher class. The examination here, with Freeman's text-book for the basis, was in European History through the time of Louis XIV., the range of the questions geographically extending from Spain to Cyprus. To these classes succeeded the Sixth or highest English on the Classical side, numbering 16 pupils. They read a passage of some length from Chaucer's Knightes Tale, first with the archaic pronunciation, and then more freely; and the questions which followed, linguistic and literary, were of the kind proper to the highest reach of English teaching in a public school. The Fourth Class on the Modern side next appeared. There were present 45 pupils, out of 53 on the roll; and I heard ten short English essays read aloud by ten of the boys, and afterwards took the manuscripts into my hands for inspection. There succeeded the Fourth Class on the Classical side, which is Dr. Ross's lowest on that side, and has, I believe, 60 boys on the roll. They read Lycidas through, and were questioned not only on verbal and grammatical points, but also on the occasion and history of the poem and the life of the poet. Finally, the Fourth Class on the Modern side reappeared, for an examination in the portion of Freeman's text-book they had been recently reading. The subjects were the Frankish Empire, the Caliphate, and the early mediæval relations between the East and the West. Geographical knowledge was tested, as well as acquaintance with personages and events.

In each class I asked Dr. Ross to conduct the lesson in his own way, that I might note the style of the teaching as well as the results; but I put such questions myself as occurred to me, and I suggested to Dr. Ross at several points the directions I wished his questions to take.

From all I saw, I have again to express my belief that the English teaching in the High School is in a thoroughly satisfactory state, and does justice to the best expectations that have been formed of what may be done with and through English in fit hands in the general system of such a metropolitan academy. In the matter of the amount of miscellaneous information, historical, geographical, and philological, that may be conveyed by means of English lessons, Dr. Ross's English teaching may be described as unusually "full-bodied;" while in the more special matters of drill in grammatical accuracy, instruction in the history of the English vocabulary and of English accidence, and the cultivation of literary taste and an interest in literature, there is ample evidence of continued success.

In former Reports, if I remember rightly, I expressed my sense of the particular importance, in English classes, of the practice of reading aloud with good elocution, and the practice also of a habit of neat and business-like readiness in written English. In this Examination I was much pleased with the readings in the various classes, and I had the impression even of a perceptible general improvement in the matter of reading. My opportunity of judging of the attention paid to English Composition in the various classes was through the ten little essays which I heard read by ten of the boys of the Fourth Class on the Modern side, and which I afterwards looked at in manuscript. They were very creditable indeed as specimens of English,—some of them spirited and lively; and my glance over the manuscripts gave me the impression of general neatness in the form, correctness of spelling, and very fair notions of punctuation. This class, it is to be remembered, is on the Modern side of the school, and is the least advanced on that side of those examined by me. Corresponding proficiency in English Composition in the Upper Classes would be an excellent merit, and is to be inferred.

May I be permitted a concluding remark with reference to this very matter of regular practice of all the classes in writing English? The present accommodations of the English Class-room in the High School are hardly fitted for the purpose. The seats and the writing benches are not what they should be for classes which it is desirable to resolve at any moment into a number of boys engaged individually in doing their best on an English paper.

IV.—Report of the Examination of the High School of Edinburgh on the three Junior Classes, by JAMES DONALDSON, Rector.

HIGH SCHOOL, July 19, 1879.

I HAVE examined the three lower classes of the High School in English Spelling and Composition, in Geography, History, Latin, French, and Arithmetic.

In conducting this examination, I thought it might be interesting to keep in view the requirements of the Scotch Code, and accordingly, in testing the First Class, I had in my mind the work of the Fourth Standard, in testing the Second, that of the Fifth, and in testing the Third that of the Sixth. Of course allowance must be made for the differences that exist between an ordinary Primary School, and such a school as the High School. In the latter, every boy in the First Class has to grapple with two specific subjects besides his ordinary work, and he does a good deal more of ordinary work than is prescribed in the Code. There is also no special cramming for the examination. In the Second and Third Classes of the High School, each pupil must take three specific subjects in addition to the work of the pass.

In spelling, I found that the First Class did not do well. Scarcely more than a half reached a point of accuracy which I could deem satisfactory. This is partly to be accounted for, by the circumstance that some parents prefer to send their children young to the school, that they may be two years in the First Class. In the Second Class the results were much more satisfactory. Only two or three failed, and they were only one or two marks below the standard of success. In the Third Class the results were eminently satisfactory. I prescribed for its pupils a letter on a subject on which they had never written before, and most of them gave me letters, remarkable for the beauty of the penmanship, the accuracy of the spelling, and the correctness and neatness of the composition. A very large number had no mistakes in spelling or punctuation. All would have easily passed the Sixth Standard except two. These were not much below the mark, and knowing the boys as I do, I do not think that they could have been brought to do so well as they did without the most careful and skilful training.

I was pleased to find a considerable improvement in geography, but I was specially pleased with the marked improvement in history. In the three classes most of the boys answered well. In the First Class there were two boys who failed to make much of the questions, in the Second there were three close approaches to failure, and there were five in the Third Class who did not do well. All, however, did something, and some, especially in the Third Class, were remarkably good. I was much struck with the circumstance that there was very little confusion of men, time, and place in the answers—very much less than I generally find in historical papers. The pupils either gave the right answer or they gave none. They were able also to deal intelligently with Acts and Laws. They nearly all gave an accurate account of the Habeas Corpus Act, and most of them of the Bill of Rights and similar documents.

In French the results are satisfactory. Only two or three papers out of both classes would deserve the appellation of bad, and most of them were very good. The teacher pursues a method which has invariably produced good results at examinations. He gives the pupils just such an amount of work as even the slowest can thoroughly master if he takes a little pains, and as it is necessarily to a large extent an effort of memory, the matter may be retained and given forth with great accuracy. At all events, in these French papers, translations from English into French and French into English are both given with great precision.

In Latin I tried the pupils of the three classes in Latin Composition. This is the severest test that could be applied to them, and indeed so difficult of attainment is strict accuracy in Latin Composition, that I think boys of average ability cannot reach it without an expenditure of time and energy which the result can scarcely justify. In boys of average ability only a moderate success is to be expected with the time that can be spared for the exercise.

The boys of the First Class did remarkably well in their translations from English into Latin. They had evidently been thoroughly grounded, and most of the mistakes committed arose from failure to notice the exact force of the English, not from ignorance of the forms of inflection. The Second Class also presents a very high average of excellence, but there are more failures. These, however, are, I have no doubt, the exercises of boys who, being well up in English and Arithmetic, and older than the others, have been admitted into the Second Class, though considerably behind in Latin. Dr. Cranstoun reports to me that these boys have worked well and made great progress, though labouring under great disadvantages owing to their previous training.

The Third Class makes a very creditable appearance in Latin Composition. The average on the whole is very high, and there are few whose exercises are bad.

The Second Class was examined in Roman History and the geography of Italy, and the Third in Greek History and the geography of Greece, but as the time I allowed for the paper was too short, I cannot form an accurate estimate. I think, however, that there is room for improvement in this department, and that a greater stimulus must be applied to the boys in connection with these subjects.

In Arithmetic the First Class does remarkably well. Some clear the entire paper, and all but five do a large number of the questions accurately. The five are, I think, exceptionally young pupils.

The Second Class is also remarkably accurate in the answers to the questions. I think the whole class, with one exception, would pass the Fifth Standard, and probably that pupil might have been brought to the passing point, if he had been specially prepared.

The Third Class was tried by a standard considerably more difficult than that of the Sixth Standard. The results here are not so satisfactory. The intelligence is brought greatly into play in dealing with questions in Compound Proportion or Interest, or similar practical operations. If the pupil cannot readily apply his mind to disentangling the apparently confused elements of the problem, he is sure to fail. And accordingly, in examining schools I find that failures here are most frequent. The Third Class of the High School has proved no exception to the general rule. Two failed entirely. A considerable number adopted wrong methods, and accordingly got wrong results. A large number did well, but few were able to answer nearly all the questions. The time may have been too short; but even if allowance is made for this, I think the results might have been better if special attention were paid to the intellectual apprehension of the problems involved in the questions. Even those who failed showed that they had had great practice and skill in mere reckoning.

I have been much assisted in my examination by Mr. Arnot, and the Masters of the various classes.

EDINBURGH SCHOOL BOARD.

REPORTS by Rev. James Currie, Rector of the Church of Scotland Normal School, and by Maurice Paterson, Esq., Rector of the Free Church Normal School, on Religious Instruction in Edinburgh Board Schools.

I.—REPORTS BY THE REV. MR. CURRIE.

Stockbridge School.

There were present in this school on the day of my visit 716 children, of whom upwards of one-third (250) were in the Infant Department.

Infants.—These were working in three divisions. The Youngest (32) consisted of pupils who had joined school too recently to be subjected to examination. The Middle (32) under charge of an assistant-teacher, professed for repetition—one hymn, Par. 37, the Beatitudes, and a selection of texts from Scripture; for Scripture Knowledge, stories from Genesis, and the early Life of our Lord. The repetition was performed with satisfactory correctness and promptitude, both individually and simultaneously, the texts being arranged (with good effect as a help to the memory), so as to form a sort of Scripture Alphabet. The examination on the early Life of our Lord, conducted by the teacher, gave evidence on her part of an interesting and efficient method of instruction. The Senior division professed for repetition—Ps. 121, Par. 37, a Hymn, the Beatitudes, selected texts, and the Ten Commandments; and for Scripture Knowledge, Bible Stories principally from Genesis, and the early Life of our Lord. Their appearance on both parts of their profession satisfied me that both instruction and drill are carried on with much vigour. Nevertheless there was an inequality in the answering, both in substance and in expression, which suggested that better results would be obtained if this large section were broken up into two parts for the purposes of religious teaching.

STANDARDS I. AND II., present 185, professed for repetition—Ps. 23, 121, 130, Par. 2, 4, 11, the Ten Commandments, and Questions 100-107; for Scripture Knowledge, outlines of the Book of Genesis, with the Life of Joseph more particularly, and the early Life of our Lord, with an account of some of his Miracles. Boys and girls were examined separately. The girls (88) did their repetition intelligently and well. Their Scripture Knowledge was tested by an examination on the narrative of the Life of Joseph conducted partly by the teacher and partly by myself; the results were good, the answering being general over the class, and throughout keen and intelligent. The teacher of the class (a pupil-teacher in her fifth year) performs her work quietly, but pleasantly and effectively. The boys (87) were in charge of a pupil-teacher in his fourth year. Their repetition was on the whole satisfactory, their answering on the meaning and history of the Commandments more particularly so; though there was a noticeable tendency to speak in too low a tone. Their Scripture Knowledge was tested by examination on some of our Lord's miracles. If their answering was not quite equal to that of the girls, there was still evidence that they had gone over the ground with care. I was glad to learn that the instruction had been specially supervised and supplemented by the Head-master.

STANDARD III., present 114, professed for repetition—Ps. 121, 130, Par. 11, 27, Isaiah liii., Luke i. 46-55, Shorter Catechism, Questions 39-82. The parts of this profession which I heard, viz.—Ps. 130, Par. 11, and the whole of the chapter from Isaiah, had been well committed, and questions on the sense were very fairly answered. They offered for Scripture Knowledge—the Old Testament narrative from the birth of Moses to the conquest of Canaan, and, from the New Testament, the Gospel of St. Matthew. The examination turned on the Old Testament narrative from the crossing of the Red Sea onwards, the incidents taken up being the song of Moses, the murmurings at Marah and Rephidim, and in the Wilderness of Sin, the battle at Rephidim, the giving of the Law, the golden calf, and the sending of the spies. The examination over this ground was conducted by the teacher in charge (a certificated assistant), with clearness and firmness, and amidst the entire attention of the class; and it brought out on the part of the latter a satisfactory knowledge of the subject. Time did not permit of examination on their New Testament profession, the Gospel of St. Matthew; I should say, however, that it is not a sufficiently definite profession (as it can hardly be the entire gospel that is meant), and that it does not stand in sufficiently clear relation to the profession of the following Standard. The class made a very good appearance on the Shorter Catechism, both as to its text and its meaning. I have to add that this Standard receives its instruction ordinarily in two sections, though they were brought together for the purpose of this examination. This entitles its appearance to be considered all the more satisfactory.

STANDARD IV., with 85 pupils present, professed for repetition—Ps. 98, 130, Par. 11, 27, 30, Isaiah xxxv. John xv. and Shorter Catechism, Questions 39-107. From this extensive profession I selected Ps. 98, Par. 30, and John xv.; which were recited by the class as a whole with very creditable correctness and promptitude. For Scripture Knowledge they had studied the narrative of Israel under Joshua, and the Judges, and the Parables and Discourses in the first three Gospels. Their examination in the Old Testament showed a good and general knowledge of the events of the history, earlier and later, under Joshua; they named the principal Parables of our Lord readily, and indicated their import; and in the one selected for more detailed notice (the good Samaritan), showed that they had creditably mastered the story and its meaning. Less satisfactory was their answering on the Sermon on the Mount; their hold of it was not sufficient. The work of this Standard taken altogether proceeds in a very satisfactory way. The instruction is well-considered and clear; the attitude of the class one of attention and interest.

STANDARDS V., VI., AND EX. VI., numbering 92 present. These three Standards have to a great extent been instructed on common ground, and were therefore so far examined together. Their profession for repetition was Ps. 46, 90, 98, 130, and 145, (2d version), with Ps. 40 and 95, in addition for the more advanced pupils; Par. 4, 27, 30, 39, 54; Romans viii. 1-20, with iv. 21-39 added for the seniors; Shorter Catechism, the whole, with proofs of Questions 1-45, added for the Seniors, as a voluntary exercise; Ps. 119 for the Seniors. The parts of this profession that I heard, viz., Ps. 145, Par. 30, 54, and Shorter Catechism, Question 82 and onwards, were repeated in a style that left little to be desired. On the Catechism there was much intelligent answering. The voluntary exercise, Ps. 119—an exercise more common in Schools in the olden time than now—was performed, if not with perfect fluency, at any rate in a way which showed that it had been made the subject of serious and careful work. For Scripture Knowledge, the combined Standards professed Samuel I. and II.; of which they showed a good knowledge. The mutual questioning by members of the section, which seems to be habitually practised, and of which I had a specimen, serves the purpose of securing, in its own way, that the attention of all is directed to more out-of-the-way points in the narrative, as well as to those which are most prominent. The remainder of the time I had at disposal for examining this highest department of the School was devoted to the New Testament work of Standards VI., and Ex. VI., which was the Acts of the Apostles (History and Geography included). Forty pupils took part in the exercise. The parts selected for examination were the work and death of Stephen, and the second Missionary journey of the Apostle Paul. The examination was successful. There was ready and general response to all questions that had for their aim to bring out the sequence of facts in the history, showing that teacher and class had made excellent use of their time. If there was any defect, it was in the answering to questions that required reflection on what they knew. But bearing in mind that the school in its present shape has been working at its programme for only the latter half of the session, I have no difficulty in saying that the appearance of these Standards was highly satisfactory.

The staff of this large School has been entirely, or almost entirely changed during the currency of the session, a fact that had to be kept in view in estimating its present state. I had occasion in my last report to express a very high opinion of the efficiency of the whole school. I have now to say that—so far as it falls to me to report upon it—it continues to maintain its position. Its performance has been very satisfactory; and I believe that with the consolidation which the lapse of another year will bring it will be still more so.

New Street School.

There were present in this School on the day of my visit 794; of whom 322 were in the Infant School, and 472 in the Upper School.

Infant School.—This school carries on its work in two departments, a junior and a senior. The Junior (159), under charge of a mistress, professed for repetition—Ps. 23, Par. 2, a few Hymns, and Scripture Texts; for Scripture Knowledge—stories from Genesis and the early Life of Moses, together with the early Life of Jesus, and incidents in the Life of John the Baptist. The repetition was given correctly and distinctly, and was shared in by all parts of the class: a more advanced section wrote a text on their slates. The lesson given by the teacher on the birth of Jesus showed a very good idea of what such teaching should be, though the performance fell somewhat short of the idea; the answering elicited being by no means general. Even with perfect discipline, I should doubt the expediency of attempting to carry on the instruction of so large a number of such children together. The Senior section (163), comprising children in Standards I. and II., under charge of an assistant mistress, professed for repetition—Par. 37, 41, 58, 66, Scripture Texts, and the Ten Commandments; for Bible-Knowledge—the narrative of the Lives of Samuel and Elijah. For repetition Par. 37, a selection of texts, and the Commandments were chosen. The appearance made by the section was very satisfactory; the extent to which their intelligence is exercised on the passages committed being very noticeable. The lesson given by the teacher on the story of Elijah was listened to with marked attention; and, both in its method and in its results, was very successful. This section was examined under considerable disadvantages. Ordinarily taught in two parts, it was examined collectively. Its principal teacher has lately moved to another school under the Board. So much the more credit is due to the younger teacher actually in charge. She had the entire section thoroughly in hand, and quite sustained its attention and interest throughout both parts of its exercise.

Upper School.—STANDARD I., with 144 pupils present, professed for repetition—Ps. 23, Par. 33, 54, a number of Texts, and the Ten Commandments; for Bible Knowledge—the Lives of Joseph and Moses, and the early Life of Jesus. Their repetition was creditably accurate, and joined in by the class as a whole; whilst they showed a very fair understanding of the sense of what they had learned, particularly of the Decalogue. A lesson on the life of Joseph was given by the teacher to very good purpose. Whilst it elicited on the part of the pupils a very satisfactory knowledge of the facts in the narrative, it directed their attention on every suitable opportunity to their practical bearing. It was at once interesting, impressive, and useful. This Standard, though occupying a room by itself, is too large to be ordinarily instructed as one class: I was glad to know that it is, for the most part, subdivided into three for its religious instruction, the teacher having two pupil-teachers to assist her.

STANDARD II., comprising Classes VII. and VII^2 of the school, with 71 pupils present, is under immediate charge of a pupil-teacher in her fourth year. It professed for Bible Knowledge—the lives of Abraham and Joseph, and the Life of Christ; but was examined in its memory-work alone. This comprised Ps. 41, 93; Par. 20, 54, 60; and Shorter Catechism, Questions 1-30 for Class VII^2, and 63-81 for Class VII. The two Psalms and the Paraphrase which were selected were given correctly, though on the whole, with too rapid an utterance; and were satisfactorily explained by a fair number of the section. The pupils showed themselves well acquainted with the parts of the Shorter Catechism which they professed. I was again reminded, however, of the necessity of a certain amount of close supervision in the case of pupil-teachers entrusted with Religious Instruction.

STANDARD III., Class VI. of the school, with 32 present, under charge of a pupil-teacher in her fourth year, professed for repetition—Ps. 51, 124; Par. 66; and Shorter Catechism 45-62. It was examined, however, only in its Bible Knowledge, which comprised the Book of Judges, Esther, and Acts, Chaps. i.-xii. The part of the Scripture Narrative specially selected was the story of Gideon; on which the answering was satisfactory. The teacher acquitted herself well. If on some points the questioning was not sufficiently searching, she still conducted her lesson in an orderly and intelligent way; and, in the result, gave evidence of having carried her class carefully over the ground.

STANDARD III., being Class V. of the school, with 65 pupils present, is under charge of the principal assistant master. It offered for memory-work—Ps. 24, 90; Par. 3, 39; and Shorter Catechism Questions 40-107; for Bible Knowledge, the Books of Judges and Esther, with the Life of St. Paul. The passages chosen for repetition—Ps. 24, 90; and Questions 82 and onwards—were said correctly and fluently, and explained very fairly by a considerable proportion of the Standard; but the utterance was in many cases too quick. For examination in Bible Knowledge the Life of St. Paul was chosen. The teaching was interesting, well-informed, and vigorous; though it was tolerant of simultaneous answering, to such a degree as to throw the answering virtually into the hands of a very limited number of the pupils. Those who took an independent part in the answering showed a very good and ready knowledge of the subject of the apostle's conversion and missionary journeys.

STANDARD III., comprising Classes III. and IV. of the school, and having 76 present, was examined by the master, though the daily instruction is devolved immediately on two pupil-teachers. It offered for repetition—Ps. 15, 25, 40, 103-138; Par. 11, 25, 46; a selection from the Book of Proverbs; and Shorter Catechism, Questions 1-40; for Bible Knowledge, Kings i., ii. 1-10; the Parables of Christ, and Acts i.-xii. From their memory-work, the part selected for examination was the Catechism and the Proverbs; and on this they answered not only with fluency and correctness, but with intelligence. They likewise showed themselves to be fairly well acquainted with the Parables. Their power of connected expression was perhaps not great; but they showed themselves, in their own way, acquainted both with the story and the meaning of the Parables selected. Some of the pupils answered very well.

STANDARDS IV. V., comprising 84 present, and under charge of a mistress and advanced pupil-teacher for their Religious Instruction, were examined together over the ground which was common to both. For repetition they offered the Shorter Catechism entire, a selection from Proverbs, and eleven Psalms and Paraphrases, between the two Standards; for Bible Knowledge the History of the Kingdoms of Judah and Israel, Acts, chaps. i.-xii. (for Standard IV.), and chaps. xiii.-xxviii. (for Standard V.) Both standards were able to quote freely and correctly from the Book of Proverbs, and both answered very satisfactorily in an examination on the text and meaning of the Catechism, from Question 82 onwards. A number of the pupils were able to bring the teaching in our Lord's Parables to bear on the illustration of such questions as those on Repentance, Faith, and Prayer. Their teacher questioned them on the narratives of the separation of the Kingdoms and the reign of Ahab quietly and solidly, with the result of eliciting very good and general answering. My own examination on the Book of Acts led me to form an equally favourable opinion of the care and thoroughness with which their New Testament instruction had been given. Bearing in mind that this class had suffered a good deal from the shifting of its pupils, and that it was really but the remains of the class which had been at work during the earlier part of the Session, I ought to say that its appearance was specially creditable.

This school occupies a somewhat different position from most of the other schools of the Board. It is attended by a lower class of children; and it has to contend with irregular attendance on the part of the children, and with indifference on the part of the parents in more than the usual degree. That a certain amount of inequality should be observable in the results of its working is nothing more than might be expected. The result over the whole testifies to great care, and labour, and ability, on the part of the master and his assistants, in conducting the Religious Instruction of the school.

Bristo School.

There were present in this School on the day of my visit in all 907, of whom there were in the Infant School 248, in the Upper School 659.

Infant School.—I found this department working in three divisions. The youngest consisted of mere beginners (39), whose school-attendance of from a fortnight to a month did not qualify them for any examination. The middle division (85) offered for repetition—what may be said to be the usual profession for such a class—The Lord's Prayer, Ps. 23, Par. 2, one or two Hymns, and a limited number of Texts from Scripture (in this case 9). The children repeated the several parts of this profession with creditable correctness and fluency, but with hardly sufficient intelligence. Their Scripture Knowledge included the narrative in the early part of Genesis, and the birth and childhood of our Lord. I should have expected more. The topic selected for lesson was "Jesus found in the temple among the doctors." This was given by the teacher in a lively and intelligent way; though the order and attention of the children were not all that might be desired. The Senior division, consisting partly of "Standard" children, and numbering 124, professed for repetition Ps. 23, Par. 2, six hymns, a large number of Scripture texts, and the Ten Commandments. For Scripture Knowledge, it had gone over the principal incidents in the Book of Genesis and the early part of Exodus; and from the New Testament, the Birth and early Life of our Lord, together with a number of his miracles and the story of his death. The repetition was highly satisfactory, ample evidence being given that it involved the exercise of intelligence as well as memory, and the whole performance being conducted in a quiet, orderly, and effective way. The raising of Lazarus was chosen as the subject of Bible Lesson. The answering of the class was general and correct, showing that they were familiar with the story; the style and method of the teaching were altogether good. The power of the teacher in conducting the instruction of this large class is very noticeable.

Upper School.—STANDARD I. was presented in two divisions, the lower containing 88 present, the upper 92. The lower division had been lately constituted from amongst the Infants and other entrants; and its profession on that account was limited. For repetition it was working at Ps. 23, and the Ten Commandments; and it had gone over the early part of the narrative in Genesis, on which its examination was mainly conducted. In its limited profession it answered with a fair degree of interest and readiness, though the answering was unequal over the class. On the whole the class was as yet hardly in a fit state of advancement for examination. The upper division of this Standard made a very different appearance. Its profession for repetition was adequate, comprising Ps. 100, 103, Par. 37, 38, Matt. v. 1-12, Shorter Catechism, Questions 1-20, and the Commandments. Its rendering of the passage from St. Matthew's Gospel and of the answers from the Catechism, was done by a fair number of the class correctly and promptly, and showed besides that their intelligence had been exercised on what they had committed. In Scripture the class had gone over the Book of Genesis and the early Life of our Lord. Jacob's vision at Bethel was selected as the subject of lesson; the answering showed satisfactory knowledge, and the class-drill was good.

STANDARD II. was also presented for examination in two divisions, the lower numbering 88, the upper 67. The profession was the same in both divisions, being, for repetition, Ps. 100, 103, Par. 37, 38, 39; Matt. v. 1-12, and 1 Cor. xiii.; Shorter Catechism, 1-39, and 39-82; and for Scripture Knowledge, the narratives of the Lives of Jacob and Joseph, and of the deliverance from Egypt, together with the "Life of Christ as recorded by St. Luke." The lower division gave Ps. 103 imperfectly: could not give Matt. v. 1-12; answered fairly on the Shorter Catechism, 39-82, though it did not know 1-39. The examination on the Old Testament narrative (the Deliverance) was more successful; a fair knowledge of the facts was elicited, though the answering was not marked by the ease and spontaneousness which result from mastery. The repetition by the upper division was better done, though its intelligence had not kept pace with its memory-work. Its Scripture Knowledge was tested by examination on the New Testament narrative of the Temptation of our Lord and some of his miracles. The answering was more general in this division, and showed a better knowledge of the subject. The teacher performed his share of the work with much energy, though hardly as yet with equal sympathy. On the whole, I should say that the profession made by this Standard was not justified by its appearance. I cannot doubt that the teacher has worked hard. But the memory-work offered by the lower division seems to be too much for it; as also, I am inclined to think, does its New Testament profession seem to be for the higher.

STANDARD III. was also presented in two divisions, the lower numbering 77, the higher 67. Both divisions made the same profession; for repetition Ps. 100, 103; Par. 42, 43, 44, a selection from the Book of Proverbs; Luke ii. 46-55, and Shorter Catechism, 82-107; for Scripture Knowledge, the History of Israel from the Exodus to the Conquest of Canaan, and the Life of Jesus Christ according to St. Luke's Gospel. My examination of the lower was necessarily brief, being directed to their Scripture Knowledge only (the Wanderings of Israel). The class, which had been a good deal mixed lately, showed a very fair general knowledge of the field selected for questioning. The higher division repeated Par. 43, 44, Ps. 100, some Proverbs, and answers from the Catechism and Question 82 onwards, with very fair intelligence. Their examination on some of the Miracles of our Lord, Draught of Fishes, Healing of Centurion's servant, and Raising of the Widow of Nain's son, was satisfactory. For the rest, a little further time for revisal would doubtless have improved the general appearance of the Standard.

STANDARD IV. had its two divisions (115 present) combined for the purposes of this examination. It professed for repetition,—Ps. 100, 103; Par. 35, 40, 42, 43, 44; Isaiah liii.; Eccl. xi. 9 to end, and Shorter Catechism 1-39, and 82 to end; for Scripture Knowledge, the history of Israel under Joshua and the Judges, and the Parables of our Lord. The repetition was on the whole satisfactory. The pupils of the Standard showed an adequate knowledge of the text of the Catechism; and some of them answered well upon the sense. The chapter from Isaiah was given correctly, but in too low a tone. The part of Scripture selected for lesson was the narrative of the occupation of Canaan under Joshua. The appearance made by the class satisfied me that they had gone carefully and intelligently over the ground professed.

STANDARDS V. VI., with a total of 65 present, were likewise examined together. Their profession for memory-work was extensive, comprising ten Psalms, Proverbs, chaps. i., ii., iii., and viii., 2 Sam. i. 19-27, St. John's Gospel xvii., Romans viii. 28-39, and (for the Sixth Standard in addition) Epistle of James, chap. i., and the Shorter Catechism, with Proofs of 1-32. From Scripture they had studied, in the Old Testament, the two Books of Samuel, with corresponding passages in Kings and Chronicles; and in the New, the Acts of the Apostles, specially St. Paul's journeys. Judging by the parts of their repetition I heard, I should say that the profession was, in the circumstances, too extensive. They had gone over it all with care and intelligence; but in the chapters from Proverbs which happened to be chosen, their understanding of the sense was better than their command of the text. They said Ps. 24 very well, and were able to connect it intelligently with the events in David's reign, to which it refers. All the Psalms they had committed had been explained in this way. Their examination on Scripture was on the Acts of the Apostles, St. Paul's second journey in particular. They were able to give an account of it in detail with a degree of correctness and promptitude which showed that they had mastered the subject they specially professed. Their appearance in answering supplementary general questions on the earlier half of the book was perhaps not quite up to the same level of merit; but it wanted only revisal to be so.

In this school, as in others, the arrangements for the purpose of religious instruction are judiciously made. The "intelligence" part of the work is in the main in the hands of the head-master and assistants; the pupil-teachers are called to aid chiefly in the memory-work. The former is now taken with all the classes in separate class-rooms; an arrangement which must work better than where a number of classes are instructed side by side in a very large hall. I have had occasion to notice some inequalities of result in the work of the school as a whole. It is due to it to say that from its Government year ending at mid-winter, the classes in their present form have been working at their programme of religious instruction only since January. Even now they have been deprived of the opportunity of an additional fortnight's revisal which they might reasonably have expected to have had. Allowing for this, the results attained are highly creditable, testifying to much hard and well-directed work.

Leith Walk School.

The number of pupils present was 1011; of whom there were in the Infant School 344, in the Upper School 667.

Infant School.—I found this department working in four divisions. The Lowest, consisting of children (51) who had entered school within a few weeks, I did not examine. The Junior division was the most numerous, containing 126 present. Its profession was, for repetition, one Psalm, one Paraphrase, and a number of Scripture texts; for Bible Knowledge, the narrative of the Old Testament from the beginning of Genesis to the commencement of the Wanderings, and the Birth of Jesus. The pupils recited (in this case singing) the 23d Psalm correctly and softly; their texts were both well elicited from them and well given; whilst their Scripture lesson (Jacob's vision) was skilfully conducted, and brought out from the class a very satisfactory amount of answering. The working of the division was characterised by order, promptitude, and quietness. The Senior infants (72) under charge of an assistant, offered for repetition, one Psalm, one Paraphrase, one Hymn, and Texts; and for Bible Knowledge, the Old Testament Narrative (in outline) down to the shepherd-life of David, and the Birth of our Lord. Their repetition was entirely satisfactory. In particular, the texts were well handled; each text being reached after a short process of questioning, which showed that it was the expression of an idea or of a fact which had been intelligently worked into their minds. In Scripture Knowledge the class made an appearance on the topic selected (the Birth of Jesus) which showed a good acquaintance with all the circumstances of the incident.

STANDARD I. in the Infant Department, numbering 95, and under charge of an assistant, had committed to memory three Psalms and the Ten Commandments; and in their Scripture lessons had gone over the Old Testament narrative to the death of Moses, together with the Birth and early Life of our Lord. The appearance made by this division also deserves commendation. Their examination turned on the decalogue and on the third period of Moses's life; the two parts of the exercise being taken in connection with each other. The class is well handled and well taught.

In this large Infant School the arrangements for Religious Instruction are well planned and effectively worked. The principal teacher, whilst exercising a regular superintendence over the two higher sections, makes it her special work to put the large junior section into shape, and lay the foundation of their instruction. Both she and her two assistants do their work well, and the results are quite satisfactory.

Upper School.—STANDARD I. (143 present) is under charge of an assistant-mistress and two pupil-teachers. Its profession was for memory work—Ps. 1, 8, Par. 3, 30, the Ten Commandments; for Scripture Knowledge, the Biographies in Genesis, and the early Life of our Lord, represented by Matthew i., Luke i., Mark i.-viii. If in their repetition a little more promptitude and self-reliance all over might have been desired, there was evidence that much care had been bestowed on their understanding of what they had learned. The teacher examined the class on the Parable of the Sower. The exercise was better perhaps as a lesson than as an examination. It was hardly exacting enough from the class in the way of showing their knowledge; on the other hand, the spirit of it was excellent. Bearing in mind that the weak side of School Bible Instruction is its tendency to be too exclusively matter-of-fact, it was pleasant to see the earnest way in which the lesson was sought to be turned to practical account. This large division is ordinarily taught in three parts, the teacher taking them collectively twice a week for revising and testing, an arrangement which seems to be satisfactory.

STANDARD II.—This standard being very large (172), carries on its work as three classes. For the purpose of this examination it was taken in two parts; the two lower classes together, the upper by itself. The standard as a whole professed for repetition—Ps. 24, 95, Par. 4, 66, Shorter Catechism 1-20, and Matt. v. 1-12; and for Bible Knowledge, the Life of Moses and St. Mark's Gospel, chap. ix. onwards. The two lower classes were heard on their repetition alone; and on it they made a very good appearance. They recited Ps. 24, and Par. 66, freely and intelligently; and their answering on the part of the Catechism they had studied was ready and general. All the questions on the Beatitudes were answered by one pupil or another; though they did not seem to be so much at home in this part of their exercise. The appearance of the two classes were the more creditable that their teacher has been in charge only since April. The instruction of the upper class in this Standard is carried on by a pupil-teacher, under the supervision of the Head-master. The short specimen I had of their repetition (Ps. 95) showed me that considerable care had been bestowed on their intelligence of what they learnt; but their utterance was too rapid and formal, and their giving off not sufficiently accurate. Their examination in Scripture was on the narrative of the Wanderings (from the Red Sea onwards). The ground had been carefully gone over, and the exercise was conducted by the pupil-teacher, if in too exclusively a matter-of-fact way, still with fluency and creditable knowledge of his subject. The "something more" which is desirable must fall to be supplied by the stated visits of the master to the class.

STANDARD III. works in three classes also; of which the two lower, numbering 102, were examined together. The Standard as a whole professed for repetition—Ps. 46, 103, Par. 18, 25, Shorter Catechism 21-38, Isaiah liii., Luke i. 46-55; and for Scripture Knowledge, the Books of Joshua and Judges, and the Gospel of St. Luke. The repetition of Psalm and Catechism was fairly well done, and so also, by some, was the answering on the sense of what had been committed. Their knowledge of Scripture appeared to be rather much of an outline. The most prominent facts in Joshua and in the early part of the Gospel, which every one knows, they knew; a somewhat more detailed knowledge should be aimed at. The pupil-teachers (one of whom had been with her class only for three months) did their share of the work in a way which showed considerable promise. The highest class in this Standard numbered 66 present, and is under charge of an assistant-teacher, who acquitted herself in an altogether satisfactory way. Time permitted me to hear a specimen of its Bible work alone. And on the ground chosen—the concluding events of our Lord's life,—the class answered with a readiness and a correctness which showed both an adequate knowledge of, and a general interest in, their work. The instruction and discipline seemed to me to leave little to be desired.

STANDARD IV., numbering 101 present, is under charge of an assistant-master, who was unfortunately absent on the day of examination. The duty of hearing the Standard accordingly fell a good deal into the hands of the pupil-teacher associated with him, who did his work, however, with a praiseworthy measure of intelligence and self-reliance. For repetition, the Standard had committed Ps. 19, 84, 90, Par. 8, 39, 48, Shorter Catechism 39-82, and 100-107, Prov. i., St. John's Gospel iii. 14-21; and for Scripture Knowledge it had studied Ruth and Samuel i., ii., together with the Parables of our Lord. Their repetition was satisfactory, so far as correctness is concerned; less so in the matter of utterance, which was hasty and indistinct. They showed fair understanding of what they had learned. Their examination in Scripture included the life of Saul and the Parables; the former being taken by their teacher, the latter by myself. They showed a good general knowledge of the Old Testament narrative; and in the case of the Parables chosen by me they could give the story well, and a fairly correct, though concise, account of their spiritual meaning. The teacher has been attached to the class for three months; I have the less hesitation on that account in saying that they had gone over the ground professed carefully and well.

STANDARDS V. VI., with 83 present, were taken together for the purposes of this examination. Their profession was, for repetition, Ps. 34, 46, 51, 84, 145; Par. 26, 35, 49, 52, 56. To this, Standard V. added Shorter Catechism 82-107, with Proofs 1-20, Proverbs viii. 1-36, Luke xii. 22-40; and Standard VI. added Shorter Catechism 1-107, with Proofs 1-38; Proverbs vi. 6-11, xxiii. 29-35, xxxi. 10-31; Matthew xxv. 31-46, Rev. xx. 11-15. In Scripture they had studied I. and II. Kings and the Acts of the Apostles. The passages I heard repeated were Proverbs vi., Ps. 145, and Luke xii. 22-40. The two first were well said; the last fairly well, but it wanted (as was explained to me) revisal both for its language and its sense. The Catechism was taken up, 82-107, and the examination showed that the Standards were not only familiar with the text, but had a good understanding of the meaning of the questions. The passage selected with the view of testing their Scripture Knowledge (suggested by the course of the examination on the question on Repentance) was Acts x. xi., containing the narrative of the conversion of Cornelius. On this they were examined, both by the teacher and myself, with satisfactory results. They were further questioned, at my desire, by the pupil-teacher who assists with these Standards, on the first Missionary journey of St. Paul. It was satisfactory to find that this, the most advanced class in the school, had kept up, by their work during the Session, the high character for knowledge and intelligence which they earned last year.

Causewayside School.

There were presented for examination in all 735 children, of whom 219 were Infants, and 516 belonged to the Upper School.

Infant School.—This department works, and was examined in, two divisions. The infants proper, 129 present, were in charge of the mistress. They professed for repetition—Ps. 23, Par. 2, 37, and some texts; and for Scripture Knowledge—Bible stories from the Old and New Testaments. The passages committed were well known and distinctly recited by the class, and the teacher questioned them on the sense with excellent result. There was occasion, in course of this part of the exercise, for referring to a good many rudimentary facts and notions of religion, and the answering of the children was very satisfactory. A Bible lesson was given on the story of the prophet Elijah. The outline of facts appeared familiar to the class, and the teaching was vigorous and interesting. I was much pleased with the order and appearance of this, the youngest division of the school. The Standard I. children of the Infant School, 90 present, and under charge of an assistant teacher, had committed to memory—Par. 41, 42, 43, 44, the Ten Commandments, and some texts; and in Scripture, had gone over the outline of the Book of Genesis, together with the Birth and early Life of our Lord. The repetition (Par. 41 and texts) was correctly and distinctly given. In Scripture, the subject of lesson was the birth and early life of Jesus, on which the answering of the class was both good and general. The exercise was varied by a sample of the mutual questioning occasionally practised by the class, which, in moderation, serves a certain purpose. The section is well handled. The arrangements for working the Infant Department as a whole are the same as I have already had occasion to notice in another school. The principal teacher occupies herself mainly in shaping (so to speak) the youngest and most numerous division, the older being in charge of an assistant. The arrangement is one that commends itself on the condition (always fulfilled in the schools) of the teacher bestowing a certain amount of real supervision on the seniors.

Upper School.—STANDARD I., 74 present, had learnt Par. 41, 42, 43, 44, and the Ten Commandments; and in Scripture had read the Lives of Joseph and Moses, and the early Life of our Lord. The "ragged" and "irregular" element is considerably represented in this Standard: about one-third of it, moreover, had only recently come to school. I therefore entered on its examination with very moderate expectations. Yet that part of it, from whom alone it would have been reasonable to expect anything, did fairly well. Their repetition of Par. 41, 44, and their answering to my questions on the Decalogue, were very creditable, both as to form and as to sense. The young teacher in charge (a pupil-teacher in her third year), examined them on the story of the Life of Moses with great spirit, and they answered in a corresponding way. In answer to myself, moreover, they showed a very fair acquaintance with the facts in the early life of Jesus. I was much pleased with the attention and interest they showed throughout their whole exercise. The pupil-teacher conducts the instruction of the class (as would indeed be necessary) under the supervision of the principal assistant mistress.

STANDARD II., 121 present, is instructed by three pupil-teachers under the immediate supervision of the master. It was examined collectively; one of the pupil-teachers being in charge, who, though a very young teacher, did her share of the work well. The Standard professed for repetition—Par. 40, 41, 42, 44; Matt. v. 1-12, and the Commandments; and in Scripture had gone over the Lives of Jacob and Joseph, the deliverance from Egypt, and the Life of Christ. The profession may be thought, from one point of view, too little, and from another, too much. The repetition is too little of an advance on that of Standard I.; the Life of Christ, without any limitation, is too much. So far as it went, the repetition was well done; the knowledge of our Lord's life (the part selected was the last days of his ministry) was not definite enough. It would be better to limit the profession somewhat, and work over the ground more in detail. As I observed in the case of the preceding Standard, the work of this large section would require substantial supervision.

STANDARD III., present 161, had to be taken for examination in two divisions. From the lower division, which was in charge of a pupil-teacher in her second year, and had 54 present, I took the repetition alone; from the upper, 107 present, under charge of the principal mistress, the Bible-work. The profession was, for memory-work—Par. 30, 34, 38, 40; Shorter Catechism, 1-30, with Luke i. 46-55, and 68-79 added for the highest division, and the former of these two passages added for the middle division; and for Scripture Knowledge, the History of Israel till the Conquest of Canaan, and the Life of Christ (St. Luke's Gospel), specially including the Miracles. The repetition taken from the two lower divisions was Par. 30, 40, and was good both in form and sense; the explanation of the latter Paraphrase being taken with reference to the parable which it embodies. The questions on the Shorter Catechism were answered correctly so far as the text was concerned, but the meaning was not quite so successfully given. In Bible Knowledge, the highest division was examined in the Miracles. There was time to get a general account of eight of these, and to enter a little in detail into two of them, the raising of Lazarus and Christ's walking on the sea. The whole work was effectively done, and gave me a favourable impression of the way in which the division is handled and taught. I could take but a very short specimen of the repetition, viz., Par. 30, 38, but what I heard was given correctly and with readiness.

STANDARD IV., under charge of an assistant teacher, who however has been attached to it only since May, had 86 present. It professed for repetition—Par. 12, 40, 41, 42; Luke i. 46-55, and 68-79; Shorter Catechism, 82-107, and for Bible Knowledge the History of Israel till the Conquest, with the Life of Christ (St. Luke's Gospel), and specially the Parables. They repeated a Paraphrase correctly; their answering on the Catechism, text and meaning, was not more than fair. I thought it right to devote the time I had with this Standard mainly to that part of their work which their present teacher had gone over with them, viz., the Parables of our Lord; of many of these the teacher drew forth from the class a good account, both of the story and of the spiritual meaning. I examined the class myself on two of them specially, the Prodigal Son in connection with the question in the Shorter Catechism on Repentance, and the Pharisee and the Publican in connection with the question on Prayer. Of such questions there can be no better illustration than such parables, and of such parables no better expression of their meaning than such questions. The class answered with interest and intelligence. I have no difficulty in saying that the teacher and class have worked carefully and to good purpose over the portion of Scripture which came under review.

STANDARDS V. VI., with 74 present, are taught together by an assistant teacher, and were examined together. Their profession was, for repetition—Par. 11, 15, 25, 30, 34, 40, 41, 42; prose Ps. ciii., Romans viii. 28-39; Shorter Catechism, the whole, with Proofs 1-20; and for Scripture the two Books of Samuel, and the Gospel of St. Luke. For repetition I chose Ps. ciii. (curiously enough the only Psalm professed over the school), and Romans viii. 28-39. These passages the class said well, the Psalm more particularly. The Catechism was taken up from Question 98 onwards. The text was given off readily and correctly; and in the examination on the sense, conducted in part by their teacher and in part by myself, the class bore their part on the whole with intelligence. The part of their Bible Knowledge selected for examination was the last week of our Lord's public ministry. The result was so far, but not entirely, satisfactory. The class answered well enough the questions they were asked; which were directed, however, very much to those facts on the surface of the narrative with which almost every one is acquainted. It would be reasonable to expect from an advanced class a full, definite, and orderly account of the incidents in the period chosen. From a personal examination of them on the period of the forty days, specially with a view to the evidence of our Lord's resurrection, my impression is that they had gone more minutely into the narrative than the questioning addressed to them elicited, so that teacher and class did not altogether do themselves justice on this particular occasion. If, as I thought, somewhat too general, the teaching is certainly energetic, careful, and zealous.

In this school, as in the case of another school noticed in my report, the working year, as determined by the annual Government inspection, terminates about the middle of February. There is at that time consequently a general change of standards, which has the effect of breaking the year's Bible work into two parts, one of which is conducted by one teacher, the otherby another. I understand there has been besides, for special reasons, a pretty general re-arrangement of teachers in the school since the beginning of May. It is proper to note these circumstances, for whatever appearance the school has made in its Bible examination (and the appearance has been upon the whole satisfactory), they must operate more or less to its disadvantage. The syllabus of study for the year has seemed to me to be not quite sufficient, the several standards not advancing enough upon each other either in memory-work or in Scripture reading. It was explained that each two standards are combined for Religious Instruction, so that doubtless the profession of each will appear to be in one year in arrear, and in another in advance of the average. The apparent deficiency, then, will be made good next year. The printed syllabus of the Board permits combination; still, I take it, in certain circumstances only. Where the standards are numerous and the staff adequate, each should certainly make its own proper profession.

General Remarks.

The total number of children actually present in the five Schools which I examined during the month of June was 4163; of whom 1383 were in the Infant Schools. This may be held to be within a very small fraction of the entire current attendance; the number of pupils who decline Religious Instruction being, so far as I could gather, inappreciably small.

The average amount of time given daily in the schools to Religious Instruction is satisfactory; being from half an hour in the Infant Schools, to forty minutes net in the Upper Schools.

In two cases I have had occasion to notice the fact that the year for Religious Instruction and the year for Secular Instruction do not correspond, owing to the Government inspection in these cases taking place in spring. The fact may very easily become a disadvantage to the former, from the general re-casting of the school classes, which follows immediately upon inspection; it introduces divided responsibility in the matter of the Religious Instruction of all the classes. It is probably impracticable to alter the time of year at which the examination of these schools in Religious Knowledge takes place. But the Head-master can, and doubtless does, do much to diminish the disadvantage, by satisfying himself before the time when the promotion of the several Standards falls due, that their Religious Instruction has been efficiently brought up to date. I have no particular shortcoming to report as manifestly due to the change of classes in question; nor should I be of opinion that the change would be an adequate excuse for shortcoming.

More convenient arrangements on the whole have been made in the schools for the conducting of this examination this year. In almost every case, the several Standards have been examined in the class-rooms attached to the large hall of the schools. It was possible in this way to proceed with the work with more expedition, and certainly more comfort to both examiner and classes, than when it had to be carried on without the desirable isolation. I should be glad to think that it were possible so to arrange that the daily teaching, as well as the annual examination, should share in these advantages.

I have remarked in former reports on the excellence of the repetition or memory-work. It combined accuracy and readiness of verbal statement with a degree of intelligence reasonably proportioned to the age of the pupils. If I am not mistaken, there is some danger that the very success of this exercise may prove a danger to it, by tempting the teachers of classes to overdo it. More than once this season I have been led to think that too much was professed in this way, with the necessary result, that neither the recitation nor the intelligence quite reached their previous high standard of merit. It needs hardly to be said that it would be more satisfactory to restrict the profession to what is thoroughly attainable, than to extend it unduly, and have to account even by a satisfactory excuse for its imperfect fulfilment.

The Shorter Catechism continues to be taught very carefully and very well. If I were to select one part of it that falls below the general level of excellence in handling, I should point to the questions, "What is required?" and "What is forbidden?" under the Commandments. The earlier and later portions of the text, questions 1-39, and questions 81 onwards, are explored with most creditable thoroughness; so also are the Commandments themselves. There is no reason why the same care bestowed on the questions I have named as exceptions should not produce similar results. And certainly there are no questions where the practical and varied illustration of which they so evidently admit, should be found more interesting or more profitable. There is another feature in the handling of the Catechism on which it occurs to me to remark. There are two ways in which its teaching may be connected, as it certainly ought to be connected, with the teaching of Scripture. The one is by the learning of the proofs attached to the several questions. But a high degree of skill in quoting these may co-exist with a moderate degree of insight into that connection after all. With a child mere verbal or logical proof does not count for very much. It would be better, from a teaching point of view, to illustrate the doctrines set forth in the Catechism by reference to the narratives in Scripture. To refer for a moment to an example that occurred in the course of my examination, the question on Repentance and the parable of the Prodigal Son may be thus associated; so the question on Prayer and the parable of the Pharisee and Publican. Such a connection is real, not verbal merely; and, further, it may be worked out over a much larger area of the Catechism than at first sight appears practicable.

The profession of Scripture Knowledge in the Schools is, with hardly an exception, adequate in amount, and judiciously arranged. In the general case, it is worked out in the youngest and most advanced departments with thoroughness and skill. Amongst the middle classes there are occasional signs of weakness; accounted for, doubtless, by the fact that it is with them that the pupil-teachers are mainly occupied. There is the more necessity that the supervision bestowed on their work be systematic and substantial. One or two cases occur to me, in which something more required to be done in the way of testing, confirming, and supplementing the results of their teaching. In some cases the Head-masters have no special classes for Religious Instruction, but devote themselves entirely to superintendence. This middle stratum of the school is commended specially to their attention. In this connection, a remark made last year will bear to be repeated. The 'Life of Christ' is in some cases two indefinite a profession for junior classes. It is apt to be interpreted by their teachers as meaning merely the events of his early life; in which case the knowledge shown by the classes is not greatly in advance of that of the elder infants. It is the exception when the incidents of his later life are expressly professed and adequately answered on. It would be well to divide this profession and specify it with more precision in some such way as suggested last year.

It would not be reasonable to look for a definitely measurable advance each year in a good school. The work of Religious Instruction was well done in the schools to begin with; I think there has been very considerable improvement in the several parts of it during these years of inspection; and it is gratifying to be able to report, now, that it continues to be prosecuted in them all with a degree of vigour and success that merits the confidence of the Board.

The Head-masters and heads of departments have, as usual, given me every assistance in this examination; and I beg to express to them my hearty thanks for their invariable courtesy and attention.

JAMES CURRIE.

EDINBURGH, July 19, 1879.

II.—REPORTS BY MAURICE PATERSON, Esq.

General Remarks.

The schools on which I have this year the honour to report to the Edinburgh School Board are, with the addition of Roseburn, the same as those on which I reported last year.

The examination of the largest schools occupied almost five hours each, the others from four to four and a half hours; two hours sufficed for Roseburn, and one for Holyrood.

The examination was entirely oral, and was conducted on the same lines as in former years. Memory-work was taken first, of which each pupil was required to repeat a larger or smaller portion. Questions followed on the meaning of words, or otherwise testing the children's understanding of what had been committed. On their knowledge of Bible History, etc., the classes were examined first by their respective teachers, and afterwards by myself. As far as was practicable, every individual in each class was examined. It was impossible when two Standards were combined, or the numbers very large, to accomplish this in both memory-work and Bible History, but in every case sufficient time was spent with a class to enable me, as I believe, to form a distinct estimate of its progress.

I. Time devoted to Religious Instruction.—From Schedule I., appended to this report, it will be seen that the amount of time given to Religious Instruction varies, in the Infant School, from thirty to forty-five minutes per diem, in the other Standards from forty to fifty minutes, inclusive in both cases of opening exercises. I am still of opinion that those schools which give forty minutes would do well to increase it to fifty. Time is almost always lost in getting a class fairly under weigh in the morning, and in some schools there are frequent interruptions, so that it becomes almost impossible to overtake in the remaining thirty minutes all that ought to be overtaken in connection with the daily Bible lesson.

II. The Course of Study.—The lateness of the date at which the scheme of study suggested by the late Board came to hand alone, I believe, has prevented its being adopted in its entirety by the teachers. A suggestion regarding the scheme made to me by one of the Head-masters seems worthy of consideration, viz., that if the whole Catechism is undertaken in the highest standards, the amount of memory work otherwise might perhaps with advantage be curtailed.

INFANT DEPARTMENT.—The amount professed seems quite satisfactory. It should be noted, however, that "Outlines of Genesis," and "Early Life of Christ" respectively, mean a very different thing in some schools as compared with others. In some instances those who conduct the infant classes would, I believe, do well to avail themselves of the help furnished by books like Line upon Line, Peep of Day, etc., in teaching on Genesis or the Life of our Lord. Incidents which are too frequently omitted altogether, or disposed of in a single sentence, and so make no impression on the child's imagination, are in these admirable manuals "pictured out," and acquire a reality and solidarity, if I may so call it, that are most important in teaching. In a very few instances unsuitable psalms had been selected.

STANDARDS I. TO VI.—The course of study in the several schools, as detailed in Schedule II. B, shows marked improvement on what I was able to report last year as regards continuity. If the scheme be adhered to in successive years, the pupils will be introduced to a new section of Bible History as they pass from standard to standard. The work done in the earlier stages (e.g. Genesis and Exodus) should again be taken up if possible in the higher Standards more minutely than was desirable in the First and Second, but that I believe can be done without prejudice to the study of the later books. In one instance only the amount professed appears to be too limited. The Life of Joseph is not all that should be professed by the Second Standard, scarcely even by the First, nor the period ending with the conquest of Canaan by the Fourth. These portions have already been studied once, if not twice, and are therefore insufficient as a whole session's work in Old Testament History. Considerable diversity prevails as regards the point in the school curriculum at which the Shorter Catechism is learned. In Standards I. and II. the Commandments may perhaps be sufficient, if the things forbidden and required under each are fully explained. But there is nothing, I believe, to hinder some other portions of the Catechism being mastered by those who are in the Third Standard, and all the more that, in consequence of the thinning that takes place before the higher Standards are reached, if not learned then, they are not likely to be learned at all by a large majority of the pupils.

III. RESULTS OF THE EXAMINATION.—I am happy to be able to report that the high standard of attainment reached by many of the schools last year has been fully maintained, and that in the others very manifest progress has been made. The teachers have evidently done their work conscientiously and well, and both they and their pupils, it seems to me, manifest each year increasingly the laudable ambition to make as favourable an appearance as possible in this department of their work.

The memory-work, with scarcely an exception, was thoroughly well done, and, what is equally important, attention is more uniformly and more successfully directed to the elucidation of the meaning of the portions committed than ever before. Should this state of things be steadfastly maintained from year to year, the improvement as regards intelligence in the higher standards should soon be very perceptible. The first Board, if I mistake not, strongly urged their teachers to insist on distinctness of articulation, and attention to the sense, in the pupils' recitation of their memory-work. I am not sure that these points have this session been so much insisted on in all the schools as they formerly were. Not unfrequently the scholars spoke in a low and indistinct tone, and I found that, in consequence of this, words that were grievously misnamed had sometimes escaped correction from the teachers.

The portions of Old and New Testament History that had been studied were in many instances known with greater minuteness than last year, and gave evidence of having been mastered, as I think ought to be the case, by the pupils Bible in hand. I was especially gratified with the fulness of detail with which, in some classes, the incidents in the lives of Joseph and Moses were known, as also some of the finer points in connection with the Miracles and Parables.

I regret to find that home preparation of the Bible lesson is seldom obtained until the later standards are reached. In some instances, even in the highest standards, only the memory-work was prepared at home. A good many of the pupils, I was told, had no Bibles. I am strongly of opinion that the teachers should be encouraged to foster home preparation in connection with all parts of the Bible teaching at as early a period of school life as possible. I sympathise with the desire to save the Bible from degenerating, in the pupils' esteem, into a mere task-book, still, if they are to be able to use it to purpose in their after life, they ought while at school to be trained to make themselves acquainted with its contents by their own independent work at home. Were it in the first instance proposed as a voluntary exercise to Standard II., to be rewarded by the teacher's approval, that they should read over at home and be ready to answer on some of the more interesting incidents connected with Joseph, Moses, or David, I believe that progress would soon be made in the direction of having it understood that each Bible lesson was to be prepared at home before being taken in the class.

I am not aware whether there is in connection with any of the schools under the Edinburgh Board a teachers' library. For the younger members of the staff of a school I can see great advantage in their having access to books like those of Trench on the Miracles and Parables respectively, and reliable annotations on the Old Testament Books, in order to accuracy, freshness and fulness of explanation in connection with the daily Bible lessons. A simple exposition, and one that could be taught to young children, of the statements of the Psalms, Paraphrases, and Chapters that are most frequently committed to memory, is also a decided desideratum for the guidance and help of the younger teachers.

When pupil-teachers are intrusted with classes, their instruction and discipline continue to be supported by the influence of the Head-master much more than was the case a year or two ago. In some of the schools this cannot yet be done to as great an extent as is desirable. A Head-master cannot readily exchange with a pupil-teacher who is in charge of one of the lower standards, unless the latter's age and professional skill warrant the confidence that he will be able to control the pupils of the highest standards in the master's absence. This again raises the question of the kind of teachers that ought to be available for the lower standards, and my observation during this year's visits to the schools has convinced me that it is one of paramount importance. The Board are doubtless aware that the bulk of the pupils in their schools are found in the infant department and the lower standards. Of about 3600 who were present in the schools when I visited them, not more than between five and six hundred were found in Standards IV. to VI., which are taught either by the Head-master or the Senior Assistant. Undoubtedly this small number of pupils is entitled to the best teaching the schools can give, and, did they not receive it, probably the number would be smaller than it is. On the other hand, the fact that the mass of the children is likely to have the benefit of no more than the first half of the school curriculum (Standards I. to III.) surely makes it extremely desirable that the teaching power of these lower standards should be as strong and efficient as the Board can make it. Practically all the Bible teaching and moral training that the majority of the school children are ever to get are received in these junior classes, and it is therefore matter for regret that in many, perhaps in most instances, the Head-master has no alternative but to intrust them to the comparatively inexperienced, and therefore less efficient, members of the school staff.

It only remains, in closing this report, that I should thank those members of the Board who were kind enough to be present during a portion of the examination in the various schools, and that I should express my sense of the uniform consideration and courtesy which, as on former occasions, I experienced from the Head-masters, teachers, and pupils in all the schools I visited.

Dalry School.

I visited this School on Tuesday, the 17th of June.

INFANT DEPARTMENT, under Miss Sloan, aided by Miss Gilray and pupil-teachers. The Senior Section, with which Miss Sloan more especially charges herself, had 217 in attendance; the Junior, 150.

Senior Section.—The 121st Psalm and the 37th and 60th Paraphrases were well said. The meaning had been carefully attended to. In place of the texts ordinarily given in the Infant room, and which are apt to become meaningless from frequent repetition if a pupil remains two years or more in that department, Miss Sloan had selected brief sentences from the portion of Genesis taken up in the Bible lessons. The incidents in connection with which they occur easily recalled the texts and made them intelligible. The words, at the same time, were capable of being so explained as to be valuable for life and conduct. The passages had been most judiciously selected, and were very well known. Miss Sloan was asked to examine on the Life of Abraham. This she did skilfully, and with the best results, grouping the facts according as they illustrated particular features of character. Those, ex. gr., which showed him to be a man of prayer, were taken first, because suggested by a pupil, then those illustrating his obedience, etc. The answers given on the Lives of Jacob, Esau, and Joseph were also quite satisfactory, and afforded evidence of careful and skilful teaching.

Junior Section.—Fifty of this section had been admitted within the last five weeks. The texts were repeated form by form, the 23d Psalm sung, and the 2d Paraphrase repeated simultaneously. The most of the pupils seemed to join. The pupils answered well on the Flood, Adam, Eve, Eden, etc. Altogether, I was quite satisfied with Miss Gilray's happy way of dealing with these very young children.

STANDARD I.—One section, numbering 64, was under the charge of Miss Anderson, a pupil-teacher in her first year; the other, numbering 21, composed of those who had been very recently admitted, was entrusted to Miss Menzies. Both teachers are earnest and anxious to do well, but they are too young and inexperienced to produce satisfactory results. This is undoubtedly a weak point in the school.

Miss Anderson's section repeated the 8th and 121st Psalms, and the 11th and 37th Paraphrases, with a good measure of accuracy. But the pupils spoke too low, and altogether there was less intelligence manifested than ought to have been. Not much of the meaning had been got. No one could tell what was meant by "aid," "shade," "plains," "sign."

Miss Menzies has had her section only since March. They said the 2d and 37th Paraphrases well, but the 1st, which they also professed, was evidently too difficult, and was not well known.

Miss Anderson examined in a lively style on the Life of Joseph, and was correctly answered by a large number of pupils. The facts about Abraham, however, were little known, as also were many connected with the early Life of Jesus.

STANDARD II. is taught in three sections. The largest, numbering 89, is under the charge of Miss Neil, a certificated teacher; the second, numbering 40, under Miss Rutherford, a pupil-teacher; and the third, numbering 60, under Miss Millar, likewise a pupil-teacher. I omitted to ascertain the precise mode of working the three sections, but the diversity that obtained suggested that they were not all equally subjected to the influence of a trained and experienced teacher. Miss Neil's section repeated the 11th, 30th, and 35th Paraphrases quite correctly, with very few exceptions. Some, but not many, were able to give the meanings of words that occurred in the 11th and 30th.

Miss Rutherford's section repeated the 1st, 100th, and 121st Psalms. Nearly all said correctly the small portion required, and a few had the meaning of such words as were asked.

Miss Millar's section knew the 1st Psalm and the 8th Paraphrase on the whole well.

In Old Testament history, Miss Neil and Miss Rutherford's sections were examined together. The examination by the former on the Life of Joseph dealt with the subject too generally for the Second Standard. A minute examination to which I subjected the pupils individually on the contents of the first few chapters of Exodus, convinced me that there had been much careful teaching, and that, as a whole, the pupils had profited by it. All the questions I put were answered by some members of the class. Many of the questions were missed by a considerable number, but all contributed something. It occurred to me that perhaps there had been less than ought to have been of examination of the individual pupils, taken successively in some definite order. It is not safe to be content with answers only from those who offer when a question is asked.

The third section answered fairly well on "the Temptation" of Jesus, but the facts relating to His Death and Burial were not well known. Probably they would have done better had they been examined on Old Testament history, but the time at my disposal did not admit of it.

STANDARD III., under Miss Croal and a pupil-teacher.—Number present, 120. Miss Croal's section, numbering 83, and that of Miss Law, the pupil-teacher, were examined together. The 2d, 24th, and 90th Psalms, and the 8th chapter of Proverbs were repeated, but by no means with the amount of accuracy which my experience in other schools has shown to be attainable. The first 41 questions of the Catechism were professed, and the earlier portion was said accurately and fluently. One pupil only offered for the 37th, and for some others only a small section of the class. Perhaps as regards memory-work too much had been attempted. In New Testament History the pupils generally answered very well on some of the leading Miracles. The few questions in Old Testament History for which there was time revealed thorough teaching. The map, I was glad to find, was largely made use of.

STANDARD IV., under Mr. Loudon, certificated teacher.—The number present was 74.

The Books of Joshua and Judges had been very thoroughly taught. The answering, both under the teacher's examination and my own, was entirely satisfactory.

In Catechism, the mass of the children answered very well. The meaning also is explained, as far as time admits.

1 Corinthians xiii., and Paraphrases 10 and 14, were said with almost perfect accuracy. I was satisfied also with the pupils' understanding of the sense. Altogether, I was much pleased with the amount of work that had been done by this Standard, and the spirit that seemed to animate both teacher and scholars.

STANDARDS V. and VI., under Mr. Aitken.—The number present was 37. Psalms 103 and 24, in prose, were repeated with almost perfect accuracy. Selected verses also of 1 Corinthians xiii., Psalm 20th (16 lines), and the 33d and 48th Paraphrases, were very well said. The meaning had been thoroughly got. The examination on the Old and the New Testaments alike gave excellent results. In the New Testament the subjects examined on were the Transfiguration, the Healing of the Demoniac Boy, the Parables of Matthew xiii., and that of the Talents, the Temptation, etc. On all, the pupils exhibited a fulness of information and an amount of intelligence that were very gratifying. In examining on 1st Samuel, the class was asked to suggest the connection in which such verses as the following occurred:—"God looketh upon the heart," "Them that honour me I will honour," "Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices as in obeying," etc. In every case some member of the class was able to finish the verse, and give the occasion of its utterance. The test was a tolerably severe one, but not too severe for the intelligent, well-taught pupils to whom it was proposed. As the hour was now late, the examination having occupied five hours, only a few questions in the Catechism could be taken: Repentance, Faith, Effectual Calling, etc. The knowledge of the answers, and the understanding of their import, were both entirely satisfactory.

Dean School.

I visited this school on Tuesday, the 24th of June. The Government Examination having only recently taken place, there had been less time for revisal of the Session's work than in former years.

INFANT DEPARTMENT, under Miss Chalmers, aided by pupil-teachers.—120 Infants were present. The average age is less than formerly, as all who were to be examined in Standard work had been transferred to the Juvenile School. A good many also had only recently been admitted. The 23d and 100th Psalms, and two hymns, were repeated remarkably well, whether a verse each, a line each, or simultaneously. A number of texts had been learned bearing on Truthfulness, Piety, Kindness to Animals, etc. For the most part, those selected seemed rather too long and intricate for the very infantile lips that repeated them, and although the meanings of all the unusual words had been got, it seemed to me doubtful whether the children had much understanding of what they said. The Life of Daniel, and other Old Testament Narratives, had been gone over, with the aid, I was glad to learn, of pictures. The answers on a few of the incidents of Daniel's history were very good, as were also those to questions proposed by myself on the birth and death of Christ. I have much pleasure in referring, as I have had occasion to do more than once in previous reports, to the marked ability, diligence, and success with which Miss Chalmers conducts this department.

STANDARDS I. AND II. take the same work at the Bible hour. They are under the charge of a male pupil-teacher, Mr. Stenhouse, who is at the end of his apprenticeship, and two female pupil-teachers, Misses Wood and Allan, each at the end of their third year. Mr. Duncan exchanges with one or other of the pupil-teachers as often as is practicable. I am sorry that I cannot report favourably of the work of these two Standards. Three Psalms (23d, 100th, and 121st), and three Paraphrases (4th, 11th, and 54th), were repeated, each pupil in turn saying one or two lines, with a fair amount of correctness on the whole. A good many, however, could not do their part, and the majority were neither so ready nor so accurate as, I am happy to say, I generally find the pupils in the Board Schools to be, and as they were in all the other classes of this school. I examined on the meaning of several of the words in the 11th Paraphrase, but with very indifferent results. Those who were asked answered on the first ten questions of the Shorter Catechism promptly and well. The Ten Commandments had not been generally mastered. Occasionally a dozen or eighteen children had to be passed as unable to say the commandment that was required.

The Life of Joseph had been studied, and the pupils were examined on it by Miss Wood. She taught in a tolerably lively and earnest style, and brought out a good deal of general information on the subject; when the pupils, however, were taken individually in succession, there were large patches of the class from whom little or nothing could be got, especially when anything more than the outstanding facts were asked for. Miss Allan examined on the birth of Jesus, and on the usual topics received a considerable number of answers. When facts respecting the death and burial of Christ, which had also been studied, were required, the ignorance was nothing less than lamentable. Calvary, Joseph of Arimathea, Pilate, Herod, and how they were respectively connected with the death of our Lord, scarcely any of the pupils knew.

I omitted to mention that the number present was 132, which, however, is smaller by about 14 than the number ordinarily in attendance. So large a number, I may venture to submit to the Board, composed largely of pupils whose home influences are unfavourable, and whose attendance is consequently irregular, cannot be efficiently instructed in a subject like Bible by pupil-teachers alone, even with the interposition of the Head-master at such times as he can be spared from his own class, and the general business of the school. No home preparation I am told can be exacted, and unless the teacher in charge of a class or section have the authority which age and experience give, little or nothing will be learned in school. The pupils were not interested, and on the day of examination manifested little or no desire to do well.

STANDARDS III. AND IV., under Miss Alexander, Certificated Assistant.—The number present was 84.

The memory-work of the two Standards was different, but in Catechism and Bible History the ground gone over was the same. Standard III. gave evidence of having learned very thoroughly four Psalms (88th, 122d, 123d, 124th), and three Paraphrases (44th, 46th, 60th). The 88th Psalm, I would suggest, is scarcely a suitable one to be committed. Standard IV. went over the whole or portions of four Psalms (5th, 14th, 20th, 61st), and four Paraphrases (33d, 37th, 39th, 42d), with scarcely any failure or even mistake. Both Standards, while leaving scarcely anything to be desired in the way of accuracy of repetition, might have done this part of their work more slowly and distinctly, and so as to give more evidence than they did of all being intelligently done. Examination on the meaning of one of the portions gave very good results in the Third Standard, not nearly so good in the Fourth.

Thirty-nine questions in the Shorter Catechism were professed by all except eleven pupils, whose parents had claimed exemption. The repetition of the answers was very well done, especially towards the beginning of the Catechism. The meaning of many of the statements had been explained, and was well understood. Twelve chapters of John's Gospel had been very thoroughly studied (at least the historical parts), and the ready answers on the deputation to John, the testimony of John to Jesus, the incidents relating to Peter's first interview, Philip, Nathaniel, the Miracle at Cana, the Cleansing of the Temple, the Woman at the Well, and the Healing of the Impotent Man, gave me much satisfaction. All the class was interested, places were pointed out on the map, and altogether I felt that excellent work had been done. In Old Testament History the results were on this occasion not quite so favourable as I think they were last session, but still they were such as to show careful and skilful teaching.

I was sorry to learn from Miss Alexander that little in the way of home preparation could be relied on in connection with the Bible History, in consequence, she assured me, of the want of Bibles on the part of many of the pupils, and unfavourable home circumstances. In my view the habit of reading the Bible histories at home, as soon as the pupils are able to do it with intelligence, is one of the most valuable that can be formed at school.

STANDARDS V. AND VI., under Mr. Esdaile Duncan, the Headmaster.—The number present was 30. Here, as in the previous standard, it is my pleasing duty to report the eagerness manifested by the great bulk of the pupils to do credit to their teacher, which was all the more gratifying that they had been waiting their turn for a considerable time, and had been detained for at least an hour beyond the ordinary hour of dismissal. They might reasonably have been out of temper, and made themselves troublesome, but there was no symptom of either, and they would, I believe, have been disappointed if they had not had ample opportunity to show what they had learned. All parts of the memory-work were tested—five Psalms (5th, 7th, 14th, 20th, and 29th); four Paraphrases (33d, 37th, 39th, 42d); Proverbs, chapter viii., and John xv., and with one or two exceptions the repetition, as on former occasions, was remarkably good. Examining on 1st Kings the Headmaster took the earlier part of Solomon's reign, while I asked about the separation of the Kingdoms, Jeroboam's History and Sins, Elijah, etc. At all these points of the history, the pupils' knowledge was accurate and full. In New Testament History, Mark's Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles had both been studied. The answers on the portions of Mark examined on were good, those on Acts as in former years exceedingly good. In the latter they were asked about Stephen, Cornelius, Paul's journeys (1st and 2d), his shipwreck, and his appearance before kings and rulers, and at all these points the answers were most satisfactory.

I would again refer with approbation to Mr. Duncan's plan of requiring his pupils to draw illustrative maps of the portion of Bible History they are studying. On this occasion I saw maps executed by the older pupils in which the principal places referred to in Mark were indicated, and others containing the journeyings of the Apostle Paul.

Only a few minutes could be spared for Shorter Catechism. I was greatly pleased with the accuracy with which the answers were repeated and explanations given.

Deanhaugh Street School.

The examination of this School was taken on Tuesday the 15th of July.

THE INFANTS AND PART OF STANDARD I. under Miss Mackenzie, assisted by two pupil-teachers.—The number present was 103, of whom 29 were new-comers, and accordingly were not presented. The Psalms (23d and 121st) and Paraphrases (2d and 37th) that were professed were repeated with almost perfect accuracy. The meaning also had, more or less, been got. By Standard I. the Commandments were said very well indeed. The examination, both on Old Testament and New revealed careful and successful teaching. Some of the leading facts relating to the miracles of Christ had been taught in an interesting and memorable fashion.

STANDARD I.—Upper Section under Miss Mitchell, pupil-teacher in her third year.—The number present was 20. Two Psalms (1st and 8th) and two Paraphrases (2d and 37th) were repeated almost quite perfectly. The mistakes made consisted chiefly in the misnaming of words, a point that requires to be very carefully watched. The following is a specimen of a kind of mistake that was made several times over in this Standard and in some of those above it.

In the third verse of the 37th Paraphrase a boy substituted "David's life" for "David's line," and then in the fourth line, in order to preserve the rhyme, he substituted "sife" for "sign." In another Standard, in the 42d Paraphrase, "prophecy divine" was substituted for "providence divine." A few had got the meaning very well, but a good many could not answer much on it. The Ten Commandments were very well repeated, and simple applications of them to ordinary life well understood. In Old Testament History, on which alone there was time for examination, some of the pupils answered thoroughly well, but there was a considerable residuum from whom little could be got.

STANDARD II., under Miss Scott, pupil-teacher in her fifth year. The number present was 48. The 100th and 121st Psalms and 33d and 42d Paraphrases were repeated almost quite perfectly, each giving a little in turn. The errors again consisted in the misnaming or misplacing of words. Not so much of the meaning had been got as I could have desired. The Commandments also were correctly repeated. The teacher's examination on the Birth of Jesus, His visit to the Temple, and Baptism by John, showed that the knowledge of the pupils on these points was quite satisfactory. They answered also fairly well on "the Temptation," "Transfiguration," and Death of Jesus. A few of the pupils did very much better than others. In Old Testament History the Life of Jacob was very well known, that of Moses not quite so well. I was satisfied that the work of this Standard had been done with great care, earnestness, and a considerable amount of skill. Altogether the impression left on my mind was very much more favourable than last year.

STANDARD III., under Mr. Philip Anderson, a pupil-teacher in his fourth year. The number present was 31.

A considerable amount of memory-work was professed, and, for the most part, was very well said. The 146th Psalm and Mary's Song were less perfectly known than the other portions. My experience in other Schools shows that the Psalms, etc., may be so mastered as not to require the suggestion of the first word of the successive verses by the teachers, and I am of opinion that the pupils should be required to be independent of this help. The meaning had only partially been got. Examination on the Life of Moses and the first two plagues showed that the teaching had been thorough, minuter points being known in addition to the more outstanding facts. On the miracles of Christ one boy and one girl answered remarkably well, a good many others well, some, probably new-comers or irregular attenders, poorly. With this Standard's work also I was much better satisfied than last session.

STANDARDS IV., V., and VI. were examined together. The Fourth Standard has been taught by Mr. Topping, a pupil-teacher in his fourth year, the Fifth and Sixth by the Head-master, Mr. Gloag, who however has this session been able very frequently to exchange with the pupil-teachers in charge of the lower Standards. There were present in the Fourth Standard 28, and in the Fifth and Sixth 12 pupils. The repetition of all three Standards embraced an extensive field, and had been very well mastered. I had a specimen of each portion of it, including the 53d of Isaiah and the last of Ecclesiastes from the Fourth Standard, and the 103d Psalm, in prose, and 8th of Proverbs, from the Fifth and Sixth Standards. I was glad to find the meaning also of the chapters of Isaiah and Ecclesiastes on the whole well understood. The answers on the most outstanding facts in the Book of Judges were given readily and correctly, as also on the two first chapters of Joshua. The Fifth and Sixth Standards answered exceedingly well on various parts of 1st Samuel. The leading facts had been thoroughly mastered. In New Testament there was time only for a brief examination on some of the leading Parables. The pupils' knowledge of the meaning of several examined on was less full and precise than I could have wished. Otherwise this part of the session's work, like the Old Testament History, was entirely satisfactory.

The progress made by this School since last session has been very marked. The circumstances of the building are not favourable, and results equal to those reached in the best of the Board Schools are probably not attainable. The success that has been this year achieved reflects the greatest credit on all the teaching staff. To a large extent it is due, I believe, to the frequent interchanges of the Head-master with his pupil-teachers.

Holyrood Infant School.

I visited this School on Thursday the 10th of July. The pupils are arranged in two sections, a higher, in which 83 were present, and a lower, with 53 in attendance. The 23d Psalm and three Paraphrases (the 2d, 43d, and 54th) were professed, and were repeated, each pupil giving one or two lines in turn, with scarcely any mistake. A good many showed that they had also learned something of the meaning of the verses. In the lower section, where the children are very young, the repetition was taken simultaneously, and all, except those who had only recently come to the school, took part. The older pupils also repeated, and answered simple questions on the Commandments very creditably indeed. Both sections answered on Old Testament History very well. The early Life of Christ, the ministry of John the Baptist, and in a general way the Miracles of Christ, were very well known.

I was satisfied that a large amount of diligent and successful work had been done by Mrs. Anderson and her pupil-teachers. The results, I am happy to be able to report, were very considerably in advance of those of last year, and seemed to me, in the circumstances, to be quite satisfactory.

North Canongate School.

When I visited this School it had been open for only 18 weeks. Owing to a mistake, I visited it a few weeks earlier than I needed to have done, and the teachers had no time for sufficient revisal of the work gone over.

INFANT DEPARTMENT, under Miss Brander.—There were present in the lower section 57, in the upper 36. Miss Brander charges herself specially with the lower section; Miss Bonnar, Certificated Assistant, takes the upper.

In the lower section the 23d Psalm and 2d Paraphrase were well said, and the meaning given. Verses learned incidentally in connection with the portions taken up in Genesis were correctly repeated, in answer to the teacher's questions. The teaching seemed to me skilful, and the light in which the incidents were presented seemed likely to interest the pupils and make them memorable. A greater fulness of particulars at some points would have been desirable.

The senior section under Miss Bonnar did very well indeed in examination on the 23d and 100th Psalms, and the 2d Paraphrase. The meaning of the verses learned had been carefully impressed. On both Old and New Testament History the pupils answered very well, considering that the class is still only being formed.

STANDARD I., since April under Mr. Bell.—The number present was 80, of whom, however, 26 had been in attendance less than two weeks. The irregularity of the pupils of this Standard has been such, that 40 notices of absence, on an average, are, I am informed, sent home every day. Everything considered, the repetition of three Psalms (23d, 100th, and 121st) and three Paraphrases (2d, 4th, and 11th), was fairly well done. On the part of some of the pupils a measure of understanding of the meaning was shown. In Old and New Testament History, the results were only fairly satisfactory. The material on which Mr. Bell has had to operate is probably as bad as is to be found in any school, but judging from what I saw of his method and the admirable results I was able to report when he was in Stockbridge, I have not the least doubt that very soon the work done in this Standard will merit strong commendation.

STANDARD II., under Miss MacIvor.—The number present was 80, of whom however 26 had been present less than two months. Matthew v. 1-12, 1 Cor. xiii., and two Paraphrases (4th and 11th), were said very well indeed. All who were presented took part, and among these there were scarcely any failures. The meaning of a good many of the words had not been so generally mastered as I could have wished. One boy, David Archer, both in this department of the work and afterwards, arrested my attention by the singularly intelligent answers which he gave. The Ten Commandments were correctly repeated. I was much pleased with the result of the examination on New Testament History, so far as it had been studied. I got an answer from nearly every pupil as they were asked individually in succession. There was little time for the Old Testament, but what I saw of the work was good.

STANDARDS III. and IV. have for some time been taken by Mr. Swanston, the Head-master, 73 were in attendance, but of these 32 had been admitted within the last two months. Five Psalms (23d, 93d, 100th, 121st, 130th), four Paraphrases (2d, 4th, 11th, 27th), Luke i. 46-55, and Isaiah, 53d chapter, were repeated, each pupil saying a little. The repetition of this large amount of work was exceedingly well done, scarcely any failing to do their part. It showed very conclusively how much could be accomplished within a comparatively short period under energetic and devoted teaching. Nor had the meaning been neglected. In connection with the 11th and 27th Paraphrases the pupils were asked about such words as wisdom, choice, celestial, refuge, grace, humble, hallowed, etc., and more or less generally over the class all were known. In testing the pupils' understanding of Isaiah 53d, I asked the verses that referred to the burial of Christ, His triumph, man's sin, etc., and got them promptly and correctly. The examination on the Wanderings in the Wilderness and the Parables gave on the whole very satisfactory results. The Parable of the Husbandman was not so well known, but the answers were thoroughly good on the Lost Sheep, the Lost Money, the Prodigal Son, the Sower and the Tares. Throughout, the work done was shown to have been very thorough, and an excellent spirit was manifested by the pupils. Nearly every boy and girl of those who were examined seemed anxious to do well.

STANDARDS V. and VI. These Standards have received their Bible teaching from Miss Ligertwood. 32 were present, but 4 had newly joined the class. Romans viii. 28-39, Psalm 103d, in prose, Psalm 145th (metrical version), and two Paraphrases (the 30th and 54th), were repeated in a very creditable style. The meaning also, as tested in various ways, was well understood. In Shorter Catechism the answers were given very accurately by the great majority of the pupils. In a general way the meaning was understood, but not with the minuteness that I think to be desirable. I was much pleased with the way in which the first portion of 1st Samuel and 12 chapters of Luke had been mastered. Miss Ligertwood's kind and gentle manner, combined as it is with entire control of her pupils, seemed to me peculiarly well adapted for effective Bible teaching, and I felt convinced that, during her four or five months' connection with this class, excellent work had been done.

Roseburn School.

I examined this School on Thursday the 19th of June. I found in attendance 59 in the Infant Department and Standard I., and 30 in Standard II. The existence of a second Standard in this School dates only from December last.

INFANT DEPARTMENT and STANDARD I., under Miss Donaldson and pupil-teacher.—The 23d Psalm; 2d, 54th, and 64th Paraphrases were well said by all, except those who had been admitted since May. Simple and interesting explanations accompanied the repetition. A few texts and the Commandments were said by a considerable number. The examination by the teacher on the first three chapters of Genesis gave unusually good results. Each point had evidently been presented in a form level to the children's capacity, and made interesting to them, so that more was known than perhaps might have been expected. Considering their age, the pupils answered remarkably well on some of the principal miracles of Christ. The principal teachings of each had also been given.

STANDARD II., under Miss Donaldson and a pupil-teacher.—Five of the pupils had been admitted since May, and were not examined. Psalm 63d, and the 11th and 60th Paraphrases, were repeated with scarcely any mistake. The meaning had been more or less explained. Still the answering was not so good as I could have wished. The Beatitudes were almost perfectly said, and a good deal of the meaning had been got. Questions 39 to 62 in the Shorter Catechism were said with singular correctness, considering the intricacy of some of the later answers.

The results were equally satisfactory when the pupils were examined on the Lives of Jacob and Joseph, the early Life of Christ, and some of His Miracles. The incidents had evidently been presented in a simple and vivid style, with considerable fulness of detail, and consequently they remained in the children's memories, and were easily recalled. There were traces also of all the instruction having been imparted with a moral and spiritual purpose definitely in view.

Altogether the work in this school has been most conscientious, skilful and successful.

St. Leonard's School.

I visited this School on Tuesday the 3d of June.

THE INFANT DEPARTMENT is taught in three Divisions. The first and second include the children under five and seven respectively, the third those who are to be presented in Standard I. Miss Prentice, the teacher of the third division, was absent ill. On the day of examination there were present in all 188.

Division I. said the hymns they had committed, two lines each, quite correctly. A number of texts also had been learned, which were brought out in an interesting and instructive style. A great deal of pains and care had evidently been expended on these little children.

In the higher division the six hymns that had been learned were gone over. A few repeated simultaneously; the other pupils did a little each. The result was quite satisfactory. Texts each beginning in succession with a letter of the alphabet were also well said, and seemed to be understood. In Bible History the large proportion answered very well. The Board, I doubt not, are aware of the disadvantages under which Miss Cameron labours in the present Infant Room. In view of these disadvantages the success of her work does her very great credit.

STANDARD I., under Miss Gilchrist, is still taught in the hall at a little distance from the main building. Eighty were present on the day of examination; three of these had only recently been admitted. Three Psalms (1st, 8th, and 23d) and a Paraphrase (the 2d) were repeated, each saying a small portion. It was done extremely well; there were no failures. The meaning also of many of the words had been got by a considerable number. The Ten Commandments had been mastered, and were well said in small portions by each in turn. Genesis was professed. Abraham, at my request, was taken as the subject of examination. The teacher's handling of it and the pupils' answers were alike entirely satisfactory. The latter also showed that they had received earnest and careful teaching when tested on the Lives of Jacob and Esau in Old Testament History, and of John Baptist and Christ in the New Testament. Last Session the work of this Standard was highly satisfactory. I think there is advance this year.

STANDARD II. is taught in two Divisions, the lower by Miss Thallon; the upper, till April 30, had been under Mr. Davidson; since 12th May it had been in charge of Miss Swan. Both Divisions were examined together. In the lower Division 70 were present; in the upper 59. About a dozen of the pupils do not appear at the daily Bible Lesson. Three Psalms (8th, 19th, 20th), the 11th Paraphrase, and the Beatitudes (Matt. v. 1-12), were repeated in small portions, each pupil taking part, with almost perfect correctness. Not more than half-a-dozen failed to do what was required. The meaning of the words in Matt. v. was better understood than of several in the 19th Psalm. Not many seemed to attach any definite meaning to such expressions as "declare God's glory," "God's law is perfect," "converts the soul," etc. Miss Thallon explained that, as almost no home work could be exacted, little time was left for explaining at any length the meaning of what is learned. I would venture to suggest the plan of first explaining in a popular way the verses, clause by clause, and then having them committed. It would in the long-run, I believe, lighten the labour. The Ten Commandments were said in detached portions, and with satisfactory correctness. The teacher's examination on the Life of Jacob and the early Life of Christ gave good results. A good many of the pupils did not know portions of what was professed so well as I think ought to have been.

In addition to what I have already said of the difficulties to be overcome in connection with this Standard, it should be mentioned that the teacher of one of the divisions had been four times changed since the 3d of September, and that there had been almost no time for revisal in preparation for my visit.

STANDARD III. under Mr. M'Caull.—Present 91. Four Psalms (8th, 19th, 20th, 51st) were repeated. I was able to go more than once round the Class, each pupil giving a line, occasionally a whole verse. Scarcely anything could have been better than the way in which this exercise was done. Thirty verses from the Book of Proverbs had been committed, and were elicited successfully under such heads as verses teaching Obedience, Avoidance of Evil Companions, Moral Virtues, watchfulness in regard to Wine, etc. In Catechism from the 82d to the end was the portion professed. The earlier answers were thoroughly well given, and the meaning was in part understood. Of the Parables which had been studied, "the Marriage of the King's Son," "the Tares," "the Mustard Seed," "the Leaven," and "the Prodigal Son," were examined on in succession, and it was gratifying to find that not only were the broad outlines of the various stories known, but likewise the minuter details on which the interest for children so much depends. In Old Testament History the pupils answered thoroughly well on the Deliverance from Egypt, the earlier journeyings in the Wilderness, the incidents with which Aaron was connected, the spies, compassing Edom, crossing the Jordan, and the taking of Jericho. Were a little more done in the way of securing that the scholars thoroughly understand the meaning of what is learned in the Psalms and Catechism, I would regard the work of this Standard as being nearly everything that I could desire.

STANDARDS IV. V. and VI., under the Head-master, Mr. Andrew. There were present in all 78, of whom 4 were in the Sixth Standard. The amount of memory-work was very large. I heard a specimen of all the various portions of it, including Isaiah 53d, the last chapter of Ecclesiastes, Psalm 103d in prose, five Paraphrases, and one or two Psalms. With the exception of the 27th Psalm, all was excellently well done, both as regards accuracy, and, what is much rarer, distinct and intelligent utterance. The questions in the Catechism, 1 to 39, were remarkably well said by Standards IV. and V.; those after the 82d not quite so well. Nearly all the questions asked on the meaning of expressions in the answers on Prayer and Repentance were answered. In Old Testament History the teacher examined on Saul and the earlier portion of David's history. Every eye was fixed on the teacher, and all the pupils sought to help forward the lesson to the best of their ability. The teacher required them to think, and altogether the style of teaching was very admirable. On whatever portion of 1st Samuel they were examined, the answers were exceedingly good. The results were no less satisfactory when the subject of examination was the Life of Jesus at Nazareth, His trial, crucifixion, resurrection, etc.

As in my last report, I am glad to be able to speak in the strongest terms of Mr. Andrew's own work, and of the high state of efficiency of the whole of this large school.

West Fountainbridge School.

I visited this large school on Wednesday the 2d of July.

INFANT DEPARTMENT, under Miss Vallance.—In Section II. there were present 171 children. The 23d Psalm and a Hymn had been learned, the latter of which was repeated. A large number of texts also on a great variety of subjects had been committed, and when suggested to the pupils by the teacher giving the first word they were readily and accurately said. It occurred to me that the children's intelligence would be slightly more exercised, were the subject with which the text deals named, rather than simply the first word. The questions put by Miss Vallance as well as by myself on Old Testament History were well answered.

SECTION I. is slightly in advance of Section II. It is taught by Miss Lambert. 73 were present. Two Psalms (1st and 2d), the 6th Paraphrase, and a Hymn were said. Perhaps both the Psalms selected (certainly the 2d) are too difficult for an infant class, and consequently were not accurately said by a considerable number. Answers to questions on Moses, Samuel and David were not so generally given as I could have wished. I was satisfied, however, that there had been careful and faithful teaching.

Another division of this section, and slightly in advance of Miss Lambert's, is taught by Miss Sharp. There were present 69. The same work was professed as in the other division. The memory-work was much more accurately done. The meaning also of such words as potter, sherd, ire, as well as of the statements made in the 2d Psalm, had been successfully explained. The examination on David, and a small portion of the Life of Christ, gave decidedly good results.

STANDARD I. has been under Mr. Thos. Paterson since the beginning of January. The number present was 104. Three Paraphrases (2d, 11th, 12th) were professed. They were repeated with a fair measure of accuracy. On the whole the pupils answered very well on Old and New Testament History. I was satisfied that a good deal of valuable instruction had been given, but better results might, I think, be produced in the memory-work.

STANDARD II., under Mr. Peattie.—Number present 145. Three Psalms (15th, 19th, 33d) were repeated, each pupil in turn saying one or two lines. It was very gratifying to find that scarcely any mistake was made, although the number presented was so large, and still more that the meaning, as far as there was time to test it, had been thoroughly mastered. For the sake of variety the 43d Psalm was sung. All seemed to take part. The answers on the Ten Commandments were not quite so good. On "the Transfiguration," and "the Temptation," in New Testament History, and certain portions of the Life of Joseph in the Old Testament, the pupils answered quite satisfactorily. I was much pleased with the spirit manifested by the class, especially with the desire evinced to make as good an appearance in the examination as possible. Taken along with the favourable results referred to above, it was evidence of good, conscientious work done by the teacher throughout the Session.

STANDARD III. is taught in three classes. The boys, numbering 47 on the day of examination, are under Mr. Matthew Sanderson, a pupil-teacher in his fourth year; the girls are in two classes, and taught by Miss Bell and Miss Masson, pupil-teachers, who are now at the end of their apprenticeship. In Miss Bell's class there were present 38; in Miss Masson's, which is not quite so advanced, the number was 31.

MR. SANDERSON'S CLASS.—I was much pleased with all that I saw of this class. The memory-work (Psalm 91st, Paraphrases 34th and 37th, Mary's Song, and a considerable number of Proverbs) was done with scarcely a single failure. The meaning also seemed to have been successfully got. The results in Old Testament History and the principal Miracles were almost equally good.

Miss Bell and Miss Masson's classes were examined together. In repetition there was scarcely any failure. My examination on the meaning of the 91st Psalm gave results that were quite satisfactory. The knowledge of the portion of Old Testament History that was professed was not quite so thorough as I could have wished. On the whole, both classes did better in the examination on the Miracles of Christ. In both Old and New Testament History Miss Masson's class did slightly better than Miss Bell's.

STANDARD IV., BOYS, under Mr. Duke.—The number present was 53. The whole of the 5th chapter of Matthew was professed and said with a very large amount of accuracy. Nor was the exercise one of memory only. The various subjects treated of in the chapter were known by the pupils, and were in turn made to suggest any verse that had for the moment escaped their memory. The meaning of such expressions as "ye are the light of the world," "the salt of the earth," "agree with thine adversary quickly," and the like, was well explained. Specimen verses only could be taken of the Psalms and Paraphrases, six in number, that were professed. Here also everything was said with very great accuracy. In Bible History equally good work had been done. The Parables of "the Sower," and the others in Matthew xiii., "the Pharisee and Publican," and "the Talents," were minutely examined on. Both as regards the details of the Parables themselves and their significance, I found the pupils thoroughly well instructed.

STANDARD IV., GIRLS, under Miss Mitchell.—The number present was 67. Two Psalms (57th and 65th), two Paraphrases (52d and 63d), and Matthew v. 1-12 were repeated exceedingly well. There was scarcely a single failure. All the meanings also of individual words or expressions that were asked were answered. The importance of having the meaning had evidently been impressed on the pupils, and they were most enthusiastic in their desire to show that they had it. On Joshua and Judges some answered exceedingly well, but the knowledge was not quite so generally diffused as I could have desired. The same remark applies to the Parables. Thirty-nine questions of the Shorter Catechism were professed, and were repeated and explained in a very creditable style. Miss Mitchell's teaching on this occasion, as before, had evidently been of a most careful, painstaking and successful kind.

STANDARDS V. AND VI., under Miss Cuthbertson.—The number present was 57. Three Psalms (34th, 116th, and 124th) and three Paraphrases (15th, 39th, and 58th) were repeated by the majority of the class quite correctly. The first word of the successive verses however was more frequently suggested by the teacher than is generally found necessary, and very probably was not required. The meaning also had been well got on the whole. In Catechism, from the 98th to the end, with the proofs, had been learned. The answers were repeated quite correctly, and the proofs also when the first words were suggested. The selection of the questions from the 98th to the end to be committed along with the proofs seems to me to be open to objection. If in the Catechism the Lord's Prayer alone is to be studied, the proofs might I think be dispensed with. There seems no reason why the highest Standards should not face the doctrinal parts of the Catechism. In Old Testament History, the Temple had been selected as the only subject of study—its building, destruction, and rebuilding. There are advantages in confining the attention of the older pupils to some limited range of topics, if they are led thereby thoroughly to master all that is embraced within it. I was disappointed however to find that in this case the pupils' knowledge on all the points was superficial. The teacher's strength had evidently been laid out in the study of John's Gospel. I examined on all parts of it, and in every case the result was highly satisfactory. The subject-matter of the principal discourses was known, and illustrative verses readily quoted by the pupils, ex. gr., from that with Nicodemus, with the woman at the well, from the allegory of the Good Shepherd, and the words spoken to Pilate at the trial of Jesus. Such a knowledge as the pupils showed that they possessed of a Gospel like that of John would alone warrant the conclusion that diligent and effective work had been done with these Standards throughout the Session.

Altogether the results of the examination have been on this occasion greatly in advance of those attained at the same time last year, and evince a very high state of efficiency throughout the school.

West Port School.

I visited this school on Thursday the 12th of June. The average attendance for the week ending May 16th was 283, May 23d, 260, May 30th, 238, June 6th, 254, June 12th, 280. The disadvantage under which the teachers laboured in revising with a view to the examination, will at once be obvious.

INFANT DEPARTMENT.—DIVISION II., under a pupil-teacher at the end of her first year, superintended by Miss Robertson.—Number present 62, of whom 12 had come to school since "the term." A number of texts and a hymn were well repeated. The plan of asking pupils to give a text on a particular subject, ex. gr., obedience, lying, or the like, is better than a general invitation to repeat a text. It secures a certain amount of intelligence in regard to the meaning. It should not be assumed that even phrases so simple as "obey your parents," "learn of me," suggest ideas to young children's minds. On Old and New Testament History the answering was pretty good.

DIVISION I., under Miss Robertson.—Number present 63, of whom 7 had joined since the end of May. A large number of texts, the 23d Psalm, the 2d Paraphrase, and a Hymn, were very well repeated. With scarcely any exception, each in turn gave the line or two that were required. In Bible History, the examination on the raising of Lazarus and the healing of the Impotent Man gave very good results; that on some parts of Abraham's life not so good. The incidents connected with the offering up of Isaac and some other points were well known.

The teaching of this department is in my opinion thoroughly good. Frequent revisal of ground gone over in the Bible History, when each child in turn is required to answer, and not merely those who have their hands out, may be recommended.

JUVENILE DEPARTMENT.—DIVISION IV., STANDARD I., under a pupil-teacher at the end of her third year.—Number present 56, of whom, however, several were new-comers.

The texts professed were longer than in the Infant Department; they were very well said. The 1st and 133d Psalms, and the 37th Paraphrase, were repeated by all in turn (excepting a very few), with commendable accuracy. The knowledge of the portions professed of Old and New Testament History was only general, and sometimes imperfect. The answers were good on what was taken by the teacher. The circumstances of both the pupils and the school are unfavourable; still definiteness in regard to the incidents of the History, and frequent reiteration should impress the Lives of Esau, Ishmael, etc., more permanently on the pupils' minds.

DIVISION III., STANDARD II., under Mr. James Hastie, a pupil-teacher at the end of his fourth year, the Head-master exchanging with him from time to time.—Number present 31. Psalm 137th, and Paraphrases 1st, 11th, and 41st, were repeated with perfect accuracy, except by those who had been members of the class for a few weeks only. The examination on the meaning of the 41st Paraphrase gave pretty good results. The Beatitudes also were recited with almost perfect accuracy. In Catechism from the 39th to the 82d was professed, and the earlier portion was thoroughly well said. The meaning in a general way had been more or less got. A great amount of hard and persevering work must have been expended before results so satisfactory could have been attained. In Old and New Testament History some were found, in almost every instance, able to give the required answers, but I could have wished that the knowledge of the subject had been more generally distributed.

DIVISION II., STANDARD III., under Mr. William Dalgleish, a pupil-teacher at the end of his second year.—Number present 20. Four Paraphrases (11th, 26th, 37th, and 44th), selected Proverbs, and the last third of the Shorter Catechism, were well known by about half of the class, by the others imperfectly. A good deal was known of the miracles of Christ, and of the journeyings of the Israelites, but not so fully as could have been desired.

DIVISION I., STANDARDS IV. AND V., under Mr. Robertson, Head-master.—Number present 23. I heard the pupils repeat four Psalms (8th, 12th, 19th, 34th), two Paraphrases (40th and 41st), the 53d chapter of Isaiah, and the last chapter of Ecclesiastes. Scarcely any error was made, and every pupil did well. This part of the work was as well done as in any of the schools I visited. When tested for intelligence, the results were on the whole good. The Shorter Catechism also (1 to 38) had been very well learned. The teacher makes a point of explaining the answers both in themselves and in their connections so far as time admits. The specimen of this exercise which I heard suggested that it was likely to be of material value to the pupils. A tolerably exhaustive examination on Joshua and Judges gave excellent results. The map was constantly referred to, and altogether the style of teaching was of a superior kind. Owing to the lateness of the hour, only a few questions on the New Testament Parables could be asked. From the answers given, the pupils, I believe, would have shown, if there had been opportunity, equally satisfactory acquaintance with this part of their work as with the Old Testament History.

Taking the school as a whole, I am happy to be able to report marked improvement as compared with last year. Considering the class of children which attend it, their irregularity, the disadvantages of the school premises, and the fact that the staff for all the Standards consists only of pupil-teachers, I feel strongly that Mr. Robertson deserves hearty commendation for the large measure of success he has achieved.
